Will Be Used For Science Equipment

Board Moves For Funds Under U.S. Defense Act

The Board of Education Monday night authorized an application for funds being made available under the National Defense Act for the purchase of science, mathematics and language equipment.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the board the funds are being made through the State Department of Education on a matching basis.

Originally set at $11 for each approved teaching unit, the allowance was increased late last week to $32 per unit, which would allow the board to purchase more than $13,000 worth of equipment for about $6,600, Betts said.

HOWEVER, there is not sufficient money available to take advantage of the entire allotment, the superintendent explained, and the state department has given permission to make an application now and then supplement it before Dec. 31 if the funds become available.

Betts said the application will be submitted on the original basis ($11 per unit) with all of the equipment being purchased for the science departments. A breakdown would show $2,173 being spent on equipment for elementary grades and $2,138 for science equipment in the high school. The board's share would be approximately $2,155.

The board deferred action on the disposition of the former West End School pending further investigation. The school was abandoned when Westgate School was opened several years ago.

A contract for the construction of a fire escape at Lincoln School was awarded to the Potters Construction Co. of Calcutta on its low bid of $3,481. Floyd C. Cox of East Liverpool asked $4,598 and Vangler Metal Products of Columbus $5,000.

Construction of the fire escape was ordered by the state following an inspection of the building.

APPOINTMENT of three teachers to the staff along with 11 for summer school was approved.

The new instructors are Mary Underwood as girls' physical education teacher in the high school. Rita McNinch as home economics teacher in the junior high school and Sara Jane McKinney as an elementary teacher.

The board also approved payment of an additional $100 to the girls' physical education teacher as coach of the cheerleaders.

The summer school appointments, all regular members of the staff, are Bert Dawson, Milton Watson, Charles Stetser, Helen Allison, Carl Weegar, Clarence Means, Frances Thomas, Norman McCabe, Isabel Clouse, Helen Capehart and Harry Wolfe. Miss Clouse and Miss Capehart will each teach four weeks.

Betts said some 150 high school students and 82 junior high pupils reported for the first sessions yesterday. The classes will end Aug. 7.

These resignations also were accepted. They were John Rossi, high school language teacher, Mark Shelton, junior high instructor, and Harold Wright as head custodian at Westgate effective July 15. Wright will remain in the system as a custodian.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported receipt of the second quarterly settlement of $155,532.27 from the state foundation program and a balance of $156,497.60 in school funds.

The balances include $141,142.07 in the general fund, $4,468.18 in bond retirement; $10,309.75, cafeteria; $320.85, improvement; $15, firemen training; $139.60, carpenter training; $16.50, foremen training, and $209.17, night school. There is a deficit of $123.03 in the workbook account.

Leo C. Lawrence, president, reminded the board it must make up its mind soon on the problem of whether to have schools return to standard time at the end of September of continue on "fast" time through October.

THE BOARD discussed the problem with City Council last year and then brought the problem up again for discussion at its own meeting a few months ago.

The suggestion to return to standard time at the end of September was made after several members complained of children waiting for buses in the dark and the early morning fogs which endanger bus transportation.

James Lowe said the decision could be made any time, but Samuel W. Brown and James Moss suggested it be reached as soon as possible.

Moss, chairman of the building committee, reported some 40 glass brick at Westgate School have been broken by children throwing stones. "I wish we could do something about the stone throwing; it's expensive to replace the brick," he said.

Petition

tors, the County Board of Education turned it over to the Election Board to determine the sufficiency or validity. The Election Board first checked the names of the signers against the district's poll books for the 1956 and 1958 general elections.

Because the names of 217 signers could not be found in the poll books, although they insisted they were qualified electors, the board exercised its fact-finding powers to conduct a field survey. It took affidavits from the persons who claimed they are qualified electors, although they did not vote in 1956 or 1958.

The affidavits covered the questions of citizenship, age and residence in the state and the school district — the determining factors in establishing whether a person is a qualified elector.

The board made its certification to the County Board of Education on the basis of the study of the poll books and the field survey that followed.

The petition does not refer to the proposal as a dissolution of the school district, but rather as a transfer of the area. Under the plan listed in the petition, the Fairfield Township area would be transferred to the Columbiana Exempted Village School District and the area which lies in Unity Township would become part of the East Palestine City School District.

Food Connoisseurs May Be Surprised

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Food connoisseurs may be surprised to learn that hydrogen sulfide — source of the classic "rotten egg" smell — and ammonia are among compounds present in the aroma of cooked beef.

This was discovered by biochemistry Professor Frank M. Strong and graduate student Mao Yueh of the University of Wisconsin.

The two normally unpleasant odors were found in exceedingly small amounts in the beef aroma.

Man Fined On Charge Of Disobeying Officer

A Wellsville man who was involved in a shooting scrape early Saturday morning in Wellsville was fined for not obeying an arrest order at a hearing Monday before Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville.

Richard Dock, 1315½ Main St., pleaded not guilty but was fined $50. Police said he failed to appear at a preliminary hearing held Saturday for Antonio Senisgali, 62, of 1431 Main St. who was bound over to the September Grand Jury for using a firearm with "malicious intent to kill or wound."

Senisgali and Dock were involved in an argument on the sidewalk in the 1300 block of Main. Senisgali went home, got a gun, and returned. Richard Arnold, 27, of 1311 Main St. who had been watching, was then shot in the left leg as he tried to take the gun from Senisgali.

Police said the argument started when Dock was told to leave his rooming house but refused.

Gunfire Forces Pair To Let Man Go After He's Held 10 Days

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (AP) — More than 300 heavily armed police today stalked two alleged police killers in a swampy woodland after gunfire forced the pair to abandon a man they had held captive for 10 nearly foodless days.

Objects of the concentrated manhunt are John Coyle, 23, and his brother, William, 21, both of Philadelphia, known to be armed with five pistols and three belts of ammunition.

For more than three hours early today it was feared that two college girls had fallen hostages to the desperado pair, until the girls were spotted by police at a roadblock in Bourne, where Cape Cod begins.

The girls—Priscilla Jury, 19, of Wayne, N.J., and Elizabeth McKay, 19, of Glen Cove, N.Y. had been reported missing by three girl companions with whom they are sharing a summer cottage on vacation from Green Mountain Junior College at Poultney, Vt.

Police quoted them as saying they had driven to Provincetown on the tip of Cape Code on a sightseeing tour.

The manhunt was one of the biggest in Massachusetts history.

It includes scores of state and local police, some two dozen FBI agents, law enforcers from Philadelphia, agents of the Massachusetts Natural Resources Commission, an Air Force helicopter, a Barnstable County plane, and bloodhounds.

Police Keep Vigil For Berserk Gunman

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — A grim force of heavily armed police today kept a tense vigil on a white frame house where a berserk gunman held his half-sister hostage, demanding the life of a policeman he hates in exchange for hers.

"I will shoot anyone who tries to apprehend me," Kenneth Eugene Adkins, 22, wrote in a pencil-scrawled note he tossed out a window.

MIGs Attack Navy Plane; One Wounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy patrol plane was attacked by MIG jet fighters over international waters of the Sea of Japan Monday and one of the crew was seriously wounded, the Defense Department reported today.

The incident, in which two MIG fighters were believed to have made the attack, occurred about 85 miles east of Wonsan, North Korea.

The first reports received here did not make clear whether the American plane returned the fire.

"Radio reports said the jets attacked without warning, firing tracer ammunition," the Pentagon announcement said.

"Thought to be two in number, they made six firing runs and followed the P4M to within 50 feet of the water as the patrol plane took evasive action. Skies were clear and ceiling unlimited.

"A tail gunner in the U.S. plane was seriously wounded as his gun was knocked out on the first run. He was the only casualty reported.

"Attacking aircraft were silver MIG fighters with red stars aft of their cockpits on the fuselage," the report said.

'Superman' Takes Own Life, Police Say

Reeves starred in scores of the "Superman" films. Although the series was discontinued, reruns are appearing.

Judge Studies Freedom Bid Of Gov. Long

Sanity Hearing Off; Governor Returned To Mental Clinic

GALVESTON, Tex., (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana, who says he wants to return to his home state and enter a New Orleans hospital, was back in a Texas mental clinic today for at least another week while a judge pondered whether to free him.

District Judge L. D. Godard said Monday night after the habeas corpus hearing he felt more time should be spent studying the case before he ruled on it. He ordered Long back to the mental clinic while he delayed his decision one week.

Judge Godard also announced postponement of today's sanity hearing after a conference with Probate Judge Hugh Gibson. The sanity hearing also was moved back one week.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La), the governor's nephew and son of the late Sen. and Gov. Huey P. Long, disagreed.

"It seems to be a very crucial point has been overlooked," said Sen. Long, who attended the hearing but was barred from testifying by court order.

Attorneys for Gov. Long asked the court to bar those representing Mrs. Long from testifying. Mrs. Long did not appear in court.

Sen. Long told newsmen after the hearing the point he had mentioned should have been clear to anyone, even those with no legal training.

The senator has hinted he might seek the governorship.

Gov. Long, leaving the courthouse, yelled: "Still in jail. Still in jail, Texas style."

Earlier, he said: "I don't belong in an asylum."

He said if he had been freed, he would have entered Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans.

If he had gotten back to Louisiana, he said, he probably would have vetoed some bills. In Long's absence, acting Gov. Lether Frazar Monday signed or vetoed the last of the bills passed by the Louisiana Legislature, which adjourned a week ago.

In his petition for the writ of habeas corpus hearing Long said he was a "governor in exile by force and kidnaping." He charged he was drugged, tied to a stretcher and carried aboard a National Guard plane for the flight to Galveston May 30.

Stalemated Steel Parley To Resume

Union Chief Gives Assurance After Talk With Finnegan

NEW YORK (AP)—Stalemated contract negotiations in the basic steel industry will be resumed here today after a five-day recess, despite a dispute over the way they are to be conducted, the head of the steel union says.

Union President David J. McDonald gave that assurance in Washington Monday after conferring with Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Earlier in Philadelphia, McDonald had said the steel companies had indicated they were willing to raise wages by about six cents an hour on condition that the union agree to a number of changes in the current contract.

McDonald said the proposed changes would wipe out union gains over the past 18 years and reduce workers benefits by at least $2 an hour. Basic wages now average $3.03 an hour.

"I can promise you the United Steelworkers positively will never take a backward step," McDonald told an AFL-CIO conference on collective bargaining.

In addition to a substantial wage increase, the United Steelworkers of America are seeking a cut in the 40-hour work week, plus other benefits. Until recently, the steel companies had been insisting on a one-year freeze. They contended this would help curb inflation.

Eisenhower Is Challenged By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confident Democrats challenged President Eisenhower today to seek a verdict from the people on his legislative program.

If Eisenhower carries his case to the public in television-radio and other speeches, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said in an interview, the Democrats will be ready for battle.

"We'll carry our fight to the people, too, on the basis of the record we are making in Congress," Mansfield said. "I think it is a good idea for the President to report to the people and let them decide on the basis of the record, as they have in the last three congressional elections."

Mansfield's chief, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told the Senate Monday that Republicans who are criticizing this as a "do nothing" Congress "will wake up some time late in September and find out it just ain't so."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader, backed up the contention of Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman, that Eisenhower is the best salesman the Republicans have.

Dirksen said Eisenhower had discussed with GOP congressional leaders the possibility of 15-minute TV-radio appearances to whip up support for foreign aid, labor regulation and other administration bills which have come under heavy Democratic attack.

"The President thinks it is his duty to keep the people informed about the way the Democratic Congress is handling his program," Dirksen said.

Asked if one of the objectives would be to build up popular support for possible vetoes of Democratic-sponsored spending bills, Dirksen said yes.

Raises County Officials' Pay

Statewide Voter Signup Approved By Ohio Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Every-voter registration cast its shadow over the length and breadth of Ohio today.

Registration, now affecting 39 counties, would be effective in all 88 if the House accepts a bill approved 21-10 by the Ohio Senate Monday.

Senate approval of the controversial measure came shortly before it passed and sent to the House a bill raising the salaries of county officials—pending the start of new terms—an average of 10 per cent. Most county officials start new terms in about 18 months.

The Senate has before it today a bill to abolish most rotary funds in state government—routine income and outgo not subject to legislative appropriations. Many lawmakers in the past have opposed rotary funds on grounds they loosen the Legislature's hold on the state's purse strings.

The House virtually completed legislative action on bills to:

Subject to taxation the fuel used in highway construction machinery.

Permit creation of private non-profit health care organizations and provide for their regulation.

The statewide registration bill is sponsored by Sen. J. Sherman Porter (D-Gallia.) It would have effect in 49 Ohio counties in which no registration now is required. It would have partial effect in the 16 counties which now require only partial registration. It would have no effect in the 23 counties in which total registration is required.

Senate opposition came from members representing primarily rural districts.

Sen. Ross Pepple (R-Allen) described the bill as "unneeded, unwanted," and added: "It would take away home rule and be a foolish waste of money."

Sen. Harry E. Schwall (R-Fulton) asserted: "The rural counties see no need for the bill—they are doing good jobs in elections."

But Sen. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) asserted his predecessor, Sen. Albert Daniels (R-Highland) had fought for years for such a bill. Fess added: "Registration was one of the best things that ever happened to the two big counties in my five-county district—Ross and Greene. I can't do anything but favor the bill."

Porter asserted statewide registration would standardize voting procedure throughout the state; there would be no question about who can and who cannot vote and the possibility of fraud would be greatly reduced. He added:

"The present practice of requiring some citizens to register and not requiring others to register is contrary to the American tradition of treating all citizens alike. About 24 per cent of all Ohio citizens are not, at this time, required to register."

The county officials' pay raise was described by a sponsor. Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr. (D-Cuyahoga), as a water-down version of the original measure which would have granted pay raises of about 50 per cent.

The increases permitted under the bill reach a top of 35 per cent in the Cleveland area which Miller, son of the Cuyahoga County chairman, represents. He asserted the increases are too low.

The Legislature began its 24th work week Monday with these other highlights:

The House virtually completed passage of a Senate-approved bill

Allies Split Over Summit Following Ministers Meeting

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter met unexpectedly today at Gromyko's request to discuss the final phase of the Big Four conference on Berlin.

There was immediate speculation among Western diplomats that Gromyko might have some new proposal either on breaking the East-West deadlock over Berlin, or on how to wind up the conference.

Earlier Herter met with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd amid reports that the Western powers were split over the problem of a summit conference following up the foreign ministers meeting.

Britain was reported urging U.S. and French consideration of accepting a summit session even if the present meeting ended in failure.

The Soviet foreign minister went to Herter's villa. In another conference crisis last week Herter had gone to Gromyko's villa. The Russian was accompanied by A. A. Soldatov, chief of the American section of the Soviet Foreign Office.

Herter had Assistant Secretary of State Livingston Merchant and Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, as his advisers in the meeting.

The Western allies were reported making an 11th hour attempt to hammer out a stopgap accord on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic officials said foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France may present in secret session Wednesday a new document setting forth their latest ideas.

While Western informants were tight-lipped about the meeting, Herter presumably told the Briton that President Eisenhower continues strongly opposed to a summit conference unless it is justified by some success here.

The stopgap formula under study by Western experts would represent the minimum Western terms for agreeing to a summit meeting—barring a reversal of policy such as the British government apparently is advocating.

Informants indicated the West's approach would temporarily set aside both Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plan for turning West Berlin into a free city, and

Recalled Jury Indicts 6 In Day's Session

Arraignments To Be Held July 1; Charges Against 2 Ignored

Six persons were indicted by the recalled April Grand Jury which reported late Monday afternoon for the one-day session in Common Pleas Court.

The panel of seven men and eight women began its studies at 9:30 a. m. and returned nine true bills against six defendants and ignored two cases in its report to Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

Judge Buzzard released the panel subject to further recall.

True bills returned were:

Bernard John Icenhower, 40, of 305 E. 2nd St., second degree manslaughter in the traffic death of Murl Oney, 37, formerly of 307 E. 2nd St.

Icenhower was the driver of a car that struck a parked truck March 8, killing Oney, his passenger.

Cash Register Points Out City Burglary

A rifled cash register found on Pleasant Heights shortly before 6 this morning touched off a police investigation that disclosed a burglary in a downtown television and radio shop in which intruders escaped with cash and merchandise worth a total of $156 and $205 in checks.

The burglary investigation at the Croxall Radio and TV Sales & Service on E. 4th St. near Washington St. was "worked in reverse," so to speak, because the rifled register was found before the breaking and entering had been discovered, police explained.

Police said the loot included two red and white transistor radios worth $39.95 each, a white table model valued at $36.95, and $39.09 in cash and the $205 in checks removed from the broken register. The store is operated by Jack B. and Margaret R. Croxall, officers said.

At the same time, a burglar took $10.75 in cash from Flora Mae's Beauty Shop in a second-floor location at 208 E. 5th St., also ransacking the premises thoroughly in an apparent search for more money, police said.

The rifled register from the Croxall store was found at 5:53 a. m. on Sanford Ave. by Patrolman R. E. Higgins, to whom it was pointed out by an unidentified woman, police said. A plastic

County Legal Right Doubted In Neff Libel

Beaver Prosecutor Says 2 Defendants Not To Be Called

BEAVER FALLS (AP — Auditor Gen. Charles C. Smith and his deputy, J. Alexander Jacobs, will be asked—not summoned—to appear in Beaver County to answer charges of criminal libel.

Alderman George Alderson Monday night asid he would ask the two state officials to come to Beaver Falls after Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward advised it "would be best not to issue warrants."

Steward said the county's jurisdiction is questionable in the case.

The charges were filed Saturday by Samuel G. Neff, who last week was fired from his $12,500-a-year post as manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Neff was dismissed after Smith filed a report with Gov. Lawrence charging Neff was involved in a scheme to collect 5 per cent kickbacks on highway equipment in Beaver County.

Dissolution Sought

Check On Petition Clears Way In School Area Vote

Completing a lengthy check on voter qualifications, the County Election Board certified today to the County Board of Education that it found sufficient signatures on a petition to clear the way for a vote at the Nov. 3 general election on a proposal to dissolve the Fairfield-Waterford School District and transfer its area to the nearby Columbiana and East Palestine districts.

The check on the 844-name petition showed 820 signatures of qualified electors, 59 more than the minimum of 761 required by law, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the Election Board, said today.

The certification will be received at the County Board of Education meeting tonight at Lisbon. Then the school board must determine whether the question will be certified to the Election Board for a vote in November. The Election Board's initial action was solely to determine the number of valid signatures, O'Hanlon pointed out.

To obtain a ballot place for the issue, the law required the petitioners to obtain signatures representing 55 per cent of the 1,382 qualified voters who voted in the school district in the 1958 general election.

Twenty-four of the names were eliminated — 19 for non-residence or lack of other voting qualifications and 5 for similarity in handwriting. In a few instances, a husband evidently signed his wife's name in addition to his own, or vice versa, O'Hanlon pointed out.

After receiving the petition in May from Fairfield-Waterford elec-

Friday Night Meeting Set On Sewer Project

Council will meet in adjourned session Friday night at 7 to consider legislation for a blanket sanitary sewer project in Beechwood, which it was unable to pass Monday night for lack of enough votes.

With two members absent, only five with voting power were present—one short of the number required to enact legislation on one reading under suspension of rules. Councilmen H. A. Tullis and George E. Willshaw were absent.

Awaiting action are two enabling ordinances helping clear the way for sewering of parts of Beechwood St., Camp Alley, Center St., Division Alley, Reynolds St., Buston Alley, Haywood St., Vernia St. and Broad St.

Hiring Of Negro Teachers Again Pressed By NAACP

The East Liverpool Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night ask the Board of Education to integrate the teaching staff by employing Negro teachers.

The request was made by Caesar Peters, president, who headed a three-man delegation. The others were the Rev. W. L. Hafley, pastor of the Sheridan African Methodist Episcopal Church, and Oliver Spencer.

Pressed for an immediate answer on their attitude regarding the hiring of Negroes as teachers, the four board members present indicated they would follow the recommendation of Supt. Ralph W. Betts, who is charged by state law with making recommendations for teaching appointments.

The members — Leo C. Lawrence, president, Samuel W. Brown, James Lowe and James Moss — pointed out they would not be opposed if the Negro applicants are qualified and the best available for the position. C. Walter Ashbaugh, the fifth member, was absent.

The board members also explained they are not permitted under state law to hire any teacher unless he is recommended by the superintendent.

The lengthy session became heated once with Lawrence dalling for order after members said Peters attacked Betts' work and the NAACP officer countered that a reference to "pressure groups" was an attack on the organization.

In opening his remarks, Peters said he has met with Betts several times "but we have reached no

Shippingport Project In Congress Fund Bill

A proposed doubling of output of the Shippingport atomic power plant was a step nearer reality after Congress sent to President Eisenhower Monday an authorization bill for atomic energency construction.

The bill for $230 million includes $5 million for the Shippingport project. This amount will be used to improve reactor facilities and another $15 million will be required for increasing generating facilities.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Duquesne Light Co. are negotiating on the amount the utility will put up to proceed with the project. The Westinghouse Co.'s atomic division is building a second furnace core for Shippingport.

116 New Parking Meters To Be Purchased By City

Acting on bids opened May 30, the Board of Control has decided to purchase 116 manually-operated parking meters for $5,069 from the Dual Parking Meter Division of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. at Pittsburgh, Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross told Council Monday night.

The net price is $43.70, after deducting an $8 trade-in the city will receive on an equal number of old meters and a 5 per cent discount for cash, Ross explained. The gross price was $54.

The new devices will be used principally as replacements for some of the present 475 meters that were installed in September 1947, Ross said. However, a few will be installed on the east side of Market St. between E. 3rd and E. 4th Sts., where Council authorized metering a few months ago.

Ross said he expects to consult with the Council street committee before making final decisions on where the bulk of the meters will be installed.

He demonstrated to Council four of the meters on which the administration received bids and explained the reasons that led to the choice of the Dual meter.

The Duals can be set up to accept any combination of coins from a penny to a quarter for any time period, Ross said. Another consideration was the fact the Dual meter has a hooded coin slot, which prevents seepage of water and consequent freezing in cold weather, he added.

In one of the other models now

No One Has Mentioned 'Lockout'

It is easy to understand why the Steelworkers Union is doing everything it can in its public statements to plant the idea that the strike it is threatening to call would be the fault of the steel companies.

This is the chronic weakness in the union's use of the strike weapon—that it must bear responsibility for striking.

No one has mentioned the possibility of a steel lockout, which would be the management equivalent of the union strike. If the steel industry comes to a stop, it will be because the union called a strike and forced a shutdown. It will not be because management closed its gates and refused to let its employes work.

Consequently, the Steelworkers Union is trying hard to make it appear in advance that responsibility for a strike would be on management's shoulders because management had refused to give the union what its negotiators wanted.

THIS IS ROUGHLY comparable in its upside-down logic to an argument familiar in international politics—the Russian argument that if war breaks out it will be the Western Allies' fault for not giving it what its diplomats say they want.

The fact always has been and still is that only unions can cause strikes. The only way management can bring about a shutdown is a lockout — and lockouts have all but passed out of existence.

In the same policy statement that blamed management in advance last week for not giving the Steelworkers Union what it wants and thereby creating the threat of a strike, there is a passage describing the union's point of view on what once were management's perogatives and still are in most places.

The passage said the negotiating companies had revealed their "underlying purposes" in a letter to the union president, David J. McDonald. The companies' proposals, said the Steelworkers, "would give management the unrestricted right to order around the working force at will, speed up, combine jobs, eliminate relief periods, set up any schedules of work they see fit at any time without protection of employes' rights or desires, tough vacation-benefits qualifications, further restrict employe choice of vacation time, change seniority rules and cut down on certain features of existing severance allowance, supplemental unemployment benefits, insurance and pension programs. To top it all, they propose that the union grant new latitude to management to unilaterally establish incentive rates of pay and production standards."

THE QUESTION always arises when unions make statements like this about whether they run their affairs to suit their pattern when they become employers themselves. How do they deal with their own employes?

Do unions really believe management should have nothing to say about management, other than raising the money to meet the payroll, or do they only talk that way when they are firing up their members for a strike?

Not Even A Maginot Line Next Time

A great discovery has been made in Washington — that defense in another war could not produce even a modern Maginot Line.

The "line," a two-million-dollar-a-mile chain of forts built by the French to stop Hitler, did force the German attackers to alter their blitzkrieg tactics. But since World War II, blitzkrieging itself has become obsolete.

Attack in a future war would be conducted by air. Land forces would move in after the nuclear warheads had done their damage. Aside from their possible use as shelters from radiation and after - blast, Maginot - type fortresses would have no use.

Yet, Washington has continued to do Maginot-line thinking in every move it has made to build a defense against what its experts now are conceding cannot be thwarted—the ballistic missile. Once the missile is on its way, there will be no place to hide and no time to hide. No weapons system being planned and no system that is conceivable could provide a defense. Even manned bombers, which were the theoretical attacking force to be offset by some 30 billion dollars' worth of defense paraphernalia either built, building, or an order, could not have been stopped. Their striking power could have been reduced; no more than that.

This is the great discovery in Washington. Unfortunately, it is not being admitted in so many words. But it is implicit in everything being discussed and planned. The classic blunder of French militarism before World War II was to prepare an elaborate defense against something that did not have to be used on the defender's terms. There is no defense any more — just the ability to retaliate.

British militarists, as it turned out, were saved by their relative lack of preparation before World War II. They had the option, because they were not committed to anything else, to turn to their superb Spitfires and the young pilots who knocked Goering's primitive bombers out of the air.

At the end of the war, when Germany was using the first guided missiles, even the Royal British Air Force was of little use.

To Spite The Land We Love

Conviction of the four Florida white men whose rape of a Negro girl showed another side of this country's race problem at a touchy juncture in the buildup of public emotion over the lynching of Mack Charles Parker puts the key decision up to the judge in the case. Under Florida law, he can sentence the defendants to life imprisonment or he can let them off with a scolding.

Yet, in thinking of the crime the four men committed and of their backgrounds many Americans must have come to the same conclusion: That there is no punishment to fit their crime.

The defendants, like all defendants in cases of wanton violence against helpless persons, are guilty of brutality; that is, they are convicted of the crime of having had no benefit from the civilization that produced them. The very fact that the foreman of the jury which found them guilty says intimidation of their rape victim with a gun and a knife did not constitute brutality, therefore mercy was shown, is a grim reminder that brutality in the United States is relative.

To spite the land we love, brutes wantonly kill helpless victims to prove they can exercise their lethal option if they choose. Gangs set on human beings without warning, to beat them to death. Americans are killed in holdups for a few dollars. Children commit heinous crimes against other humans and show no contrition. Husbands and wives destroy one another in hatred. Mothers plot the deaths of their daughters-in-law. For a sum of money, people will destroy a plane or a train, committing murder against unknown persons.

There is no proper punishment for the crime of being in violation of civilization. It is as if the indictment were against civilization, itself, for having found no way to prevent mockery by persons unable to share its benefits.

A Matter Of Public Concern

The foreman of the New York grand jury whose carefully prepared presentment of the manner in which some TV quiz shows were "fixed" has summed up public indignation over the presiding judge's decision to seal and impound the evidence.

Louis M. Hacker, the foreman and formerly dean of the School of General Studies at Columbia University, said he and the other members of the grand jury had given nine months of their lives to learn what had happened and that regardless of legal justification for sealing their findings a moral wrong had been done by not releasing it to the public.

Anticipating the objection that a presentment could do irreparable harm to individuals and organizations, because they would be unable to defend themselves in the absence of any indictment for wrong-doing, the grand jury had omitted all names and identities. It had concentrated on the kind of questionable procedure that caused sponsors and the television audience to lose interest in quiz shows in October and November last year after allegations of "fixing" had been made by a contestant.

The presentment was designed to explain to the public what had gone on behind the scenes to produce the allegations and what basis there was for them. The alternative, as the grand jury foreman saw it, would have been a legislative investigation in which many individuals and organizations would have been exposed to unfavorable publicity.

As it now turns out, the television industry, itself, is being made the goat. It would have been better off if it had requested the court to publish the grand jury presentment as proof that it has attained enough maturity to accept responsibility for its trusteeship of a public trust, even when the going gets rough.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A graduation (with sheepskins) was held in a college for waiters the other day. Some of those bad meals and poor service we have been getting could have been due to the fact we drew waiters who had flunked the course. But it's good to know that the boys are going to college. We have never known what to say when we got a waiter who brought us cold soup. Now we can demand, "Let's see your diploma."

THE SCHOOL COURSE is for 20 weeks. This is not enough. It could leave a garcon still a freshman. What the public wants is his oysters served by a Phi Beta man and the guinea hen carved by a waiter who has been voted "most likely to succeed." Ideal Alma Mater should have the following courses:

1. English and restraint in its usage during strain and stress in contacts with a critical customer.

2. Mathematics and the importance of correct addition.

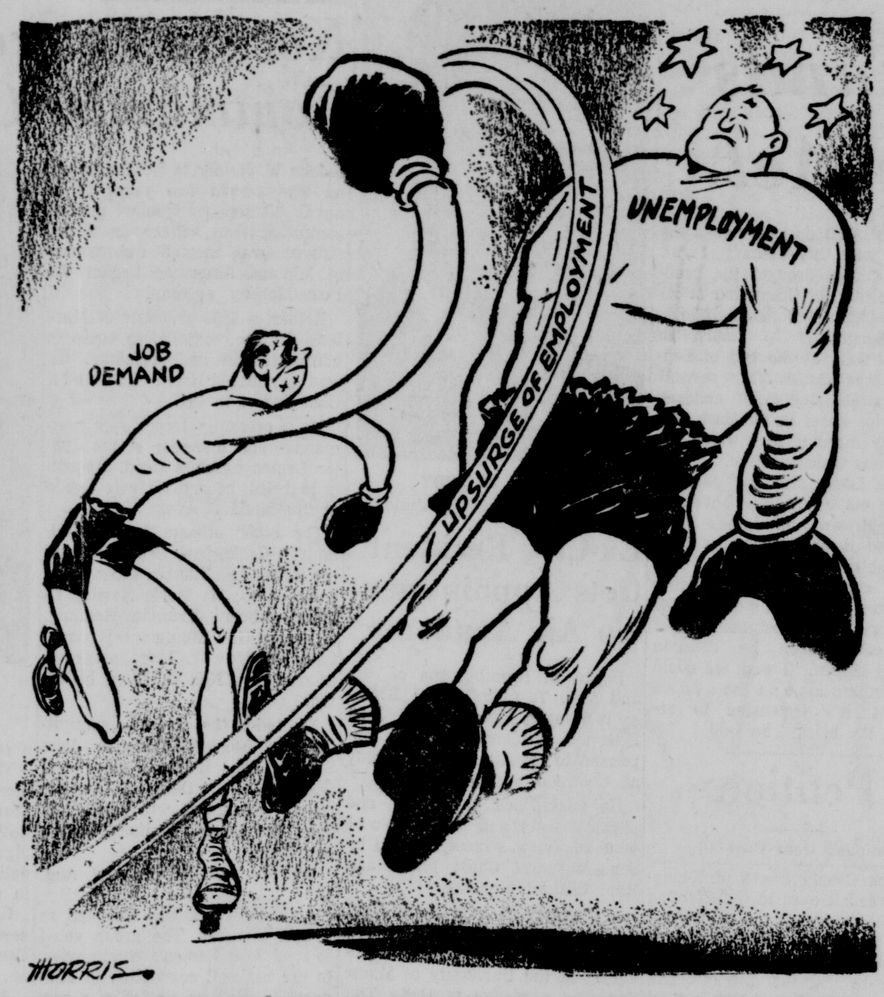

3. Dead languages, with study of such sentences as "A 10 per cent tip is plenty," "Don't Hurry. The line is only a block long" and "I can take you directly to a good table instead of one by the kitchen door."

4. Diplomacy, with special instruction in explaining that the boss, not the waiter, is responsible for the use of a blackboard and perhaps complete abolition of the menu, except through the spoken word, and with the cost a house secret.

We Knew He'd Come Back

Court Puts Hoffa In Deep Trouble

By Victor Riesel

Jim Hoffa came up like thunder early last Wednesday morning. He was tougher, harder, angrier than he had ever been—and scared in his fashion, not frightened. Just scared that for the first time there was a real threat to his control of the Teamsters.

Victor Riesel

Somehow, while official Washington slept, Jim Hoffa got word that the land's second highest bench—the U.S. Court of Appeals—had ruled against him. Newsmen, wire services, even special government lawyers didn't get the decision for hours. But Jimmy had it.

He hit the phones because he knew that the Court of Appeals now made it possible for Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts to run the Teamsters—and to remove Hoffa from the presidency. Make no mistake about that—Hoffa obeys Judge Letts or Hoffa will be jailed or ousted from the Teamsters presidency or both.

HOFFA KNEW even before 8 a.m. that this was the effect of the Appeals Court decision. Hoffa hit most of the 10 phones in his Woodner Hotel three-room luxury apartment. He called his lawyers and his top aides and told them to prepare for a skull session in the Taj Mahal known as Teamster general headquarters. All across the country they packed and waited.

Before he met with them, Hoffa had one trip to make. He planned to fly in to Newark, N. J., for a special meeting, of importance to him, his ego and his alter ego, Harold Gibbons. Was this trip necessary?

To Hoffa it was. He has summoned scores of New Jersey Teamster officials and their high-fashion, tailored retinues to a conference recently in Washington—one of those breakfast sessions during which they scrambled eggs and congressmen at the Congressional Hotel. The morning came. So did New Jersey congressmen. They outnumbered the Jersey Teamsters—who did not come, except for four of the boys.

HOFFA ROARED when he heard. He sent word he'd come into Newark on the night of June 10. He ordered all paid officials to be at the meeting—with their members—to be whipped into line. Period.

There have been other times when the "loyal" rank-and-file has not worn its affection for the little boss on its sleeve.

But Jersey had always been one of Hoffa's fortresses—heavily armored and all that. Its unconcern disturbed him at the very moment when he was trying to absorb the full meaning of the 90-page court decision.

For hours that morning before he took off, his lawyers explained, paragraph by paragraph. The more they read, the more apparent it became that the real power in the Teamsters for some years would be a man, Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who was on the federal bench at that very moment not too far distant. The judge had not gotten the decision until after Hoffa's people had it. How come?

JUDGE LETTS, who originally appointed the monitors, began studying the document about one o'clock. He was not certain of his full powers. But of the following he was sure:

He will remove James Hoffa if the Teamsters' provisional president does not clean up the elements which have been exposed by the courts and the McClellan committee as corrupt.

There will not be a national Teamster convention until every one of the 900-odd locals have revised their bylaws and financial practices to meet the strictest ethical codes.

There will be Honest Ballot Assn. elections of local union officers everywhere.

This means that Hoffa's closest friends will have to stand union trial—and that most of them may be ousted.

As Hoffa faced all this, he saw red literally and figuratively. This can cut deeply into the union's massive treasury. Hoffa will be expected by his colleagues to appeal every decision of Judge Letts.

If last year's legal fees ran close to half a million dollars, such appeals could run into the millions —for there will have to be hundreds of such actions. And every appeal will have to be made under glass for all to see the record.

For this, Hoffa, never a gourmet of any kind, has no stomach. Small wonder he came up like thunder in that homey Woodner Hotel suite —newest showplace of the proletariat.

Two Learned Latin

By Truman Twill

The dons of Oxford University are turning sour on the study of Latin, it is reported from merrie England, and as one who beat them to it by many years I say, "Ipse dixit."

No one gave me serious attention when I said it, but if the dons finally decide Latin has served its purpose as an educational tool the effect will be conclusive. While awaiting their decision, there is a passing thought I'd like to get down on paper.

It is an acknowledgment to two gracious young ladies who saw me through "Cicero" and "Virgil." Saw? Carried. As on a pony. It worked like this:

In the alphabetic seating arrangement that prevailed, I ended up between these twin paragons of versatility in the deadest language. They were a brace of whiz kids. Marjorie sat in front of me, Ruth sat behind me.

They never failed to make the honor roll in all their born days, but as sometimes happens in such cases they had nothing to distract them — no social whirl, no boy friends, not even any close girl friends. They were out of it.

They took pity on the stupid boy who kept them separated. They obeyed their womanly instinct to do a dual mother-hen bit for his benefit. This is a vital point.

I did not solicit their help, but neither did I spurn it, lest some injury be done to their instinct to succor the weak. And that was how it came about that we went through "Cicero" and "Virgil" together. What Marjorie couldn't pass on to the struggling traveler, Ruth conveyed sotto voce.

I think now the teacher must have known what was going on; she would have had to be deaf not to have known it. But I think she, herself, may have been doing some mother-henning for the struggling scholar with the crooked smile and the pleading eyes.

They were sorry for me in the sense that people are sorry for helpless kids, kittens, pups and baby birds. They were gratifying their desire to prove that man is something more than a heartless beast of the field—an angel on celestial leave, if you want to take a strong viewpoint.

I learned much from the experience. To this day, I am a cripple as far as carrying on chit-chat in Latin, or reading the Gaul Gazette, are concerned, but to this day I know enough never to strike down a helping hand.

Those two young ladies never would have forgiven me. Their souls would have been scarred by the wound of my contempt for their fine instincts. They would have been females scorned, and everybody knows how rotten and rough that can be.

I am glad I let them carry me through a difficult period in my life, and my only regret is that when it came time to study a modern language and I chose French, Marjorie (who would have sat in front of me) chose Spanish instead and Ruth was shuffled into a seat too far from mine, leaving me to my own devices.

My devices were not adequate to the occasion. I goofed the French, oo-la-la. It was historic the way I didn't dig the patois of the frogs and puzzling to the faculty because of a theory that a working acquaintance with Latin always shows up in the study of French.

But as we used to say in Rome before any of these recent reincarnations, "Qui facit per alium facit per se." Which means, for those who never knew Rome in the good old days, "He who does a thing through another does it through himself." Marjorie, Ruth and me — all three. We learned to be kind to one another. Two of us learned Latin.

Soviet Science

By David Lawrence

Russian Scientists Dominated By Party

What scientists can be believed on such vital questions as nuclear testing—and which ones are truly loyal? How many are used knowingly or unknowingly to advance a Communist purpose in international affairs?

David Lawrence

These questions would not arise were it not for the established fact that the Soviet government does manipulate its scientists and make them adjust their scientific endeavors to suit the objectives of Communism itself.

The full story, for example, of what the Soviet Academy of Sciences really is and how it functions as part of the Communist party organization is not known generally in the United States. Possibly it is not always known to the Americans and Europeans who are occasionally selected for honorary membership in what is supposedly an association devoted entirely to scientific purposes.

A most enlightening study of the Soviet Academy of Sciences has been made on behalf of the Hoover Institute at Stanford University in a book written by Prof. Alexander S. Vucinich, an associate professor of sociology at San Jose State College in California.

THIS IS THE first extended study of the Soviet Academy written in English. Prof. Vucinich says in his conclusions:

"It is therefore clear that the academy, with its institutionalized party guidance, governmental authority and fictitious self-government, is a typical Soviet institution. It is clear also that science in the Soviet Union is actually 'party science'—as, indeed, it is frequently referred to in Communist literature. The party hierarchy, through institutionalized channels, has indisputable power in determining how much research and what kind of research is done, which scientific endeavors take precedence over which others and upon what ideological foundations Soviet science shall be based. . . .

"The party organization, in turn, makes it clear that the academy is fully subservient to the Communist hierarchy. Obviously, the real 'general staff of Soviet science' is outside the academy. All in all, the Communist network in the academy is assigned the task of defending the party's vested interests in science, curbing deviationist tendencies and 'persuading' the recalcitrants to fall into line. Whatever the techniques of Communist operation, the scholar's fear of ultimate retaliation and the party's power to move coercive forces into operation are the causes of its success."

The system of control is such that the leading positions in the academy's organization are occupied by minor scientists are persons who have hardly anything in common with the scientific work.

"Some of these," writes Prof. Vucinich,' "are typical party organizers, the highly mobile Communist workers known as rigid disciplinarians and masters of all the tricks of molding party units into efficient but strictly authoritarian workshops. . . .

"Although minor scholars occupy the most influential positions within the academy's party organization, the major scholars are as a rule the chief interpreters of Communist ideology. Every change in the party's thinking, every shift in political emphasis and every occasion of ideological import is brought to the attention of, or clarified or interpreted for, the academy's scientific elite by a small group of Communist academicians."

WHEN SOVIET scientists, therefore, come to the United States or Canada for conferences with American scientists, it is natural that there should be suspicion attached to the purpose of the mission of these Communists.

In the United States there has been criticism of those scientists who have become identified with political and ideological movements. In the Soviet Union, on the other hand, the scientists are constantly being pressed into the making of political declarations to conform to the Communist line and to the policies of the Kremlin.

Under the circumstances, the question may well be asked whether any Americans ought hereafter to participate in, as members, or accept affiliation with the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Twins In The Middle

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Those powerful Texas twins — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn, leaders of the House and Senate Democrats — are in a strange spot for them. They're in the middle.

Republicans berate this heavily Democratic Congress, where Johnson and Rayburn are undisputed bosses, for trying to go too far. Now some leading Democrats are swiping at the two Texans for not leading the Democrats far enough.

This is an odd turn of events for this shrewd pair of politicians. They started this year with a Congress where the Democrats, because of their 1958 election victory, had an almost overwhelming majority.

It was thought then — because of the big Democratic majority and the fact President Eisenhower was in the last two years of his second and last term — that Johnson and Rayburn, not Eisenhower, would call the tune and the shots.

The Democrats talked of programs far broader than Eisenhower had in mind. But this was at a time when the country still didn't know whether it was truly pulling out of the 1958 recession.

Big programs — and big-spending programs — might have been a necessity if the recession continued. But it didn't. The country was moving out of recession into another potential boom.

And Eisenhower, probably with the help of some smart political advice, found a way to put the Democratic majority on the defensive. This was in his campaign — sounded over and over — against the danger of inflation and big spending.

He put the label "big spenders" on the Democrats. It made them self-conscious.

But he had a weapon to use against them, too. This was the threat he'd veto any programs which the Democratic-run Congress passed but which he considered excessive. It has been a potent weapon, augmented by a constant needling from Republican leaders in Congress against Democratic "budget busters."

Monday the Senate, where Democrats far outnumber Republicans, backtracked on a bill for federal airport grants, voting to continue for two years the present rate of 63 million dollars a year instead of the 465 million the Democrats originally wanted over a four-year period.

Some Senate Democrats shook their heads over the retreat and said they had been forced to surrender "with a loaded veto pen at our heads." But if this wasn't bad enough for Johnson and Rayburn to have to endure, they got something just as bad from inside their own party.

Over the weekend the Democratic Advisory Council, made up of prominent Democrats, denounced Eisenhower's threat of vetoes on legislation he didn't like.

At the same time it complained of "watering down proposed legislation to the limits of what the President might accept." This was interpreted as a sharp crack at the Johnson-Rayburn leadership. Both men have consistently ignored the council.

Then the council threw in this: it advised the congressional Democrats to pass legislation they think the country needs even if it is vetoed, since it would make a good campaign issue in the 1960 elections.

That's free advice but begs the question. If Johnson and Rayburn push legislation they think the country needs, but only to get it vetoed and end up with no legislation at all, the country is worse off than if Johnson and Rayburn had pushed less far-reaching legislation which Eisenhower did not veto.

In other words, while the Democrats got a talking point in 1960, the country would suffer. Since Johnson and Rayburn ignore the council, they'll probably ignore this and go along on compromises.

A Striking Story

John Walker, an English apothecary who died 100 years ago, has saved many a man from a singed beard.

The druggist made the first friction match, a foul-smelling but relatively safe lighter on which the modern match industry is based. Walker sold 100 Sulphurata Hyperoxygenta Frict. to his first customer in 1827. Today the United States alone produces more than 500 billion wood and paper matches a year.

The first friction matches were three inches long, tipped with antimony sulphide, potassium chlorate, gum arabic and starch. When pulled through a fold of sandpaper, they ignited with a series of popping explosions and a shower of sparks.

Despite these pyrotechnics, Walker's matches were safer and more convenient than previous lighters and many marketed later.

House Rejects Loha's Last-Minute Plea

Stricter Strip Mine Control Killed

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — The slow death of a bill to drastically upgrade strip mine reclamation in Ohio came to an end in the 103rd General Assembly Monday night.

The House Mines and Natural Resources Committee spurned the last-ditch efforts of Rep. Joseph Loha (D-Jefferson) to gain a measure of improvement in the present reclamation law and voted 7-5 to postpone his bill indefinitely. That means it is dead.

EARLIER, however, it voted to transfer the Division of Reclamation from the Agriculture Department to the Department of Natural Resources and to remove the present limit of six on the number of enforcement officers the state may hire.

That bill also would allow the state to purchase lands strip mined before 1948 and reclaim them for state use or resale.

It was co-sponsored by Loha, Rep. Vernon G. Hisrich (D-Tuscarawas) and Rep. Paul Siple (D-Lawrence).

The action on the two bills was the climax to weeks of delay during which Loha and agriculture and conservation groups attempted to get the committee to agree to stricter reclamation requirements on strip mine operators.

The outlook was dim most of the way. Spokesmen for the operators apparently were able to convince most of the committee's members that the proposed legislation would hamper their competitive position with prohibitive costs.

As originally introduced, the doomed bill would have required the strippers to set aside 10 inches of topsoil before starting their operation. After the stripping was completed, they would have had to return the land as nearly as possible to its original contour and replace the topsoil.

WHEN IT became apparent that such a drastic program had no chance of getting out of the committee, Loha proposed a compromise which would have required coverage of the last cut of three feet above the vein and the sealing off of any breakthroughs from underground mining.

Pleading for this watered-down version in Monday night's meeting, Loha denied the operators' claim that it would cost 24 cents more a ton. He said the added cost would be no more than one or one and a half cents a ton.

"Stripping involves 27 counties or one-third of the state," Loha said. "It is a shame we are letting a third of the state go to waste."

He told the committee members they should think of all the citizens they represent and not "the few who speak for the coal strippers."

Rep. Frank J. Gorman (D-Cuyahoga), chairman of the subcommittee that considered the bills for weeks, replied that the five-man group had carefully considered Loha's compromise as well as the operators' testimony.

"Certainly we do not want to see these devastated lands around Ohio," he said. "But neither do we want to put the operators out of business unwittingly. The coal industry is a sick industry. Even if the operators were only half right in their estimate of what this proposal would cost, they would be in economic trouble."

APPROVAL of the bill to transfer the reclamation division was some consolation for advocates of stricter laws.

As originally introduced by the administration, it would have abolished the division and given its duties to the forestry division.

Conservationists charged that this would cripple reclamation completely because, they said, the forestry division is already overloaded with work.

Some farm groups and the Agriculture Department opposed even transferring the division, contending the lands should be returned if possible to farm use.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle favored the transfer because, he has said, many of the reclaimed lands can be used for other purposes more effectively.

In his state of the state message, he told the legislature some of the areas might be used for state parks.

the Western plan for restoring East and West Berlin as a united city through a free election.

In general, informants said, Lloyd spelled out Friday the sort of approach the Allies would like to use—on condition the Soviets withdraw their demand for a one-year limit on the Western occupation of Berlin.

Lloyd's starting point was that any new or revised arrangement must leave intact the right of the United States, Britain and France to go to the aid of West Berliners in case of threat.

The British minister also said he felt neither the Soviets nor the West had said the last word on the possibility of an accord at this conference.

Herter and Lloyd arranged to meet with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

West German sources said there is only a very small chance for a conference. If Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko does not drop his one-year deadline, they said, the only remaining task for the conference is to work out some kind of final statement.

The conference was in recess today.

Lloyd was reported to favor either a short recess—until about July 10—or an agreement on a summit conference to pick up negotiations where the foreign ministers drop them. Another possibility discussed by the West was a longer recess of perhaps two months.

But Soviet informants said Gromyko will not agree to a recess. They argued that the inability of the foreign ministers to work out a solution to the problems of divided Germany and isolated West Berlin only proves Khrushchev's argument that major East-West disputes can be resolved only by the government chiefs.

Western sources said if Gromyko does not shift his position by midweek, there will be no purpose in continuing the talks.

Council Scans Rules First

Diagonal Parking Proposal Revived For Consideration

A motion by Councilman Samuel B. Webber Monday night brought on one of Council's worst parliamentary tangles in years, but the Fourth Ward member won his point — street committee reconsideration of a proposal to establish angle parking on the west side of Washington St. between E. 5th St. and E. 3rd St.

Although his plan was voted down by Council several months ago, he brought it up again last night, explaining that he thought it deserved further study.

Councilman A. Stanley Kidder, who voted against the plan previously, immediately raised a point of order. He said Council rules provide that a rejected proposal can be brought up again only by a person who voted with the majority—in other words by one of the members who killed Webber's idea previously.

Webber replied that his proposal was not exactly the same as the one turned down in the earlier action. The new proposal would establish diagonal parking on the west side of the street in the two-block stretch from E. 5th St. to E. 3rd St., he said. Previously it covered only the block from E. 5th to E. 4th, he said.

Then he moved to refer the plan to the street committee "for further investigation."

Council President B. E. Warner, hurriedly scanning his book of rules, said that Council's Rule 24 provides "that any member who votes with the majority may move reconsideration of a question, but not later than the next regular meeting."

In effect, he was ruling out Webber's right to present the question again.

But Webber replied that his original proposal covered only the block between E. 5th and E. 4th St. The new plan takes in two blocks, so it is not the same idea that Council rejected previously, he reiterated.

Then Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. seconded Webber's motion, reserving the right to make remarks. He said when the street committee made the original investigation of Webber's proposal it contacted all the affected merchants, as is customary. Of the firms contacted, all were opposed to the change in parking, he said.

"As he says, it's a little different, but it's just the same thing to me," Kidder said. "I talked to several policemen who work on traffic. They said it would create the same problem of slowing traffic that we have now in the block of Washington St. between E. 6th and E. 5th Sts.

"With people moving in and out of parking spaces, and only one traffic lane open, it creates congestion on busy nights," Kidder continued. "I think it's more important to move the traffic. To me, it's a very poor idea. That's the same stand I took before."

Councilman William Y. Orr said that the additional street space occupied by the diagonally - parked cars would hamper turns at Washington St. and E. Drury Ln. by large vans making deliveries to the five furniture stores in the area.

"If one of those big trucks jack-knifes on that street, traffic is dead," Orr commented.

Warner put the motion to a voice vote.

Of the five members present, Webber and Sample voted "yes," Kidder and W. E. Kaiser voted "no" and Orr did not vote.

Kidder declared that the Council rules require a member to vote one way or another, not allowing him to abstain. Orr declared he has a right to abstain. He asked an off-hand opinion of Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and was sustained.

Deciding to make the outcome more definite, Warner called for a show of hands.

This time, Sample, Orr and Webber voted in favor, with Kidder and Kaiser continuing to dissent. Warner declared the motion passed.

Later, he studied the rule book again and announced that Orr could not have been excused from voting, after all. Rule 10 says a member must vote on any question unless he is excused specifically, Warner said.

In the same category was a bill to increase the amount an insurance company may lend on a single dwelling.

The Senate virtually completed legislative action on House-approved bills to:

Tighten the law regulating beauty parlors and schools of cosmetology.

Include certain food and beverage vending machines under the present food service inspection laws.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to require notification to defendants before a temporary restraining order may be issued in a labor dispute.

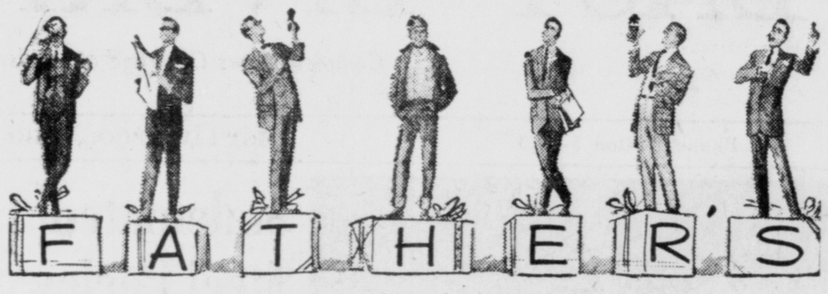

The tax front—so much in the news for weeks—was quiet except for a disclaimer from a Republican senator, Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain), that he intends to feather Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's tax nest.

Asserted Mosher in a prepared statement: "News stories out of Columbus on June 12 indicated that Gov. DiSalle looks to me as one of the two Republican senators 'behind the move' he believes will give him still more tax revenue, an added tax on bank deposits.

"If he is looking to me for that, e is looking in the wrong direction. I now oppose such a tax, for these two reasons:

"1. I believe this Legislature has already voted Mr. DiSalle as much new revenue as can be justified, and probably more than can be justified. . . . I have voted for his new taxes to the extent they seemed to me justified.

"2. The prime purpose for my suggestion, a month ago, that all financial institutions be taxed equally, can now no longer be accomplished. The banks deposits tax. . . I have thought of only as a part of a larger tax package, and that package has now been irreparably broken."

Renewal Vote Requested On Hospital Levy

Two officers of the City Hospital Association asked Council Monday night to seek a vote at the Nov. 3 general election on renewal of the three-quarter mill levy that has been in effect for 30 years as the public's way of supporting the institution.

Council took under advisement the request filed by J. Donald Thompson, president of the Board of Trustees of the association, and W. A. Betz, secretary.

In effect since 1929, the levy has been renewed every five years "by resounding majorities which indicate the people are in favor of it," Thompson told Council.

He said a 60 per cent affirmative vote would be required for passage, according to information given hospital authorities by the County Election Board. However, a bill before the state legislation would cut the required vote for such a measure to a bare majority, Thompson added.

In response to questions from councilmen, Thompson said the money produced by the levy—approximately $30,000 a year—helps take care of charity cases and the indigent.

In order to call for a vote, Council would enact a resolution certifying the question to the Election Board for a place on the November ballot.

in service, the city was required to use a blowtorch to thaw out frozen coin receptacles in cold weather, Ross said.

Council's legislation authorized the administration to buy 100 meters "more or less." At Dual's price, sufficient money was available to buy 116, Ross said.

County Airs Crossing Plea At Columbus

LISBON — Commissioner Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine is attending the Public Utilities Commission hearing today in Columbus relative to requested protection at a railroad crossing at Moultrie on Route 172 in the western part of the county.

The request was made formally by county commissioners and the railroad refused.

Motorist Complains Of 'Stranding'

Council Again Will Study Car Danger At Crossing

Council promised an investigation Monday night after an East End man complained that southbound traffic sometimes is "stranded" on the Walnut St. railroad crossing, despite a sign that requires River Rd. traffic to halt and give the right-of-way to the motorist on the tracks.

Asking for better enforcement or a new regulation, Elmer Hunt, 1715 Pennsylvania Ave., told Council that the "stranded" drivers' lives are endangered because they might be forced to halt in the path of an oncoming freight train.

The city erected the sign at the crossing several years ago, following through on complaints that motorists were required to halt on the crossing because River Rd. traffic would not give them the right-of-way.

HUNT TOLD Council he has heard reports the sign has no legal effect because it is not backed up by an ordinance. He said his car has been stranded on the Walnut St. crossing several times.

Many East End potters who are employed at Chester use Walnut St. as a shortcut from the Chester Bridge to the First Ward via the River Rd., Hunt said. Council directed an investigation by its street committee, Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross and Police Chief A. J. Radeschi.

The street committee also was given a request for establishment of one-way traffic and one-side parking on Ridgeway Ave. between Lansdowne Ave. and Chestnut St. The request was given to Council by Councilman Samuel B. Webber.

He also asked a check on a street light on Spring Grove Ave. which is shielded by a large tree, cutting its effectiveness. The light might be raised to eliminate the shrouding effect, he suggested.

As a result of a recent investigation, the street committee learned that two large trees overhanging a home on Riverview St. are on city property and they will be removed with the assistance of the Ohio Power Co., Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. reported.

Reporting for the planning committee, Councilman W. E. Kaiser, chairman, said a check on deeds at Lisbon showed that the city-owned property at E. 2nd and Washington Sts. was not purchased specifically for playground purposes.

THAT WAS one of the points raised by a neighborhood group which filed a complaint at the June 1 meeting. The committee also requested the city to remove logs and bricks which were stored on part of the site.

Kaiser said his investigation showed the city purchased the ground for $8,500 from the estate of John W. Croxall, but there was no provision that it would be used for playground purposes.

Councilman William Y. Orr said installation of two pieces of sewer pipe would help close an open ditch on Riley Ave. where a truck became stuck recently. The administration has been advised of the suggestion and expects to act, he said.

Council met in caucus session with William B. Cooper, chairman of the newly-reactivated City Traffic Commission, for a general discussion of a plan to provide off-street parking spaces at strategic spots throughout the business district.

The meeting opened with invocation by Kaiser. Councilmen H. A. Tullis and George E. Willshaw were excused.

State Sues In County For Land For Highway

LISBON — The State Highway Department filed an appropriation action Monday in Common Pleas court against Mr. and Mrs. Edward Deville of R. D. 4.

The Devilles refused an offer of $146.50 for land needed for the improvement of Route 30.

The state wants an 1.172-acre tract in Hanover Township about 5 miles west of Lisbon for straightening the highway and for a new bridge over the West Fork of Little Beaver Creek.

Lisbon Autoist Cited After Traffic Mishap

LISBON — Louis Baronzzi, 34, of 702 Sunset Dr. was cited for reckless operation following a collision in the 300 block on E. Lincoln Way Monday at 12:50 p. m., Chief Dalton Pike reported.

Baronzzi, driving the car of Samuel Drakulich, struck the rear of a car Glenn Ward, 29, of 336 E. Chestnut St., had stopped suddenly when he saw a boy on a bicycle coming out of an alley.

Police estimated $300 damages to the Ward car and $450 to Baronzzi's.

Will Be Used For Science Equipment

Board Moves For Funds Under U.S. Defense Act

The Board of Education Monday night authorized an application for funds being made available under the National Defense Act for the purchase of science, mathematics and language equipment.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the board the funds are being made through the State Department of Education on a matching basis.

Originally set at $11 for each approved teaching unit, the allowance was increased late last week to $32 per unit, which would allow the board to purchase more than $13,000 worth of equipment for about $6,600, Betts said.

HOWEVER, there is not sufficient money available to take advantage of the entire allotment, the superintendent explained, and the state department has given permission to make an application now and then supplement it before Dec. 31 if the funds become available.

Betts said the application will be submitted on the original basis ($11 per unit) with all of the equipment being purchased for the science departments. A breakdown would show $2,173 being spent on equipment for elementary grades and $2,138 for science equipment in the high school. The board's share would be approximately $2,155.

The board deferred action on the disposition of the former West End School pending further investigation. The school was abandoned when Westgate School was opened several years ago.

A contract for the construction of a fire escape at Lincoln School was awarded to the Potters Construction Co. of Calcutta on its low bid of $3,481. Floyd C. Cox of East Liverpool asked $4,598 and Vangler Metal Products of Columbus $5,000.

Construction of the fire escape was ordered by the state following an inspection of the building.

APPOINTMENT of three teachers to the staff along with 11 for summer school was approved.

The new instructors are Mary Underwood as girls' physical education teacher in the high school. Rita McNinch as home economics teacher in the junior high school and Sara Jane McKinney as an elementary teacher.

The board also approved payment of an additional $100 to the girls' physical education teacher as coach of the cheerleaders.

The summer school appointments, all regular members of the staff, are Bert Dawson, Milton Watson, Charles Stetser, Helen Allison, Carl Weegar, Clarence Means, Frances Thomas, Norman McCabe, Isabel Clouse, Helen Capehart and Harry Wolfe. Miss Clouse and Miss Capehart will each teach four weeks.

Betts said some 150 high school students and 82 junior high pupils reported for the first sessions yesterday. The classes will end Aug. 7.

These resignations also were accepted. They were John Rossi, high school language teacher, Mark Shelton, junior high instructor, and Harold Wright as head custodian at Westgate effective July 15. Wright will remain in the system as a custodian.

Miss Kathryn Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported receipt of the second quarterly settlement of $155,532.27 from the state foundation program and a balance of $156,497.60 in school funds.

The balances include $141,142.07 in the general fund, $4,468.18 in bond retirement; $10,309.75, cafeteria; $320.85, improvement; $15, firemen training; $139.60, carpenter training; $16.50, foremen training, and $209.17, night school. There is a deficit of $123.03 in the workbook account.

Leo C. Lawrence, president, reminded the board it must make up its mind soon on the problem of whether to have schools return to standard time at the end of September of continue on "fast" time through October.

THE BOARD discussed the problem with City Council last year and then brought the problem up again for discussion at its own meeting a few months ago.

The suggestion to return to standard time at the end of September was made after several members complained of children waiting for buses in the dark and the early morning fogs which endanger bus transportation.

James Lowe said the decision could be made any time, but Samuel W. Brown and James Moss suggested it be reached as soon as possible.

Moss, chairman of the building committee, reported some 40 glass brick at Westgate School have been broken by children throwing stones. "I wish we could do something about the stone throwing; it's expensive to replace the brick," he said.

tors, the County Board of Education turned it over to the Election Board to determine the sufficiency or validity. The Election Board first checked the names of the signers against the district's poll books for the 1956 and 1958 general elections.

Because the names of 217 signers could not be found in the poll books, although they insisted they were qualified electors, the board exercised its fact-finding powers to conduct a field survey. It took affidavits from the persons who claimed they are qualified electors, although they did not vote in 1956 or 1958.

The affidavits covered the questions of citizenship, age and residence in the state and the school district — the determining factors in establishing whether a person is a qualified elector.

The board made its certification to the County Board of Education on the basis of the study of the poll books and the field survey that followed.

The petition does not refer to the proposal as a dissolution of the school district, but rather as a transfer of the area. Under the plan listed in the petition, the Fairfield Township area would be transferred to the Columbiana Exempted Village School District and the area which lies in Unity Township would become part of the East Palestine City School District.

Truck Mishap Hurts Worker

A street department worker apparently escaped serious injury when thrown off the rear of the city's tanker truck oil spreader Monday afternoon as it slipped onto its side after a rear wheel dropped into an open ditch on Riley Ave. at Coal Alley.

John Wolfe, 640 Azalea Ave., was examined by his surgeon at Beaver for possible re-injury of a knee on which surgery was performed recently, Safety - Service Director Joseph F. Ross explained. Wolfe was thrown from the truck about 1:12 p. m. as the driver, Thomas S. Anderson of Haywood St., maneuvered for a turn off Riley Ave. onto Coal Alley.

Wolfe was covered with oil when thrown from the truck and the extent of his injuries could not be determined immediately, police said. Anderson told Patrolman W. E. McDaniel he was driving up Riley Ave., spreading oil, and began to make a curve at the intersection when the right rear wheel slid into an open storm ditch, causing the truck to turn over onto its right side.

Wolfe was riding on the rear of the truck to regulate the flow of oil, the director explained. He said the liquid cargo apparently shifted in the big tank, disrupting the center of gravity and causing the truck to overturn. The right running board and gasoline tank of the truck were damaged, police said.

A collision at 5th and Market Sts. at 3:55 p. m. Monday damaged cars operated by Parks L. Pyle, 35, of Flat Rock, Mich., and Harold Mills of New England, W. Va., police said. Pyle told police he was halted for a traffic light when his car was hit from the rear by Mills'.

A smorgasbord buffet was served. The table was set up in an L-shape, with a large floral center piece of summer flowers. Fern and crystal candelabra centered the table. The cake was served by Mrs. Stoddard. The members of the Auxiliary assisted in serving the lunch and Miss McVay and Mrs. Stoddard presented each with a handmade Japanese fan.

The committee included Miss McVay, Mrs. Stoddard, co-chairlady, Mrs. William Wilson, Mrs. Allison, Mrs. McMasters. Some soiled spots on wallpaper can be cleaned by dipping a cloth into powdered borax and rubbing over the affected areas.

OVERTURNED OIL SPREADER. The city's tanker-type oil spreader lies on its side at Riley Ave. and Coal Alley Monday afternoon after it overturned when a rear wheel dropped into a ditch as it was rounding a turn. John Wolfe of Azalea Ave., a street department worker riding on the rear to regulate the flow of oil, was tossed from the truck, but apparently escaped serious injury. In the foreground is one of the city firemen called to stand by. Some of the oil escaped, but it ran into the street drain.

Former Fat Boy Describes Reducing Success

Teen-agers, if your only companion is food and you are miserably unhappy because you're a fatty, tune in. Today's report from a young boy who reduced and changed his life could prove to be a turning point in your life. Here is his story in his own words:

Ida Jean Kain

"A boy who is a real fatty in grammar school is constantly bullied and insulted. I know because I weighed 180 pounds for 5 feet 5. After school I would find comfort in chocolate cake. My best friend and only companion was food.

"My greatest joy was to have a stack of books with a stack of food even higher. Actually, I was a very frustrated person, even though I was too young to realize it.

"IN HIGH SCHOOL I developed a different kind of hunger, a hunger for friends and a social life. But I was so overweight I was left alone and so I ate even more.

"Shortly after my 16th birthday I dropped into my married sister's home. She was just disgusted with my appearance and urged me to give diet a try. I went home vowing, 'No, never, no diets for me!'

"Then I decided to give diet a try, just for the novelty. My sister encouraged me to come over each day after school, weigh in and stay for supper. I felt contented. I began losing weight. Now there is no concoction more exciting than seeing the indicator going downward. My sis allowed me a candy bar a week. I could have cheated, of course, but I didn't because I was enthralled by the declining pointer on the scales.

"Before I started to reduce, Fat Boy was a chief amusement for the town. Soon jeers turned to cheers. Neighbors made complimentary remarks. People began asking me to go places with them.

"Is it worth the giving up of favorite foods and worth the will power it takes? Yes, a thousand times over! Before, I had had to stop physical education because I was too cumbersome. . it wasn't long before I resumed gym classes. Life has new sparkle for me. And the best reward was a girl friend!

"Tell your overweight teen-agers that crazy diets are not the answer. The only way is your protective plan of eating. I now weigh 150 pounds and I am 5 feet 6 tall. I have held my weight at this level for the past five years.

"THE TRICK OF dieting is to concentrate on something other than food. I took up finger painting. Also I whipped into some calisthenics and took them daily, which helped me reduce my waist from 42 to 30. I walked daily — still do. To this day I have fatties asking me my secret.

So I don't want to keep this experience to myself. Overweights, start eating the protective way. I can promise you'll feel newly alive and be really living."

All right, overweight boys, there's a true champion to follow. You can reduce on 1400 to 1600 calories daily. Do your reducing on the protective foods and you will "outgrow" the fat.

Send a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet entitled "Teen-Age Slimming Challenge." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

Icenhower was arrested on a charge of pocket picking about two weeks after the traffic death by the jury. Bontempt had been accused of forgery but this was ignored because of his imprisonment as a parole violater.

No One Has Mentioned 'Lockout'

It is easy to understand why the Steelworkers Union is doing everything it can in its public statements to plant the idea that the strike it is threatening to call would be the fault of the steel companies.

This is the chronic weakness in the union's use of the strike weapon—that it must bear responsibility for striking.

No one has mentioned the possibility of a steel lockout, which would be the management equivalent of the union strike. If the steel industry comes to a stop, it will be because the union called a strike and forced a shutdown. It will not be because management closed its gates and refused to let its employes work.

Consequently, the Steelworkers Union is trying hard to make it appear in advance that responsibility for a strike would be on management's shoulders because management had refused to give the union what its negotiators wanted.

THIS IS ROUGHLY comparable in its upside-down logic to an argument familiar in international politics—the Russian argument that if war breaks out it will be the Western Allies' fault for not giving it what its diplomats say they want.

The fact always has been and still is that only unions can cause strikes. The only way management can bring about a shutdown is a lockout — and lockouts have all but passed out of existence.

In the same policy statement that blamed management in advance last week for not giving the Steelworkers Union what it wants and thereby creating the threat of a strike, there is a passage describing the union's point of view on what once were management's perogatives and still are in most places.

The passage said the negotiating companies had revealed their "underlying purposes" in a letter to the union president, David J. McDonald. The companies' proposals, said the Steelworkers, "would give management the unrestricted right to order around the working force at will, speed up, combine jobs, eliminate relief periods, set up any schedules of work they see fit at any time without protection of employes' rights or desires, tough vacation-benefits qualifications, further restrict employe choice of vacation time, change seniority rules and cut down on certain features of existing severance allowance, supplemental unemployment benefits, insurance and pension programs. To top it all, they propose that the union grant new latitude to management to unilaterally establish incentive rates of pay and production standards."

THE QUESTION always arises when unions make statements like this about whether they run their affairs to suit their pattern when they become employers themselves. How do they deal with their own employes?

Do unions really believe management should have nothing to say about management, other than raising the money to meet the payroll, or do they only talk that way when they are firing up their members for a strike?

Not Even A Maginot Line Next Time

A great discovery has been made in Washington — that defense in another war could not produce even a modern Maginot Line.

The "line," a two-million-dollar-a-mile chain of forts built by the French to stop Hitler, did force the German attackers to alter their blitzkrieg tactics. But since World War II, blitzkrieging itself has become obsolete.

Attack in a future war would be conducted by air. Land forces would move in after the nuclear warheads had done their damage. Aside from their possible use as shelters from radiation and after - blast, Maginot - type fortresses would have no use.

Yet, Washington has continued to do Maginot-line thinking in every move it has made to build a defense against what its experts now are conceding cannot be thwarted—the ballistic missile. Once the missile is on its way, there will be no place to hide and no time to hide. No weapons system being planned and no system that is conceivable could provide a defense. Even manned bombers, which were the theoretical attacking force to be offset by some 30 billion dollars' worth of defense paraphernalia either built, building, or an order, could not have been stopped. Their striking power could have been reduced; no more than that.

This is the great discovery in Washington. Unfortunately, it is not being admitted in so many words. But it is implicit in everything being discussed and planned. The classic blunder of French militarism before World War II was to prepare an elaborate defense against something that did not have to be used on the defender's terms. There is no defense any more — just the ability to retaliate.

British militarists, as it turned out, were saved by their relative lack of preparation before World War II. They had the option, because they were not committed to anything else, to turn to their superb Spitfires and the young pilots who knocked Goering's primitive bombers out of the air.

At the end of the war, when Germany was using the first guided missiles, even the Royal British Air Force was of little use.

To Spite The Land We Love

Conviction of the four Florida white men whose rape of a Negro girl showed another side of this country's race problem at a touchy juncture in the buildup of public emotion over the lynching of Mack Charles Parker puts the key decision up to the judge in the case. Under Florida law, he can sentence the defendants to life imprisonment or he can let them off with a scolding.

Yet, in thinking of the crime the four men committed and of their backgrounds many Americans must have come to the same conclusion: That there is no punishment to fit their crime.

The defendants, like all defendants in cases of wanton violence against helpless persons, are guilty of brutality; that is, they are convicted of the crime of having had no benefit from the civilization that produced them. The very fact that the foreman of the jury which found them guilty says intimidation of their rape victim with a gun and a knife did not constitute brutality, therefore mercy was shown, is a grim reminder that brutality in the United States is relative.

To spite the land we love, brutes wantonly kill helpless victims to prove they can exercise their lethal option if they choose. Gangs set on human beings without warning, to beat them to death. Americans are killed in holdups for a few dollars. Children commit heinous crimes against other humans and show no contrition. Husbands and wives destroy one another in hatred. Mothers plot the deaths of their daughters-in-law. For a sum of money, people will destroy a plane or a train, committing murder against unknown persons.

There is no proper punishment for the crime of being in violation of civilization. It is as if the indictment were against civilization, itself, for having found no way to prevent mockery by persons unable to share its benefits.

A Matter Of Public Concern

The foreman of the New York grand jury whose carefully prepared presentment of the manner in which some TV quiz shows were "fixed" has summed up public indignation over the presiding judge's decision to seal and impound the evidence.

Louis M. Hacker, the foreman and formerly dean of the School of General Studies at Columbia University, said he and the other members of the grand jury had given nine months of their lives to learn what had happened and that regardless of legal justification for sealing their findings a moral wrong had been done by not releasing it to the public.

Anticipating the objection that a presentment could do irreparable harm to individuals and organizations, because they would be unable to defend themselves in the absence of any indictment for wrong-doing, the grand jury had omitted all names and identities. It had concentrated on the kind of questionable procedure that caused sponsors and the television audience to lose interest in quiz shows in October and November last year after allegations of "fixing" had been made by a contestant.

The presentment was designed to explain to the public what had gone on behind the scenes to produce the allegations and what basis there was for them. The alternative, as the grand jury foreman saw it, would have been a legislative investigation in which many individuals and organizations would have been exposed to unfavorable publicity.

As it now turns out, the television industry, itself, is being made the goat. It would have been better off if it had requested the court to publish the grand jury presentment as proof that it has attained enough maturity to accept responsibility for its trusteeship of a public trust, even when the going gets rough.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

A graduation (with sheepskins) was held in a college for waiters the other day. Some of those bad meals and poor service we have been getting could have been due to the fact we drew waiters who had flunked the course. But it's good to know that the boys are going to college. We have never known what to say when we got a waiter who brought us cold soup. Now we can demand, "Let's see your diploma."

THE SCHOOL COURSE is for 20 weeks. This is not enough. It could leave a garcon still a freshman. What the public wants is his oysters served by a Phi Beta man and the guinea hen carved by a waiter who has been voted "most likely to succeed." Ideal Alma Mater should have the following courses:

1. English and restraint in its usage during strain and stress in contacts with a critical customer.

2. Mathematics and the importance of correct addition.

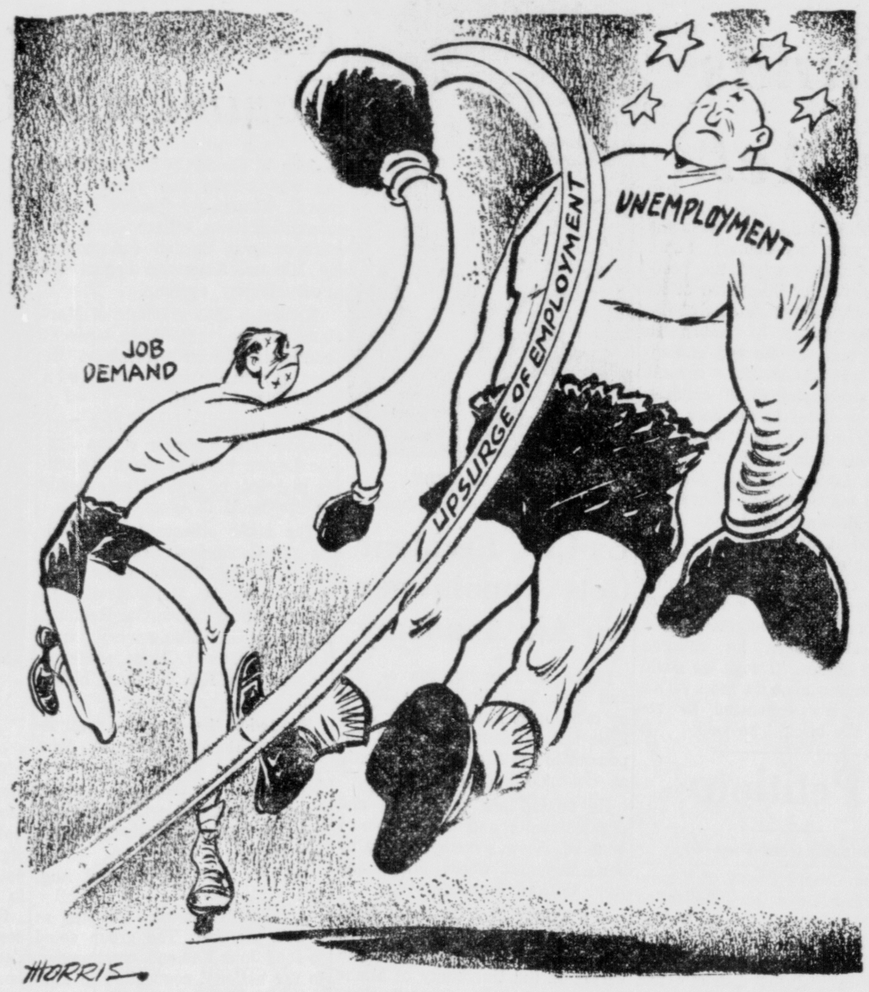

3. Dead languages, with study of such sentences as "A 10 per cent tip is plenty," "Don't Hurry. The line is only a block long" and "I can take you directly to a good table instead of one by the kitchen door."

4. Diplomacy, with special instruction in explaining that the boss, not the waiter, is responsible for the use of a blackboard and perhaps complete abolition of the menu, except through the spoken word, and with the cost a house secret.

We Knew He'd Come Back

Court Puts Hoffa In Deep Trouble

By Victor Riesel

Jim Hoffa came up like thunder early last Wednesday morning. He was tougher, harder, angrier than he had ever been—and scared in his fashion, not frightened. Just scared that for the first time there was a real threat to his control of the Teamsters.

Victor Riesel

Somehow, while official Washington slept, Jim Hoffa got word that the land's second highest bench—the U.S. Court of Appeals—had ruled against him. Newsmen, wire services, even special government lawyers didn't get the decision for hours. But Jimmy had it.

He hit the phones because he knew that the Court of Appeals now made it possible for Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts to run the Teamsters—and to remove Hoffa from the presidency. Make no mistake about that—Hoffa obeys Judge Letts or Hoffa will be jailed or ousted from the Teamsters presidency or both.

HOFFA KNEW even before 8 a.m. that this was the effect of the Appeals Court decision. Hoffa hit most of the 10 phones in his Woodner Hotel three-room luxury apartment. He called his lawyers and his top aides and told them to prepare for a skull session in the Taj Mahal known as Teamster general headquarters. All across the country they packed and waited.

Before he met with them, Hoffa had one trip to make. He planned to fly in to Newark, N. J., for a special meeting, of importance to him, his ego and his alter ego, Harold Gibbons. Was this trip necessary?

To Hoffa it was. He has summoned scores of New Jersey Teamster officials and their high-fashion, tailored retinues to a conference recently in Washington—one of those breakfast sessions during which they scrambled eggs and congressmen at the Congressional Hotel. The morning came. So did New Jersey congressmen. They outnumbered the Jersey Teamsters—who did not come, except for four of the boys.

HOFFA ROARED when he heard. He sent word he'd come into Newark on the night of June 10. He ordered all paid officials to be at the meeting—with their members—to be whipped into line. Period.

There have been other times when the "loyal" rank-and-file has not worn its affection for the little boss on its sleeve.

But Jersey had always been one of Hoffa's fortresses—heavily armored and all that. Its unconcern disturbed him at the very moment when he was trying to absorb the full meaning of the 90-page court decision.

For hours that morning before he took off, his lawyers explained, paragraph by paragraph. The more they read, the more apparent it became that the real power in the Teamsters for some years would be a man, Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who was on the federal bench at that very moment not too far distant. The judge had not gotten the decision until after Hoffa's people had it. How come?

JUDGE LETTS, who originally appointed the monitors, began studying the document about one o'clock. He was not certain of his full powers. But of the following he was sure:

He will remove James Hoffa if the Teamsters' provisional president does not clean up the elements which have been exposed by the courts and the McClellan committee as corrupt.

There will not be a national Teamster convention until every one of the 900-odd locals have revised their bylaws and financial practices to meet the strictest ethical codes.

There will be Honest Ballot Assn. elections of local union officers everywhere.

This means that Hoffa's closest friends will have to stand union trial—and that most of them may be ousted.

As Hoffa faced all this, he saw red literally and figuratively. This can cut deeply into the union's massive treasury. Hoffa will be expected by his colleagues to appeal every decision of Judge Letts.

If last year's legal fees ran close to half a million dollars, such appeals could run into the millions —for there will have to be hundreds of such actions. And every appeal will have to be made under glass for all to see the record.

For this, Hoffa, never a gourmet of any kind, has no stomach. Small wonder he came up like thunder in that homey Woodner Hotel suite —newest showplace of the proletariat.

Two Learned Latin

By Truman Twill

The dons of Oxford University are turning sour on the study of Latin, it is reported from merrie England, and as one who beat them to it by many years I say, "Ipse dixit."

No one gave me serious attention when I said it, but if the dons finally decide Latin has served its purpose as an educational tool the effect will be conclusive. While awaiting their decision, there is a passing thought I'd like to get down on paper.

It is an acknowledgment to two gracious young ladies who saw me through "Cicero" and "Virgil." Saw? Carried. As on a pony. It worked like this:

In the alphabetic seating arrangement that prevailed, I ended up between these twin paragons of versatility in the deadest language. They were a brace of whiz kids. Marjorie sat in front of me, Ruth sat behind me.

They never failed to make the honor roll in all their born days, but as sometimes happens in such cases they had nothing to distract them — no social whirl, no boy friends, not even any close girl friends. They were out of it.

They took pity on the stupid boy who kept them separated. They obeyed their womanly instinct to do a dual mother-hen bit for his benefit. This is a vital point.

I did not solicit their help, but neither did I spurn it, lest some injury be done to their instinct to succor the weak. And that was how it came about that we went through "Cicero" and "Virgil" together. What Marjorie couldn't pass on to the struggling traveler, Ruth conveyed sotto voce.

I think now the teacher must have known what was going on; she would have had to be deaf not to have known it. But I think she, herself, may have been doing some mother-henning for the struggling scholar with the crooked smile and the pleading eyes.

They were sorry for me in the sense that people are sorry for helpless kids, kittens, pups and baby birds. They were gratifying their desire to prove that man is something more than a heartless beast of the field—an angel on celestial leave, if you want to take a strong viewpoint.

I learned much from the experience. To this day, I am a cripple as far as carrying on chit-chat in Latin, or reading the Gaul Gazette, are concerned, but to this day I know enough never to strike down a helping hand.

Those two young ladies never would have forgiven me. Their souls would have been scarred by the wound of my contempt for their fine instincts. They would have been females scorned, and everybody knows how rotten and rough that can be.

I am glad I let them carry me through a difficult period in my life, and my only regret is that when it came time to study a modern language and I chose French, Marjorie (who would have sat in front of me) chose Spanish instead and Ruth was shuffled into a seat too far from mine, leaving me to my own devices.

My devices were not adequate to the occasion. I goofed the French, oo-la-la. It was historic the way I didn't dig the patois of the frogs and puzzling to the faculty because of a theory that a working acquaintance with Latin always shows up in the study of French.

But as we used to say in Rome before any of these recent reincarnations, "Qui facit per alium facit per se." Which means, for those who never knew Rome in the good old days, "He who does a thing through another does it through himself." Marjorie, Ruth and me — all three. We learned to be kind to one another. Two of us learned Latin.

Soviet Science

By David Lawrence

Russian Scientists Dominated By Party

What scientists can be believed on such vital questions as nuclear testing—and which ones are truly loyal? How many are used knowingly or unknowingly to advance a Communist purpose in international affairs?

David Lawrence

These questions would not arise were it not for the established fact that the Soviet government does manipulate its scientists and make them adjust their scientific endeavors to suit the objectives of Communism itself.

The full story, for example, of what the Soviet Academy of Sciences really is and how it functions as part of the Communist party organization is not known generally in the United States. Possibly it is not always known to the Americans and Europeans who are occasionally selected for honorary membership in what is supposedly an association devoted entirely to scientific purposes.

A most enlightening study of the Soviet Academy of Sciences has been made on behalf of the Hoover Institute at Stanford University in a book written by Prof. Alexander S. Vucinich, an associate professor of sociology at San Jose State College in California.

THIS IS THE first extended study of the Soviet Academy written in English. Prof. Vucinich says in his conclusions:

"It is therefore clear that the academy, with its institutionalized party guidance, governmental authority and fictitious self-government, is a typical Soviet institution. It is clear also that science in the Soviet Union is actually 'party science'—as, indeed, it is frequently referred to in Communist literature. The party hierarchy, through institutionalized channels, has indisputable power in determining how much research and what kind of research is done, which scientific endeavors take precedence over which others and upon what ideological foundations Soviet science shall be based. . . .

"The party organization, in turn, makes it clear that the academy is fully subservient to the Communist hierarchy. Obviously, the real 'general staff of Soviet science' is outside the academy. All in all, the Communist network in the academy is assigned the task of defending the party's vested interests in science, curbing deviationist tendencies and 'persuading' the recalcitrants to fall into line. Whatever the techniques of Communist operation, the scholar's fear of ultimate retaliation and the party's power to move coercive forces into operation are the causes of its success."

The system of control is such that the leading positions in the academy's organization are occupied by minor scientists are persons who have hardly anything in common with the scientific work.

"Some of these," writes Prof. Vucinich,' "are typical party organizers, the highly mobile Communist workers known as rigid disciplinarians and masters of all the tricks of molding party units into efficient but strictly authoritarian workshops. . . .

"Although minor scholars occupy the most influential positions within the academy's party organization, the major scholars are as a rule the chief interpreters of Communist ideology. Every change in the party's thinking, every shift in political emphasis and every occasion of ideological import is brought to the attention of, or clarified or interpreted for, the academy's scientific elite by a small group of Communist academicians."

WHEN SOVIET scientists, therefore, come to the United States or Canada for conferences with American scientists, it is natural that there should be suspicion attached to the purpose of the mission of these Communists.

In the United States there has been criticism of those scientists who have become identified with political and ideological movements. In the Soviet Union, on the other hand, the scientists are constantly being pressed into the making of political declarations to conform to the Communist line and to the policies of the Kremlin.

Under the circumstances, the question may well be asked whether any Americans ought hereafter to participate in, as members, or accept affiliation with the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

Twins In The Middle

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Those powerful Texas twins — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn, leaders of the House and Senate Democrats — are in a strange spot for them. They're in the middle.

Republicans berate this heavily Democratic Congress, where Johnson and Rayburn are undisputed bosses, for trying to go too far. Now some leading Democrats are swiping at the two Texans for not leading the Democrats far enough.

This is an odd turn of events for this shrewd pair of politicians. They started this year with a Congress where the Democrats, because of their 1958 election victory, had an almost overwhelming majority.

It was thought then — because of the big Democratic majority and the fact President Eisenhower was in the last two years of his second and last term — that Johnson and Rayburn, not Eisenhower, would call the tune and the shots.

The Democrats talked of programs far broader than Eisenhower had in mind. But this was at a time when the country still didn't know whether it was truly pulling out of the 1958 recession.

Big programs — and big-spending programs — might have been a necessity if the recession continued. But it didn't. The country was moving out of recession into another potential boom.

And Eisenhower, probably with the help of some smart political advice, found a way to put the Democratic majority on the defensive. This was in his campaign — sounded over and over — against the danger of inflation and big spending.

He put the label "big spenders" on the Democrats. It made them self-conscious.

But he had a weapon to use against them, too. This was the threat he'd veto any programs which the Democratic-run Congress passed but which he considered excessive. It has been a potent weapon, augmented by a constant needling from Republican leaders in Congress against Democratic "budget busters."

As a net result, this is a far more conservative Congress than it seemed likely to be at the beginning of the year.

Monday the Senate, where Democrats far outnumber Republicans, backtracked on a bill for federal airport grants, voting to continue for two years the present rate of 63 million dollars a year instead of the 465 million the Democrats originally wanted over a four-year period.

Some Senate Democrats shook their heads over the retreat and said they had been forced to surrender "with a loaded veto pen at our heads." But if this wasn't bad enough for Johnson and Rayburn to have to endure, they got something just as bad from inside their own party.

Over the weekend the Democratic Advisory Council, made up of prominent Democrats, denounced Eisenhower's threat of vetoes on legislation he didn't like.

At the same time it complained of "watering down proposed legislation to the limits of what the President might accept." This was interpreted as a sharp crack at the Johnson-Rayburn leadership. Both men have consistently ignored the council.

Then the council threw in this: it advised the congressional Democrats to pass legislation they think the country needs even if it is vetoed, since it would make a good campaign issue in the 1960 elections.

That's free advice but begs the question. If Johnson and Rayburn push legislation they think the country needs, but only to get it vetoed and end up with no legislation at all, the country is worse off than if Johnson and Rayburn had pushed less far-reaching legislation which Eisenhower did not veto.

In other words, while the Democrats got a talking point in 1960, the country would suffer. Since Johnson and Rayburn ignore the council, they'll probably ignore this and go along on compromises.

A Striking Story

John Walker, an English apothecary who died 100 years ago, has saved many a man from a singed beard.

The druggist made the first friction match, a foul-smelling but relatively safe lighter on which the modern match industry is based. Walker sold 100 Sulphurata Hyperoxygenta Frict. to his first customer in 1827. Today the United States alone produces more than 500 billion wood and paper matches a year.

The first friction matches were three inches long, tipped with antimony sulphide, potassium chlorate, gum arabic and starch. When pulled through a fold of sandpaper, they ignited with a series of popping explosions and a shower of sparks.

Despite these pyrotechnics, Walker's matches were safer and more convenient than previous lighters and many marketed later.

Industry Township

Miss Judy Kress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kress, became the bride of Paul Farnan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farnan of Midland, at a Nuptial High Mass in the Presentation Catholic Church in Midland Saturday. Fr. Robert Garland performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride's floor-length gown was fashioned of nylon embroidered organdy and featured a fitted bodice and sabrina neckline. The full skirt was tiered and styled with embroidery. Short sleeves were completed with elbow mitts. Her French illusion veil was gathered from a pearl crown.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride followed all the familiar traditions. She held a white Colonial bouquet.

Miss Patricia Kubel of Beaver served as maid of honor. Misses Stella Bozek of Conway and Mary Pat Farnan of Midland, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Their street-length gowns were of white nylon organdy over yellow underskirts. The full skirts featured a bustle effect in back. They wore matching shoes and carried lavender astors arranged in Colonial bouquets.

Farnan, assistant football coach of Midland High school, chose his brother, Peter Farnan, of Midland as best man. Eugene Martell of Toledo and Edward Kress were ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Farnan are honeymooning in the Pocano Mountains. They will return this weekend and occupy a newly-furnished apartment in Beaver.

PRIZE-WINNING HAIR STYLE. Creating a new "flat-top" hair style for women, Audley Elliott, operator of a W. 6th St. shop, won the first place award in the women's division at the state convention of the Ohio Barbers' Association in Akron. He created the new hair style, called "Playtime," using Mrs. Martha Blatchford, 311 Garfield St., as the model. Admiring the creation is Clarence D. Wright of Blakeley St., president of the State Barbers' Association. The competition attracted a crowd of 500 at the state convention. Wright said the association hopes to conduct similar competition each year.

$4,000 Loss Seen In Blaze

Damage estimated at $4,000 resulted from the fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Scarry of Indiana Ave., Chester, Monday shortly before noon.

Firemen confined the flames to the second floor of the frame home between 1st and 2nd Sts., but there was considerable water and smoke damage throughout.

The bathroom, hall and attic were charred badly and furniture in the bedrooms was scorched although there were no flames in the bedrooms Fire Chief Raymond Gibbs reported.

The blaze apparently spread from the bathroom, but the actual cause of the fire has not been determined. A large amount of clothing and linen was burned, and water caused plaster to fall in the livingroom.

Firemen and neighbors worked rapidly in removing furniture and personal belongings from the home, saving many items from damage. Gibbs said a new roof will be needed at the rear.

Fifteen firemen and 2 trucks answered the alarm at 11:19 a. m. Gibbs said the house damage is covered by insurance, and the damage to the contents is partially insured.

Burglary

change-holder from the cash register was found about 200 feet away on Sanford Ave.

Officer Higgins started the investigation, which later was taken over by his relief, Patrolman W. E. McDaniel. The register's keys included titles like "TV service" and other departmental subdivisions that indicated to the police that the register had been taken from a TV or radio shop. A systematic check of such stores disclosed that the front door was standing partly open at the Croxall shop. The lock had been torn out of the door with a jimmy, officers said.

The amateurish burglars removed the register from the store without realizing that it was electrically-operated. Outside the store, without a power source, they were forced to pry open the money drawer.

The burglarized beauty shop is operated by Flora Mae Miller, police said. Entrance was gained by forcing open a door at the street level and another leading from the stairway into the shop.

The money was taken from a table drawer. Apparently in quest of hidden money, the intruder emptied drawers, cupboards and closets and scattered the contents onto the floor. Pictures and an electric clock were ripped off the wall. The burglary took place between 6 p. m. Monday and 8 this morning, police said.

The largest plants in the world are some of the seaweeds found in the Pacific Ocean, with stalks more than 500 feet long.

East Liverpool Man Gets County Sanitarian's Job

Harry H. Stockdale, 1005 Dresden Ave., former city sanitarian, was appointed sanitarian for the Columbiana County Health District at a meeting of the county Board of Health Monday night at Lisbon.

Stockdale, 51, will receive a salary of $4,500, plus a travel allowance of 8 cents a mile. He succeeds Thomas Boyce, who resigned June 1 to become a sanitarian with the Alliance Health Department.

Stockdale attended Emory and Henry College in Virginia in 1927-30, and was employed as city sanitarian from 1954 to 1957 when he and some other city employes were furloughed in an economy move.

He is married and has a married daughter and a son in college.

In other action, the board authorized a request for information to be sent to the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board and Ohio Board of Health concerning drainage of effluent from sewage treatment systems into streams and ditches.

The Ohio Pump Co. of Salem has asked the county board to authorize installation of such sewage systems in which the effluent drains off.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, health commissioner, reported the health department made 156 inspections in plumbing and septic tank installations since May 18.

The board will meet July 20.

100 Indian Engineers To Learn About Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's steel industry has agreed to train 100 Indian engineers a year over the next three years to meet what India's Premier Nehru calls a need for "trained human material" to man his country's expanding steel program.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says the program provides in-plant training for India's selected graduate engineers to help insure success of that nation's current five-year industrialization plan.

Renewal Vote Requested On Hospital Levy

Two officers of the City Hospital Association asked Council Monday night to seek a vote at the Nov. 3 general election on renewal of the three-quarter mill levy that has been in effect for 30 years as the public's way of supporting the institution.

Council took under advisement the request filed by J. Donald Thompson, president of the Board of Trustees of the association, and W. A. Betz, secretary.

In effect since 1929, the levy has been renewed every five years "by resounding majorities which indicate the people are in favor of it," Thompson told Council.

He said a 60 per cent affirmative vote would be required for passage, according to information given hospital authorities by the County Election Board. However, a bill before the state legislation would cut the required vote for such a measure to a bare majority, Thompson added.

In response to questions from councilmen, Thompson said the money produced by the levy—approximately $30,000 a year—helps take care of charity cases and the indigent.

In order to call for a vote, Council would enact a resolution certifying the question to the Election Board for a place on the November ballot.

County Airs Crossing Plea At Columbus

LISBON — Commissioner Walter A. Hunston of East Palestine is attending the Public Utilities Commission hearing today in Columbus relative to requested protection at a railroad crossing at Moultrie on Route 172 in the western part of the county.

The railroad claims the accident rate and traffic at the crossing does not warrant installation of automatic signals.

The request was made formally by county commissioners and the railroad refused.

Motorist Complains Of 'Stranding'

Council Again Will Study Car Danger At Crossing

Council promised an investigation Monday night after an East End man complained that southbound traffic sometimes is "stranded" on the Walnut St. railroad crossing, despite a sign that requires River Rd. traffic to halt and give the right-of-way to the motorist on the tracks.

Asking for better enforcement or a new regulation, Elmer Hunt, 1715 Pennsylvania Ave., told Council that the "stranded" drivers' lives are endangered because they might be forced to halt in the path of an oncoming freight train.

The city erected the sign at the crossing several years ago, following through on complaints that motorists were required to halt on the crossing because River Rd. traffic would not give them the right-of-way.

HUNT TOLD Council he has heard reports the sign has no legal effect because it is not backed up by an ordinance. He said his car has been stranded on the Walnut St. crossing several times.

Many East End potters who are employed at Chester use Walnut St. as a shortcut from the Chester Bridge to the First Ward via the River Rd., Hunt said. Council directed an investigation by its street committee, Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross and Police Chief A. J. Radeschi.

The street committee also was given a request for establishment of one-way traffic and one-side parking on Ridgeway Ave. between Lansdowne Ave. and Chestnut St. The request was given to Council by Councilman Samuel B. Webber.

He also asked a check on a street light on Spring Grove Ave. which is shielded by a large tree, cutting its effectiveness. The light might be raised to eliminate the shrouding effect, he suggested.

As a result of a recent investigation, the street committee learned that two large trees overhanging a home on Riverview St. are on city property and they will be removed with the assistance of the Ohio Power Co., Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. reported.

Reporting for the planning committee, Councilman W. E. Kaiser, chairman, said a check on deeds at Lisbon showed that the city-owned property at E. 2nd and Washington Sts. was not purchased specifically for playground purposes.

THAT WAS one of the points raised by a neighborhood group which filed a complaint at the June 1 meeting. The committee also requested the city to remove logs and bricks which were stored on part of the site.

Kaiser said his investigation showed the city purchased the ground for $8,500 from the estate of John W. Croxall, but there was no provision that it would be used for playground purposes.

Councilman William Y. Orr said installation of two pieces of sewer pipe would help close an open ditch on Riley Ave. where a truck became stuck recently. The administration has been advised of the suggestion and expects to act, he said.

Council met in caucus session with William B. Cooper, chairman of the newly-reactivated City Traffic Commission, for a general discussion of a plan to provide off-street parking spaces at strategic spots throughout the business district.

The meeting opened with invocation by Kaiser. Councilmen H. A. Tullis and George E. Willshaw were excused.

State Sues In County For Land For Highway

LISBON — The State Highway Department filed an appropriation action Monday in Common Pleas court against Mr. and Mrs. Edward Deville of R. D. 4.

The Devilles refused an offer of $146.50 for land needed for the improvement of Route 30.

The state wants an 1.172-acre tract in Hanover Township about 5 miles west of Lisbon for straightening the highway and for a new bridge over the West Fork of Little Beaver Creek.

Lisbon Autoist Cited After Traffic Mishap

LISBON — Louis Baronzzi, 34, of 702 Sunset Dr. was cited for reckless operation following a collision in the 300 block on E. Lincoln Way Monday at 12:50 p. m., Chief Dalton Pike reported.

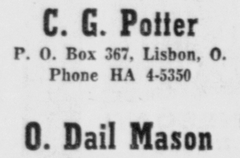

Baronzzi, driving the car of Samuel Drakulich, struck the rear of a car Glenn Ward, 29, of 336 E. Chestnut St., had stopped suddenly when he saw a boy on a bicycle coming out of an alley.

Truck Mishap Hurts Worker

A street department worker apparently escaped serious injury when thrown off the rear of the city's tanker truck oil spreader Monday afternoon as it slipped onto its side after a rear wheel dropped into an open ditch on Riley Ave. at Coal Alley.

John Wolfe, 640 Azalea Ave., was examined by his surgeon at Beaver for possible re-injury of a knee on which surgery was performed recently, Safety - Service Director Joseph F. Ross explained. Wolfe was thrown from the truck about 1:12 p. m. as the driver, Thomas S. Anderson of Haywood St., maneuvered for a turn off Riley Ave. onto Coal Alley.

Wolfe was covered with oil when thrown from the truck and the extent of his injuries could not be determined immediately, police said. Anderson told Patrolman W. E. McDaniel he was driving up Riley Ave., spreading oil, and began to make a curve at the intersection when the right rear wheel slid into an open storm ditch, causing the truck to turn over onto its right side.

Wolfe was riding on the rear of the truck to regulate the flow of oil, the director explained. He said the liquid cargo apparently shifted in the big tank, disrupting the center of gravity and causing the truck to overturn. The right running board and gasoline tank of the truck were damaged, police said.

A collision at 5th and Market Sts. at 3:55 p. m. Monday damaged cars operated by Parks L. Pyle, 35, of Flat Rock, Mich., and Harold Mills of New England, W. Va., police said. Pyle told police he was halted for a traffic light when his car was hit from the rear by Mills'.

OVERTURNED OIL SPREADER. The city's tanker-type oil spreader lies on its side at Riley Ave. and Coal Alley Monday afternoon after it overturned when a rear wheel dropped into a ditch as it was rounding a turn. John Wolfe of Azalea Ave., a street department worker riding on the rear to regulate the flow of oil, was tossed from the truck, but apparently escaped serious injury. In the foreground is one of the city firemen called to stand by. Some of the oil escaped, but it ran into the street drain.

Former Fat Boy Describes Reducing Success

Teen-agers, if your only companion is food and you are miserably unhappy because you're a fatty, tune in. Today's report from a young boy who reduced and changed his life could prove to be a turning point in your life. Here is his story in his own words:

Ida Jean Kain

"A boy who is a real fatty in grammar school is constantly bullied and insulted. I know because I weighed 180 pounds for 5 feet 5. After school I would find comfort in chocolate cake. My best friend and only companion was food.

"My greatest joy was to have a stack of books with a stack of food even higher. Actually, I was a very frustrated person, even though I was too young to realize it.

"IN HIGH SCHOOL I developed a different kind of hunger, a hunger for friends and a social life. But I was so overweight I was left alone and so I ate even more.

"Shortly after my 16th birthday I dropped into my married sister's home. She was just disgusted with my appearance and urged me to give diet a try. I went home vowing, 'No, never, no diets for me!'

"Then I decided to give diet a try, just for the novelty. My sister encouraged me to come over each day after school, weigh in and stay for supper. I felt contented. I began losing weight. Now there is no concoction more exciting than seeing the indicator going downward. My sis allowed me a candy bar a week. I could have cheated, of course, but I didn't because I was enthralled by the declining pointer on the scales.

"Before I started to reduce, Fat Boy was a chief amusement for the town. Soon jeers turned to cheers. Neighbors made complimentary remarks. People began asking me to go places with them.

"Is it worth the giving up of favorite foods and worth the will power it takes? Yes, a thousand times over! Before, I had had to stop physical education because I was too cumbersome. . .it wasn't long before I resumed gym classes. Life has new sparkle for me. And the best reward was a girl friend!

"Tell your overweight teen-agers that crazy diets are not the answer. The only way is your protective plan of eating. I now weigh 150 pounds and I am 5 feet 6 tall. I have held my weight at this level for the past five years.

"THE TRICK OF dieting is to concentrate on something other than food. I took up finger painting. Also I whipped into some calisthenics and took them daily, which helped me reduce my waist from 42 to 30. I walked daily — still do. To this day I have fatties asking me my secret.

So I don't want to keep this experience to myself. Overweights, start eating the protective way. I can promise you'll feel newly alive and be really living."

All right, overweight boys, there's a true champion to follow. You can reduce on 1400 to 1600 calories daily. Do your reducing on the protective foods and you will "outgrow" the fat.

Send a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet entitled "Teen-Age Slimming Challenge." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

Man Bound Over

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leonard Babcock, 46, accused of killing his wife in their apartment in Lakewood Friday night, waived preliminary hearing Monday and was bound over to the grand jury. Lakewood police said Babcock admitted shooting his wife, Georgia, 46, but claimed she had threatened him with a bottle after a drinking session.

Wayne Sims, 28, and John Wesley Letzkus, 20, both of Salem, auto larceny and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. They are accused of the theft of a car April 18 from George McCartney of Teegarden Rd., Salem.

David Lee Windon, 27, of Salem, auto larceny and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent. This involves a car taken April 8 from Zimmerman Auto Sales in Salem. The Grand Jury also charged two counts of burglary Feb. 10 and 13 at Zimmerman's and one count at the Broomal Pontiac Garage March 17.

Charges ignored were against George Bontempt, 25, of East Liverpool now in the Ohio State Penitentiary, and Icenhower, the manslaughter defendant.

Icenhower was arrested on a charge of pocket picking about two weeks after the traffic death by the jury. Bontempt had been accused of forgery but this was ignored because of his imprisonment as a parole violater.

Arraignment will be held July 1 at 9 a. m. before Judge Buzzard, who is handling criminal cases for the remainder of the April term of court.

$4,000 Loss Seen In Blaze

Damage estimated at $4,000 resulted from the fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Scarry of Indiana Ave., Chester, Monday shortly before noon.

Firemen confined the flames to the second floor of the frame home between 1st and 2nd Sts., but there was considerable water and smoke damage throughout.

The bathroom, hall and attic were charred badly and furniture in the bedrooms was scorched although there were no flames in the bedrooms Fire Chief Raymond Gibbs reported.

The blaze apparently spread from the bathroom, but the actual cause of the fire has not been determined. A large amount of clothing and linen was burned, and water caused plaster to fall in the livingroom.

Firemen and neighbors worked rapidly in removing furniture and personal belongings from the home, saving many items from damage. Gibbs said a new roof will be needed at the rear.

Fifteen firemen and 2 trucks answered the alarm at 11:19 a. m. Gibbs said the house damage is covered by insurance, and the damage to the contents is partially insured.

Burglary

change-holder from the cash register was found about 200 feet away on Sanford Ave.

Officer Higgins started the investigation, which later was taken over by his relief, Patrolman W. E. McDaniel. The register's keys included titles like "TV service" and other departmental subdivisions that indicated to the police that the register had been taken from a TV or radio shop. A systematic check of such stores disclosed that the front door was standing partly open at the Croxall shop. The lock had been torn out of the door with a jimmy, officers said.

The amateurish burglars removed the register from the store without realizing that it was electrically-operated. Outside the store, without a power source, they were forced to pry open the money drawer.

The burglarized beauty shop is operated by Flora Mae Miller, police said. Entrance was gained by forcing open a door at the street level and another leading from the stairway into the shop.

The money was taken from a table drawer. Apparently in quest of hidden money, the intruder emptied drawers, cupboards and closets and scattered the contents onto the floor. Pictures and an electric clock were ripped off the wall. The burglary took place between 6 p. m. Monday and 8 this morning, police said.

The largest plants in the world are some of the seaweeds found in the Pacific Ocean, with stalks more than 500 feet long.

Harry H. Stockdale, 1005 Dresden Ave., former city sanitarian, was appointed sanitarian for the Columbiana County Health District at a meeting of the county Board of Health Monday night at Lisbon.

Stockdale, 51, will receive a salary of $4,500, plus a travel allowance of 8 cents a mile. He succeeds Thomas Boyce, who resigned June 1 to become a sanitarian with the Alliance Health Department.

Stockdale attended Emory and Henry College in Virginia in 1927-30, and was employed as city sanitarian from 1954 to 1957 when he and some other city employes were furloughed in an economy move.

He is married and has a married daughter and a son in college.

In other action, the board authorized a request for information to be sent to the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board and Ohio Board of Health concerning drainage of effluent from sewage treatment systems into streams and ditches.

The Ohio Pump Co. of Salem has asked the county board to authorize installation of such sewage systems in which the effluent drains off.

Dr. C. S. Palmer, health commissioner, reported the health department made 156 inspections in plumbing and septic tank installations since May 18.

The board will meet July 20.

100 Indian Engineers To Learn About Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's steel industry has agreed to train 100 Indian engineers a year over the next three years to meet what India's Premier Nehru calls a need for "trained human material" to man his country's expanding steel program.

Steelways, official publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, says the program provides in-plant training for India's selected graduate engineers to help insure success of that nation's current five-year industrialization plan.

So much has been said about people leaving television for less ulcerous fields that we're grateful to Paddy Chayefsky for the opportunity to report on his return to TV.

Marie Torre

Yes, Chayefsky is coming back. And maybe you wonder what took him so long. Four years have passed since the Academy Award - winning author was last working in the medium that nurtured him ("The Catered Affair"), during which time he found gainful employment in motion pictures and the legit theater.

Now the spirit moves him to become reacquainted with TV, meaning he's putting up less and less resistance to TV offers, one of which came from NBC the other day. But an NBC deal is unlikely.

-:-

"IF ONLY because of our friendship, I feel committed to Fred Coe," says Chayefsky about his producer in the old days of TV.

"Fred has been after me a long time to write a TV play, and now I definitely want to do one . . . for next winter.

"Since Fred is connected with 'Playhouse 90,' I guess that's where it will be shown. I prefer to have it there, anyway. There's not apt to be as much fuss about my first TV play in four years if it's part of a regular series, rather than one of those big publicized NBC spectaculars."

The desire to work under muted trumpets could be a reflection of innate shyness, though others interpret it as Chayefsky's way of ducking critics who might regard the renegade as an irresistible target.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE," Chayefsky said. "I once felt that way about the critics, but not any more. I felt that way after I was on a discussion show with some of my writing colleagues and got blasted for what everybody else had said.

"I felt the critics were down on me. I was a little paranoid about the whole thing. All writers are.

"Actually I've got no fight with the critics. They've been awfully good to me — so good they let me get away with murder in the old days of TV. Some of the things I wrote didn't deserve the praise they got."

Chayefsky, whose movie version of "Middle of the Night" opens Wednesday in New York, hasn't determined which of four potential ideas he will employ for TV.

"Any provocative possibilities?" we asked.

"I don't write provocative drama," he said. "I don't have a cause. I just write straight drama."

If Chayesfsky runs true to form, he'll come up with a story about good people with a conflict of motives and beliefs and desires which, when you think about it, can cause just as much trouble as your blackguardly villains, and sometimes much more.

-:-

GEORGE BURNS, who's evinced disenchantment with the package-producing business, has lost two of his McCadden Productions officers to Martiin Ransohoff's Filmways, Inc., a commercial manufacturer which is branching out into filmed series. Departing from Burns' offices are Al Simon, vice president in charge of production, and Maurice Morton, business vice president. Simon will become president of Filmways Television Productions. . . .

How time flies! NBC Radio's "Monitor" will be 4 years old Saturday. . . .

Old feuders Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis will be in the same Ford series of specials next season — but at different times, naturally. They have been engaged for two shows apiece.

Local Units Due Warning By State On Plastic Bags

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Local health departments will soon receive pamphlets which warn that transparent plastic bags can become instruments of death if misused.

The plastic material—used to protect dry-cleaned clothes, some foods and other goods—can cling to the face and cause suffocation, the Health Department warns. Or, says the department, a child may bite off bits of the material, which can become lodged in the windpipe.

About 35 deaths across the nation this year have been blamed on the plastic, and the Ohio department says the bags caused six accidental deaths and one suicide in Ohio.

At the suggestion of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Weflare, Ohio has ordered 12,000 free pamphlets from the Society of the Plastics Industry, Inc. in New York. The pamphlets will be distributed locally by public health nurses and other health authorities.

Prosecutor Puts Death Penalty Up To Jury

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The veteran prosecutor in the Tallahassee rape case said he never demands the death penalty in capital cases because he felt this is a matter for the jury to decide. State Atty. William D. Hopkins made the comment Monday when asked why he hadn't called for the death penalty in the case of four white youths tried for rape of a Negro coed.

An all-white jury convicted the four. They escaped the electric chair when the jury recommended mercy.

DiSalle Raps GOP Senators For Actions On Tax Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Actions last week by Republican state Senators have been called "irresponsible partisan activity," by Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle Monday criticized GOP senators for what he termed irresponsible attempts to remove the sales tax from medicine, crutches, bibles, household supplies, dog food and a score of items during Senate consideration of the tax measure.

The governor told newsmen:

"At a time when the state is in dire need of funds, they (the Republicans) decided to play politics . . . I think there is a place for a difference of opinion and a place for politics. I think they picked the wrong place and the wrong methods."

The Senate passed the sales tax measure carrying increases of some 49 million dollars in two years. The bill is pending in the House.

DiSalle said he plans to sign today the recently passed law increasing corporate franchise fees 60 million dollars. He said he did not sign the bill earlier because the deadline for the 1958 corporate tax was Monday and he said he did not want the new tax to go into effect until the 1959 cycle.

On the growing question of Ohio's ancient "blue laws," DiSalle said it will be up to Natural Resources Director Herbert Eagon to see that the laws are enforced at boat rentals and concessions stands at state parks.

Eagon said he will have attorneys examine contracts with park concessionaries before issuing any orders on operations.

The governor told Cabinet members last week to comply with the laws until the Legislature acts on proposals to change or repeal them.

2 Ohio Kiwanis Clubs Achieve Honor Listing

They were judged on community service and administrative activities.

Several other clubs received honorable mention in their respective categories, including Troy, Ohio and Xenia, Ohio.

1 Killed, 2 Injured

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Fred E. Krohm, 77, was killed and two women were injured seriously in a car-truck collision here Monday. Police said Krohm was driving the car that collided with a truck. Krohm's wife, 72, and Lulu King of Birmingham, Ohio, were injured.

Plant Failures Keep Town On Power Ration

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Plant failures here have kept residents of this Highland County community on an electricity ration since last Friday and no immediate relief is sighted.

The breakdown of several units in the plant left the community on a one-hour-on, one-hour off basis.

Rally For Workers Seen

Cornered By Employers, Union Leaders Complain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A group of top union leaders complained today employers have them cornered for the moment. But they said they will rally to win new gains for workers.

Heads of former CIO unions now in the AFL-CIO said their style is cramped by business charges that labor is responsible for inflation, that unions are marked by corruption, and that labor groups wield vast monopoly power.

Such union leaders as Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers, David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers and James B. Carey of the International Electrical Workers asserted the business charges are phony but have put labor in a tough position with the public.

The talks were made in a two-day conference of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, home of most of the former CIO unions under the labor merger.

Reuther said unions are only temporarily stymied in gaining a shorter work week. He said anyone but an "economic fool" can see that a shorter work week is inevitable and the only question is "when and how we shall get it."

McDonald said the steel industry in current negotiations is seeking to wipe out contract gains bargained for over 18 years. But he pledged his union "positively will never take a backward step."

Carey, in remarks prepared for today's concluding session, summed up a theme expressed by most other conference speakers.

"In the past year big business and industry — glutted by unprecedented profits and power — have declared almost open war on unionism," he said. "They are waging this war today at the bargaining table, in state legislatures and in Congress, and in violent opposition to union organizing campaigns."

Carey said that while labor monopoly is often used these days as a scare term no union can compare power to the grip the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. or General Motors Corp. have over their industries.

Retired Watchman, 67, Dies In 1-Car Wreck

CLEVELAND (AP) — A retired watchman was killed early today when his car went out of control on a state road in North Royalton and struck a tree.

The victim, Thomas Johnson, 67, of Cleveland, had been under doctor's care for a stomach ailment. At about 2 a.m., a relative said, Johnson decided to take a ride for a breath of air. His car nicked a fire hydrant and tore down 100 feet of picket fence before hitting the tree. He was thrown from the wreckage.

Cleveland Climbs Back To 1st Spot After 5-1 Victory

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's revived Indians, once more thumping home runs, suddenly are back in the American League lead after winning six straight in a scramble to stay ahead of the fast-closing Detroit Tigers.

The Injuns, counting all their runs on three homers, shot back on top with a 5-1 victory at Boston Monday night for a .002 percentage-point edge over Chicago's idle White Sox. The Tigers closed within 1½ games of the lead by handing Hoyt Wilhelm his first defeat of the season in a 6-4 victory at Baltimore — their 18th in a 23-game rocket ride from the cellar.

Washington ripped Kansas City 8-5, with Harmon Killebrew hammering his 22nd home run for the Senators, in the only other game.

In the National League, Los Angeles trimmed Milwaukee's first place lead to one game, beating the Braves 4-0.

The Indians backed Gary Bell's three - hit pitching with solo homers by Jim Baxes and Woody Held and a clinching three-run shot by Minnie Minoso, who broke a 1-1 tie by tagging an 0-2 pitch in the fourth inning.

The Indians, who hit only five home runs while losing nine of 10 games in a skid from the top, now have belted 17 homers in their streak — one shy of the AL record for six games set by the 1936 Yankees. It all began last Wednesday, when Rocky Colavito triggered the blasting with his record-tying four in one game at Baltimore.

Since then, Cleveland has missed hitting a home run in only one game. Colavito is the individual leader in the streak with six. Minoso is next with four, three in three games in two days and good for a dozen runs.

The homers made it a breeze for Bell, who struck out nine but walked six while claiming a 6-5 record.

The Tigers, who have won six of their last seven, made it three in a row after getting only two infield hits for five innings off Wilhelm (9-1), who had won 10 straight since last September 16. Then they rapped the knuckleballing right-hander for four hits and three runs in the sixth, ending his string of scoreless innings at 19.

Singles by Eddie Yost, Al Kaline and Larry Osborne, plus a double by Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell's sacrifice fly and a passed ball, did it. Then Kuenn, who was 3 for 5 and regained the AL bat lead from Kaline (.361 to .357), put it away with a two-run homer in the seventh—the first off Wilhelm in 115 innings stretching back to a home run by Kaline last September 12. Ray Narleski won his third in a row for the Tigers, although giving up 11 hits.

The Senators, who had lost five in a row while slumping into the cellar, got rid of loser Bud Daley (5-5) in three innings, running up a 6-0 bulge on homers by Killebrew and Jim Lemon, who has smacked four in three games over two days. John Romonosky (1-0) made his first start for Washington and had a six-hit shutout until the ninth. Kent Hadley's one-on homer set off a five-run A's rally that brought on Chuck Stobbs in relief.

Tribe Makes No Deals; Trade Deadline Passes

BOSTON (AP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians said Monday night, after the trading deadline passed, that he is satisfied with his club.

"I wasn't going to make a deal just for the sake of making one," he added.

Lane said he never seriously considered trading Minnie Minoso to the Chicago White Sox. There were strong rumors last week that the veteran outfielder would go to the White Sox along with pitcher Cal McLish, possibly for Bubba Phillips and Bob Shaw, both promising youngsters.

"I'm glad he's still on our side," Lane said.

Lane also said he had rejected an offer for shortstop Woodie Held from the New York Yankees.

Irondale Picks Up Fourth City League Win

Irons Capture 5-1 Win Over EL Merchants

A surging Irondale nine scored their fourth victory in five games by handing the East Liverpool Merchants a 5-1 setback Monday at Patterson Field.

Irondale has an undisputed hold on second place and trails undefeated Cox Construction by half a game.

Joe Urich hurled Irondale to its latest win with a four-hit performance. While Urich was retiring the Merchants, his teammates gave him ample support with a seven-hit attack.

The Irons decided the contest in the first inning by posting two runs and then added two more in the third and one in the sixth.

Urich had the Merchants blanked for five innings until they pushed across their lone run in the sixth.

Jim Laughlin, who has hit two home runs this season to decide games for Irondale, was the leading hitter again Monday with a pair of singles. Martin collected a double for the winners.

Erskine Hangs Up Spikes; Pitched Two No-Hit Games

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carl Erskine — the only active major league pitcher who has thrown two no-hit games—is through.

Refusing to let the Los Angeles Dodgers carry him four more weeks, when he would become a 10-year man under the players' pension plan, the handsome little righthander asked Monday night to be placed on the voluntarily retired list.

"When your time comes," he said, "the decision is not too hard to make. You know what's right.

"I came to the conclusion that this club really needs help in pitching. It's a young staff, so everybody has to be able to pitch a couple of days in a row if necessary. I just figured I couldn't give it 100 per cent any more."

In a game where most men need a sleeve full of tricks to survive, the 32-year-old Erskine had been playing with no trump card.

"In my later games," he said, "I knew I had to be extremely careful. It's true that the less actual velocity or stuff you have, the less mistakes you can make. When you get to the point where you're relying a lot on a change of pace—with no fastball to fall back on—you've really got to be careful.

He worked 23 1-3 innings this year, lost three games and won none, and had an earned run average of 7.71.

Erskine won 122 games during his career and lost 78. His lifetime ERA before this season was 3.94.

Carl threw his first no-hitter in 1952 against the Chicago Cubs, missing a perfect game by the margin of a walk—issued to a pitcher. In 1953, he set a World Series record by striking out 14 New York Yankees in a single game. And, in 1956, he pitched his second no-hitter, against the Giants.

Erskine said he'll probably go to New York late this summer to join an organization that operates boys' summer camps.

For pension purposes, Erskine will be credited with nine full seasons.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whether the Milwaukee Braves win the National League pennant — and - or World Series — this may be Fred Haney's last year as manager.

Haney has been appointed vice-president of the Studio City Bank, which opens next month in the San Fernando Valley, and he is anxious to spend more of his time here among his relatives and close friends. He has spent 42 years in baseball, is 61 years old, and says:

"I've reached a point in life where I want to enjoy myself, and that place is right here."

Haney said that whether the Braves win or lose the pennant the World Series will have no effect on his decision.

"If I feel at the end of this year as I do now, this may be my last season in baseball," Haney said. "When I came home this time I said to myself: "Look what all I'm missing. What's the use of all this?" I go over and see my mother, who is 92, and my four grandchildren, and I enjoy being home.

"If I stay in baseball it will be with Milwaukee."

Haney said he had not discussed his status with Milwaukee officials and that, in fact, he hadn't expected to say anything about it at this time, except that "this just came from my heart."

John McHale, the Braves' general manager, said in Milwaukee he was surprised at Haney's statement. "This is the first we've heard of it," said McHale.

Littens Wrap Up First Half Pony Loop Title

Littens, who have made a runaway in the first half standings, picked up their seventh straight victory, a 13-4 win over Burbicks in Pony League action Monday at Dopler Field.

Littens have only one game remaining in the first half which ends this week.

The league leaders opened up with a 10-hit attack which was featured by Dave Myers' two home runs and one by Kraft.

Myers, who patrols centerfield for Littens, also collected a single to give him a 3-for-4 night at the plate.

Gary Berhar hurled four-hit ball for the winners and struck out eight. Joe Howell was checked with the loss.

Berhar also helped his own cause along with Dave Bowersock with two hits apiece.

Board Gives Approval To Addition At Stadium

A proposal from the Blue and White Nonpareil Club to construct an addition to the present dressing room facilities at Patterson Field was accepted Monday night by the Board of Education.

The project would cost an estimated $2,000, Frank C. Dawson, spokesman for the club, explained, but said donations of labor by members and contributions of material from construction firms would lower the club's outlay to about $700.

Construction of the room will help correct an overly-congested condition and an unhealthy atmospheré, Dawson said.

The new section could be used for the present training equipment, releasing the present section for dressing room. Squad meetings also could be held in the room along with facilities for coaches and game officials to dress.

The room would be 32 by 21 feet, Dawson continued, with the east running on a line with the present dressing room wall and the north wall extending to the back wall of the stadium. It would be of concrect construction with a frame roof and a concrete floor, he added.

James Lowe termed the offer "a fine thought" and Leo C. Lawrence said he concurred. James Moss commented, "I would like to thank them but don't know how. We don't have anything given to us very often."

In making the motion for acceptance, Samuel W. Brown said he is sorry the board "can't take care of what really belongs to us."

Burbicks, Travelers And Millirons Capture First Starts In 2nd Half

Burbicks, Travelers and Millirons broke on top as the second half got underway in the East Liverpool Little League Monday.

Burbicks registered an overwhelming 16-9 win over Medics while Travelers walloped Golden Star, 23-8, and Millirons outlasted Laughlins for a 3-1 victory.

Joe Golden was the big gun for Burbicks with a grand slam home run, two doubles and a single. Golden's sensational hitting led an 11-hit attack for the Hardware nine.

Chuck "Babe" Ruth slammed two home runs in a closing cause for the Medics and Dave Chetwynd had a solo homer for the losers.

Roy Scott had his night of nights in the Little League by blasting three home runs for Travelers. Scott's three roundtrippers led a 21-hit attack against Golden Star. Keith Locke and Bobby Woods also homered for the Travelers while Burkhart connected for Golden Star.

Locke was the winning pitcher and gave up six hits.

While hitting was the rule in two Little League games, pitching featured the Milliron's-Laughlin duel.

Milliron's Jim Johnson turned in a neat one-hitter and also helped his own cause with a home run. Johnson struck out 13 batters iin his six inning performance.

Len Walker's homer was the only hit collected off Johnson. Whittington was the losing hurler and gave up only three hits.

Morrow Eyes Classy Field

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Four years ago sprinter Bobby Morrow blazed to his first national victory on the cinder path here at the University of Colorado.

Now, weighted with honors, including three Olympic gold medals, a lame Bobby Morrow faces on these same cinders the biggest threat to his No. 1 world ranking.

In the National AAU Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday, Morrow runs against a classic field. It was in the 1955 NAAU that Morrow, an Abilene Christian sophomore then, won his first national crown with a 9.5 seconds run in the 100 yard dash. The 23 - year - old, 6-foot-2, 170-pounder lowered the NAAU mark to 9.4 last year.

His chief challengers are Bill Woodhouse, 21, 5-foot-10, Abilene Christian senior from Mason City, Iowa, and Ray Norton, San Jose, Calif., State senior. Like Morrow, both have churned the 100 in world record equalling official times of 9.3 seconds.

Several other collegians who've raced the distance in official 9.4 are in the field. They include Charlie Tidwell of Kansas, winner of the NCAA championship at Lincoln last Saturday with a wind-blown 9.3 Orlando Hazley of Oklahoma State and Bob Poynter, San Jose State.

Winner of 11 races in 14 starts this season, Morrow scored his last victory May 15 in the Coliseum Relays at Los Angeles.

Braves' Lead Cut To One Game After Loss To Dodgers

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just a month ago Milwaukee was riding a hot streak to a 4½-game bulge in the National League race. Now the Braves have a limp lead of one game with their sluggers shackled by shutouts.

The Braves were blanked only eight times all last year as they put away a second straight pennant. Now, with little more than a third of the season gone, they've been whitewashed six times — more than any other NL club except Philadelphia, and even the last place Phillies have suffered no more.

The champs were handed two consecutive shutouts for the first time in four years Monday night at Los Angeles when the Dodgers made off with a 4-0 victory behind the four-hit pitching of Don Drysdale, who struck out 12.

In the American League, Cleveland made it six in a row and regained first place with a 5-1 victory at Boston for a .002 percentage-point edge over Chicago's idle White Sox. Detroit finally ended Hoyt Wilhelm's unbeaten string at 10, beating Baltimore 6-4. Washington defeated Kansas City 8-5 in the only other game scheduled.

The Braves now have lost 15 games while winning only 13 since taking that 4½-game lead last month. They've been shut out five times in the slump. They've also dropped five of their last seven and eight of 12.

Bob Buhl (6-4), who had won four in a row, battled Drysdale (6-5) in a scoreless duel until the seventh inning. Then the Dodgers, who had been checked on five hits, broke loose for all four runs, three of them unearned.

A walk and an interference ruling against catcher Del Crandall as he chased Drysdale's bunt set it up. Junior Gilliam doubled the first run home and Wally Moon collected the other three with his third homer.

JOCKEY OTTO CRANK, one of the leading riders around the Detroit area for several seasons, is among the newcomers who will be seen in action during the Waterford Park racing season which opens Wednesday.

Heavy Champ Tapering Off For Title Bout

CHATHAM, N.J. (AP) — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson may not have much to say, but he's strictly on his own when training decisions are made.

"This has been going on for several years," said manager Cus D'Amato today as Patterson started his final week of serious training for his June 25 title defense against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in The Yankee Stadium. "But we haven't said anything about it. Floyd is the type who needs no trainer. He's that sharp."

D'Amato merely keeps a close eye on his prize chattel. He does all the talking, but looks for other things to do when Patterson starts his training sessions.

"I've heard all this talk about Floyd being overtrained," scowled D'Amato. "But it doesn't mean a thing. He knows exactly when he's had enough. He decides when, where and how long to work out.

"And I'll tell you something else. This boy simply cannot be overtrained. He can work all he wants to and still not be overtrained."

Possibly the only real top heavyweights down through the years who were their own bosses were Gene Tunney and Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Speaking of training," continued D'Amato, "I understand Johansson doesn't place much faith in them either.

"They tell me he hasn't been going at his training seriously enough. Well, you must realize that everyone has his own system. After all, he is undefeated in Europe, so he must know something about how to get ready for a fight."

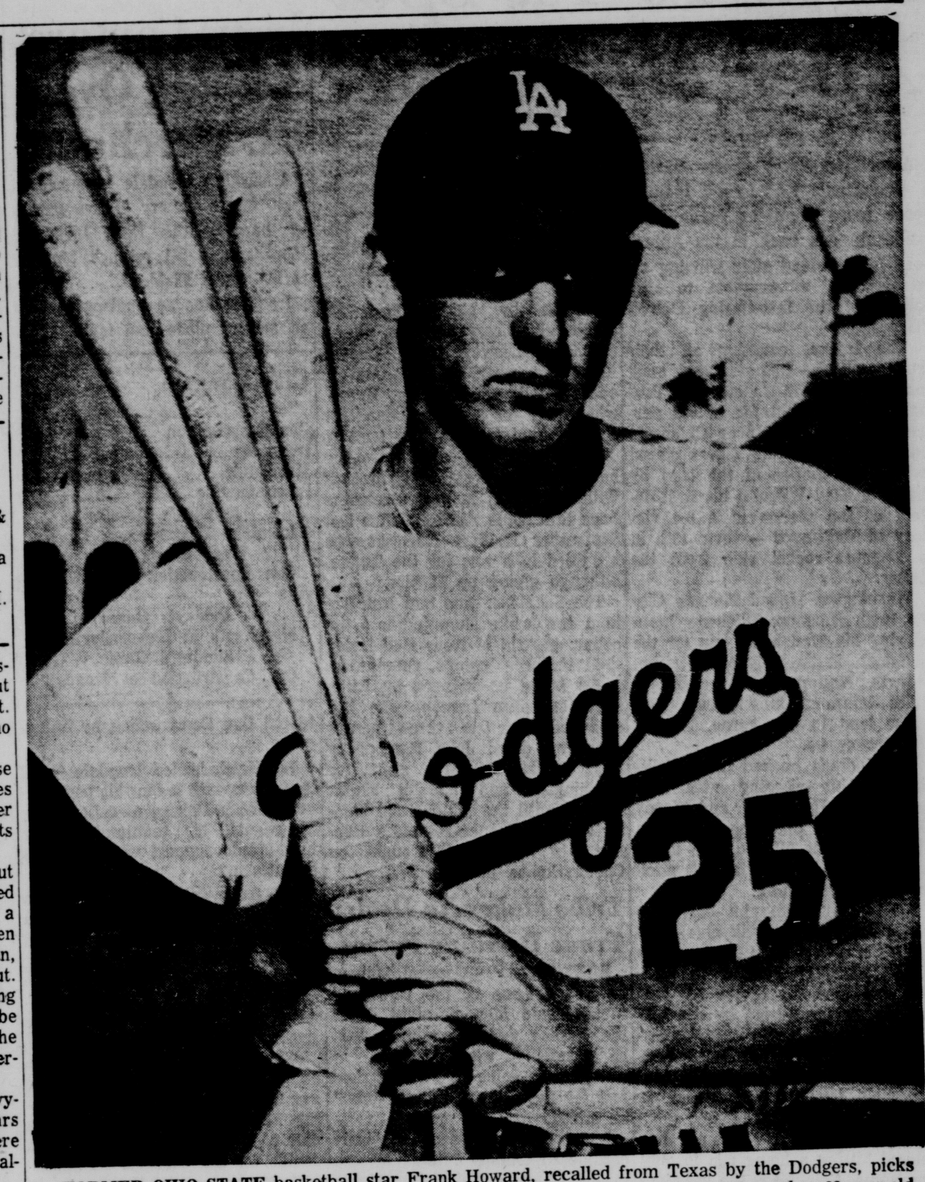

Patterson plans to wind up serious training on Sunday.

Johansson Comes To Own Defense About Training

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Incensed at reports that he hasn't been taking his training chores seriously, Ingemar Johansson came to his own defense today.

"I have been out dancing just twice," the Swedish challenger for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight championship said. "And I have been on just two television programs."

Likewise, he can't understand why he is criticized for not going after his sparring partners with more gusto.

"I don't believe in trying to knock them out," he shrugged, "so why should anyone else care?"

To date, he has put in 131 rounds in the ring and has missed just two days of work.

Ingemar appears to be working for speed and stamina. He apparently has enough confidence in his punching ability to concentrate on other matters.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY MEYERS

Teach Children To Respect Each Other

"Their manners are extremely good everywhere but at their own table. They are good, friendly children except when together. Then they fight and quarrel constantly." So writes a New Jersey mother of her two daughters, four and eight. She continues: "Besides being wearing on the nerves, this problem worries us very much. We want them to love each other; not every minute, naturally, but to have a mutual respect.

By Garry Meyers

"K, the younger sister, is outgoing, with a fine sense of humor and lots of determination. Her older sister, S, has a tendence toward shyness and only expects the worst to happen.

"K CAN BE mean and nasty with her sister. She hits or slaps, calls her sister a bad girl and does everything else she can think of to irritate her, whereas S likes to tease but not to be teased.

"For half a year the older daughter was bedridden and had a teacher at home. Returning to school, she has done very well. On her report card the teacher wrote, 'S is a welcome addition to our classroom.'"

My reply in part:

If both your children had been well, more jealousy might be normally expected in the older one. With so wide an age difference, they can't be good playmates because they live in different worlds. Help each to cultivate her own playmates.

TRY TO KEEP them apart more by day; if possible, in different bedrooms by night. Since the younger seems more often the aggressor, curb her ugly way toward her older sister.

Seek ways to help both girls find creative and constructive satisfaction alone and with others of their respective ages.

Announce to these children that, for a definite period, they will take turns eating alone. Begin with the older one or choose the first one by lot. Maintain this discipline until they have learned that good manners and respect begin in the home.

In the meanwhile, try to make mealtime a period of leisurely companionable conversation, with the world shut out.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Quarreling and Fighting," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Thomas Best In Hometown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There's a creeping notion that Frank Thomas was hometown Pittsburgh Pirate for so long, he can't get used to playing anywhere else.

It's a lively idea, but probably no more true than some of the suggestions why the third base strong boy can't perform for the Cincinnati Reds, his new masters.

Thomas, on a recent radio interview, was asked if he was under pressure because the Reds swapped three front-liners to get him from Pittsburgh.

"No, not on me," he said. "Only on the guy who made the deal for our club."

That man is Reds' General Manager Gabe Paul who has, as is his custom, refrained from any criticism about the third baseman he got in exchange for pitcher Harvey Haddix, catcher Smoky Burgess and third baseman Don Hoak.

Thomas was the starting third baseman for the National League in last year's All-Star game, partly on the basis of his 20 homers in the first half of the season. It's doubtful if he will make the team this year.

Thomas himself blames an off-season operation on his right hand for his poor batting performance.

"I can't grip the bat properly," he said. "It's the same story at times when I throw the ball . . .

China Floods Deal Blow To Plans Of Reds

TOKYO (AP)—China's age-old flood scourge is dealing a heavy blow to the Communist regime's plans to continue the "great leap forward" in 1959.

Torrential rains have been lashing south and central China for a week. Red broadcasts admit floods have inundated 900 square miles in Kwangtung province alone, but mobilization of some three million persons to combat the menace indicates the flooded area is much greater.

Peiping radio said harvesting of crops is going ahead normally in other sections of the vast country. But weather forecasts in Tokyo reported that the warm air front which brought the downpour to Kwangtung has moved toward the thickly settled lower Yangtze Valley.

The weathermen said a low pressure has developed over Hankow, Shanghai, Nanking and other east coast areas, and that they are due for a drenching.

The rains also have brought death and destruction to the adjacent British colony of Hong Kong. Tropical thunderstorms have killed 45 Chinese there, and 5,000 are homeless.

446 Rebels Killed, French Army Claims

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army claimed today that 446 Algerian rebels were killed in fighting last week, and 145 were taken prisoner.

The army said its losses were 47 killed.

Soviet Bomber Found

LONDON (AP)—The wreck of a bullet-riddled Soviet bomber has been found in the arctic tundra southeast of Murmansk. Moscow radio did not give the type of bomber or say when it crashed, but apparently it was a World War II casualty.

Close Games Featured In Church Loop

Two one-run decisions were posted in the YMCA-Church Softball League Monday when First Methodist edged Calcutta United Presbyterian, 8-7, and Chester Christian nipped Oakland Free Methodist, 6-5.

A home run by Bud Hobbs clinched the victory for Chester Christian as Jack Bryan came out on top as the winning pitcher.

Gale Williams' homer featured a 9-2 victory for Glenmoor U. P. over Second Church of Christ. J. Horner also homered for the losers.

In another contest, Grace U. P. led by Al Dawson's two home runs defeated Calvary Methodist, 9-4. Chick McMillan also hit for the circuit.

Grace U. P. collected 13 hits and were aided by four Calvary Methodist errors.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A portrait of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) will be presented to Senate Republicans Wednesday. The portrait, approved by Taft shortly before his death in 1953, will be kept permanently in the office of the Senate GOP leader Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who will accept the painting. The portrait is by Rudolf Bernatschke.

Weirton Puts Two Players On All-State

WILLIAMSON (AP) — Weirton, the state champion, and runnerup East Bank, placed two men each on the 1959 All-State High School Baseball Team announced today.

Chairman Jim Van Zant of the selection board said Weirton has Mike Tomasovich, a pitcher, and John Ritchey, third baseman, and East Bank is represented by pitcher Johnny Brace and outfielder Jerry Deal on the first team.

The selection board is made up of eight state sports writers who had the help of coaches and officials.

There was only one repeater on the first team, John Teets, a utility player from Buckhannon-Upshur. Teets had a 5-1 pitching record, and hit .350.

Besides these five, other members of the first team include outfielders Bob Smith of Matewan, the state's top hitter with a .615 average and Frank Ranalli of Charles Town, catcher Corky Layman of Huntington, who moved up from last year's second team; first sacker Rudy Zatezalo of Moundsville, second baseman Jim Wills of Montgomery, Rod Thorn, the basketball star from Princeton, at short, and David Vineyard of Spencer, who has already signed a professional contract, as the third pitcher.

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. A. E. Forni, 72, of Steubenville, was injured fatally in a three-vehicle crash Monday at an intersection north of here. Her husband, 72, was reported in fair condition in Samaritan Hospital. Officers said the car driven by Forni collided with a semi-trailer truck, then was hit by another car at the intersection of U.S. 224 and U.S. 250.

House Seeks New Slash In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members who want less money spent on foreign aid mustered today in an attempt to cut another 300 million dollars from the proposed program.

The $3,642,600,000 authorization bill before the House already represents a cut of $266,800,000 from President Eisenhower's recommendations.

Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich), a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said he is drafting amendments to the bill to reduce its total to about $3,300,000,000.

Supporters of foreign aid registered an impressive margin—277-93—Monday on the preliminary vote whether the House should take up the bill. It raised their hopes of warding off any further deep cuts — at least until the separate legislation actually appropriating the funds provides another test.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee brought out, meanwhile, its own version of the bill with a total authorized spending even higher than the amount Eisenhower asked. The Senate total was $4,164,820,000 compared with $3,930,000,000 Eisenhower asked.

South Koreans Appeal In Repatriation Issue

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A group of South Koreans appealed to the American Red Cross today to intervene in the dispute over Japanese plans to repatriate destitute Koreans to Communist North Korea. The appeal was presented to U.S. Ambassador Walter Dowling.

Japan and North Korea agreed on the repatriation in principle last week, and negotiators for the two governments are now working on a detailed agreement.

South Korea claims the repatriates are being send to Communist slavery.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When men of Theta Kappa Phi turned over their Ohio State University fraternity house to dates during a weekend party, there was a catch.

Before leaving, fraternity members hid several alarm clocks. Alarms began sounding at 4 a. m., keeping the 32 girls temporarily occupying the house busy hunting down the clocks.

Chayefsky Will Return To TV

So much has been said about people leaving television for less ulcerous fields that we're grateful to Paddy Chayefsky for the opportunity to report on his return to TV.

Marie Torre

Yes, Chayefsky is coming back. And maybe you wonder what took him so long. Four years have passed since the Academy Award - winning author was last working in the medium that nurtured him ("The Catered Affair"), during which time he found gainful employment in motion pictures and the legit theater.

Now the spirit moves him to become reacquainted with TV, meaning he's putting up less and less resistance to TV offers, one of which came from NBC the other day. But an NBC deal is unlikely.

"IF ONLY because of our friendship, I feel committed to Fred Coe," says Chayefsky about his producer in the old days of TV.

"Fred has been after me a long time to write a TV play, and now I definitely want to do one . . . for next winter.

"Since Fred is connected with 'Playhouse 90,' I guess that's where it will be shown. I prefer to have it there, anyway. There's not apt to be as much fuss about my first TV play in four years if it's part of a regular series, rather than one of those big publicized NBC spectaculars."

The desire to work under muted trumpets could be a reflection of innate shyness, though others interpret it as Chayefsky's way of ducking critics who might regard the renegade as an irresistible target.

"THAT'S NOT TRUE," Chayefsky said. "I once felt that way about the critics, but not any more. I felt that way after I was on a discussion show with some of my writing colleagues and got blasted for what everybody else had said.

"I felt the critics were down on me. I was a little paranoid about the whole thing. All writers are.

"Actually I've got no fight with the critics. They've been awfully good to me — so good they let me get away with murder in the old days of TV. Some of the things I wrote didn't deserve the praise they got."

Chayefsky, whose movie version of "Middle of the Night" opens Wednesday in New York, hasn't determined which of four potential ideas he will employ for TV.

"Any provocative possibilities?" we asked.

"I don't write provocative drama," he said. "I don't have a cause. I just write straight drama."

If Chayefsky runs true to form, he'll come up with a story about good people with a conflict of motives and beliefs and desires which, when you think about it, can cause just as much trouble as your blackguardly villains, and sometimes much more.

-:-

GEORGE BURNS, who's evinced disenchantment with the package-producing business, has lost two of his McCadden Productions officers to Martiin Ransohoff's Filmways, Inc., a commercial manufacturer which is branching out into filmed series. Departing from Burns' offices are Al Simon, vice president in charge of production, and Maurice Morton, business vice president. Simon will become president of Filmways Television Productions. . . .

How time flies! NBC Radio's "Monitor" will be 4 years old Saturday. . . .

Old feuders Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis will be in the same Ford series of specials next season — but at different times, naturally. They have been engaged for two shows apiece.

Local Units Due Warning By State On Plastic Bags

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Local health departments will soon receive pamphlets which warn that transparent plastic bags can become instruments of death if misused.

The plastic material—used to protect dry-cleaned clothes, some foods and other goods—can cling to the face and cause suffocation, the Health Department warns. Or, says the department, a child may bite off bits of the material, which can become lodged in the windpipe.

About 35 deaths across the nation this year have been blamed on the plastic, and the Ohio department says the bags caused six accidental deaths and one suicide in Ohio.

At the suggestion of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Weflare, Ohio has ordered 12,000 free pamphlets from the Society of the Plastics Industry, Inc. in New York. The pamphlets will be distributed locally by public health nurses and other health authorities.

Prosecutor Puts Death Penalty Up To Jury

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The veteran prosecutor in the Tallahassee rape case said he never demands the death penalty in capital cases because he felt this is a matter for the jury to decide. State Atty. William D. Hopkins made the comment Monday when asked why he hadn't called for the death penalty in the case of four white youths tried for rape of a Negro coed.

An all-white jury convicted the four. They escaped the electric chair when the jury recommended mercy.

DiSalle Raps GOP Senators For Actions On Tax Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Actions last week by Republican state Senators have been called "irresponsible partisan activity," by Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

DiSalle Monday criticized GOP senators for what he termed irresponsible attempts to remove the sales tax from medicine, crutches, bibles, household supplies, dog food and a score of items during Senate consideration of the tax measure.

The governor told newsmen:

"At a time when the state is in dire need of funds, they (the Republicans) decided to play politics . . . I think there is a place for a difference of opinion and a place for politics. I think they picked the wrong place and the wrong methods."

The Senate passed the sales tax measure carrying increases of some 49 million dollars in two years. The bill is pending in the House.

DiSalle said he plans to sign today the recently passed law increasing corporate franchise fees 60 million dollars. He said he did not sign the bill earlier because the deadline for the 1958 corporate tax was Monday and he said he did not want the new tax to go into effect until the 1959 cycle.

On the growing question of Ohio's ancient "blue laws," DiSalle said it will be up to Natural Resources Director Herbert Eagon to see that the laws are enforced at boat rentals and concessions stands at state parks.

Eagon said he will have attorneys examine contracts with park concessionaries before issuing any orders on operations.

The governor told Cabinet members last week to comply with the laws until the Legislature acts on proposals to change or repeal them.

2 Ohio Kiwanis Clubs Achieve Honor Listing

They were judged on community service and administrative activities.

Clubs winning first places were Roseland Club, Chicago, in the class for those with 101 or more members; New Bedford, Mass., 71 to 100 members; Bethany, Okla., 46 to 70 members; Lake Weir, Fla. 31 to 45 members, and Reseda, Calif., 30 members or less.

Several other clubs received honorable mention in their respective categories, including Troy, Ohio and Xenia, Ohio.

1 Killed, 2 Injured

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Fred E. Krohm, 77, was killed and two women were injured seriously in a car-truck collision here Monday. Police said Krohm was driving the car that collided with a truck. Krohm's Wife, 72, and Lulu King of Birmingham, Ohio, were injured.

Plant Failures Keep Town On Power Ration

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Plant failures here have kept residents of this Highland County community on an electricity ration since last Friday and no immediate relief is sighted.

The breakdown of several units in the plant left the community on a one-hour-on, one-hour off basis.

Rally For Workers Seen

Cornered By Employers, Union Leaders Complain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A group of top union leaders complained today employers have them cornered for the moment. But they said they will rally to win new gains for workers.

Heads of former CIO unions now in the AFL-CIO said their style is cramped by business charges that labor is responsible for inflation, that unions are marked by corruption, and that labor groups wield vast monopoly power.

Such union leaders as Walter Reuther of the Auto Workers, David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers and James B. Carey of the International Electrical Workers asserted the business charges are phony but have put labor in a tough position with the public.

The talks were made in a two-day conference of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, home of most of the former CIO unions under the labor merger.

Reuther said unions are only temporarily stymied in gaining a shorter work week. He said anyone but an "economic fool" can see that a shorter work week is inevitable and the only question is "when and how we shall get it."

McDonald said the steel industry in current negotiations is seeking to wipe out contract gains bargained for over 18 years. But he pledged his union "positively will never take a backward step."

Carey, in remarks prepared for today's concluding session, summed up a theme expressed by most other conference speakers.

"In the past year big business and industry — glutted by unprecedented profits and power — have declared almost open war on unionism," he said. "They are waging this war today at the bargaining table, in state legislatures and in Congress, and in violent opposition to union organizing campaigns."

Carey said that while labor monopoly is often used these days as a scare term no union can compare power to the grip the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. or General Motors Corp. have over their industries.

Desmond Holding Co. Awaits Reorganization

Reorganization of the Desmond Holding Co. will be conducted following a meeting of Wellsville Knights of Columbus Council 507 tonight at 8. A Board of Directors will be elected.

Fifty attended a corporate communion breakfast held by the council Sunday following 11 a. m. Mass. Fr. William Lawler, council chaplain, was celebrant at the Immaculate Conception Church.

Fr. Warren Braun, assistant pastor of the St. Patrick's Catholic Church at Leetonia and state Veterans of Foreign Wars chaplain, was guest speaker. His topic was "Communism At Work."

Fr. Lawler gave the invocation and Fr. John Wirtz, assistant pastor at Immaculate Conception, gave the benediction. The meal was served by members of the Altar and Rosary Society.

Retired Watchman, 67, Dies In 1-Car Wreck

CLEVELAND (AP) — A retired watchman was killed early today when his car went out of control on a state road in North Royalton and struck a tree.

The victim, Thomas Johnson, 67, of Cleveland, had been under doctor's care for a stomach ailment. At about 2 a.m., a relative said, Johnson decided to take a ride for a breath of air. His car nicked a fire hydrant and tore down 100 feet of picket fence before hitting the tree. He was thrown from the wreckage.

Rubber plantations in Ceylon and Malaya were started when Henry Wickham, an Englishman, smuggled some rubber seeds out of Brazil in 1876.

Where you get that something EXTRA

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a policeman. He doesn't make much money and we have a large family of youngsters who are always needing something.

Recently he was offered an opportunity to add to his income. We discussed it and I said it was perfectly all right with me. His extra job is throwing the switch which ends the lives of criminals sentenced to death in the electric chair.

When my husband's mother found out what he was doing for extra money she made such a terrible fuss that it created bad feelings.

Frankly, I never felt that my husband was murdering anyone. He only carries out the verdict. My mother-in-law says he's taking a human life every time he throws the switch and all the fancy language doesn't change this.

Now I don't know where I stand any more. My mother-in-law is grieving so over her son's "killing people" that it's actually making her ill. Is she right? Shall I tell him to give up this job for his mother's sake? Please advise me, Ann. I don't know what to do. —W.M.

Dear W.M.: If your husband needs a second job to earn extra money, there must be other things he can do. He should not insist on this particular job if it makes his mother sick. Regardless of whether or not he feels justified, urge him to quit out of respect for his mother.

Said With Flowers

Dear Ann: I'm in a spot. A fellow I dated only a few times has flipped his lid over me. He's a perfectly fine guy but I just don't care for him. It's hard to describe but when I'm with him no bells ring, no angels sing — nothing. I decided after our last date I would be "busy" if he called again.

This morning, I received a dozen American Beauty roses from the creep. It made me angry. I resent his trying to overwhelm me. If I acknowledge the flowers I'm afraid he'll consider it encouragement and then I'll never get rid of him.

It seems to me that flowers are in the same category as a greeting card and therefore need no acknowledgment. Am I right? — VEXED.

Dear Vexed: You are wrong. Flowers are not "in the same category as a greeting card." Have you ever tried to buy a dozen roses for a quarter?

You don't have to date him again if you don't want to, but you owe him a thank you note. One thing has nothing to do with the other. Stop rationalizing.

Unappreciated Mates

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from the woman who signed herself Inez. It seems she felt perfectly comfortable "borrowing" another woman's husband since she had none of her own. You gave her an unmerciful clobbering.

I'm sure you could not possibly condone this on moral grounds (the clergymen would scream like Banshees) but I think Inez has a point. It might wake up a few lethargic, self-satisfied wives. Perhaps they'd appreciate their husbands more if they discovered someone else considered their taken-for-granted "cash registers" a bit attractive.

Too doggone many women in this world feel they can live without men and they let their husbands know it. Maybe a little outside competition is exactly what the doctor ordered.—C.E.R.

Dear C.E.R.: Thank you for your offering. My original advice to Inez still stands.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Teachers

common agreement, although he seems to be in sympathy."

He explained his daughter, a graduate of East Liverpool High School, took a teaching course at Youngstown University and now is teaching in Warren.

"It's not exactly fair to me or the others when we raise our children here, educate them in the schools and when they get to the point they can do our city some good they are refused a job," he said.

"We want an integrated teaching staff. We are not making threats or using force. It's something we feel should be. We ask you for an answer one way or the other."

"I know several teachers Mr. Blair (Asst. Supt. Paul Blair) has taught. If you can teach them and further their education,, why aren't they permitted to teach in the school system?" Peters asked.

He declared the East Liverpool school system is far behind other school systems in the state by failing to hire Negro teachers.

Later in the session, Peters accused the board of "indirectly using discrimination," pointing out almost every nationality group is represented on the teaching staff but Negroes.

"We believe you should make a statement. You should have an opinion. It's not something you are going to have to face; you are facing it now. We certainly intend to push forward."

Rev. Hafley declared the organization is not concerned about the past, but is looking to the future. He said members want their children to remain here and aid in the development of the city. He said he has a daughter who is a teacher with nine years experience and that he would like her to live near him rather than in Chicago.

The minister said his daughter was told by a local businessman that she couldn't get a job here "but she's qualified to teach elsewhere."

He pointed out the NAACP does not want the board to hire anyone unless they have the qualifications. "I'd be the first to turn down my daughter if she wasn't qualified."

Spencer spoke briefly twice. During the discussion, he declared, "I hope Mr. Betts is thinking of the future. I am hoping he will be impartial." He said he had spoken with the superintendent previously and had been told "the time wasn't ripe."

The discussion continued for some time as the delegation continued to press for statements from individual members regarding their attitude.

Lawrence commented, "I haven't talked with the other members at all. It was mentioned casually a year ago. I have no objections personally if they meet the qualifications and standards."

Brown declared, "I can see no reason why they shouldn't apply. The superintendent will go over the applications and we expect him to recommend the best qualified."

Moss also indicated he would have no objections as long as the applicants are qualified.

Lowe at one point said no decision should be made without "quite a lot" of deliberation. He said the proposal is something new and the board needed time to discuss it.

Rev. Hafley commented, "A teacher is a teacher. It's nothing new for a Negro to apply for a job."

Later, Lowe said if the recommendation appeared on the board's agenda "we wouldn't look at the color of their skin." However, he pointed out the superintendent is responsible and the board can't take the responsibility away from him.

Moss later added, "I wouldn't want any teachers hired by pressure from any group" and Betts interjected, "When that happens, you will have a new superintendent."

Peters rejoined, "We are not a pressure group. We are citizens and taxpayers asking for what rightfully is ours." He added the superintendent should do his job "and not as it has been done in the past," contending that some Negroes have applied but weren't interviewed for positions.

Lowe interrupted to object, declaring the attack on Betts was unfair. "I have every confidence in the superintendent and I know he won't show partiality."

Peters replied, "I believe Mr. Moss attacked our organization as a pressure group."

The discussion then turned to an application submitted about a year ago by Peters' daughter and a failure to be interviewed.

Michael Misconish, treasurer of the East Liverpool Teachers Association who was attending the session on another matter, said it has been his experience to submit applications but in many instances never to hear further regarding an interview.

The discussion ended a few minutes later after Blair said he would take full responsibility since he screens applications for elementary positions, but was teaching in Toledo when the application was received and wrote the applicant informing her of the situation.

5 Youths Fined For Vandalism At Wellsville

Five youths discovered Monday that destroying somebody else's property just to "have fun" can prove costly.

The boys, four from East Liverpool and one from Wellsville, were fined a total of $550 and costs for destroying the hedge of a Wellsville yard at hearings before Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville.

Police said the boys were in a car driven by Robert Byers of Shadyside Ave. which was run back and forth through the hedge and yard of William Nicholson of 18th St. Friday night. The youths had left when police were called but the officers later heard of some boys wrecking a car on the Pleasant Valley Rd.

A check was made of the vehicle and some of the hedge was still stuck to the underside of the vehicle, officers said. The youths were then picked up at their homes and told to report yesterday for hearings.

Byers was fined $100 and costs for malicious destruction of property and $50 for reckless operation. The four passengers in his car were each fined $100 and costs on charges of disorderly conduct. They are Dave Randolph, 1100 Dresden Ave.; Albert Dailey, 1061 Claiborne Ave.; Rex Lee Wright, rear 1102 Claiborne Ave., and Ted Smith, 421 Wells Hollow Rd., Wellsville.

Cleveland Climbs Back To 1st Spot After 5-1 Victory

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland's revived Indians, once more thumping home runs, suddenly are back in the American League lead after winning six straight in a scramble to stay ahead of the fast-closing Detroit Tigers.

The Injuns, counting all their runs on three homers, shot back on top with a 5-1 victory at Boston Monday night for a .002 percentage-point edge over Chicago's idle White Sox. The Tigers closed within 1½ games of the lead by handing Hoyt Wilhelm his first defeat of the season in a 6-4 victory at Baltimore — their 18th in a 23-game rocket ride from the cellar.

Washington ripped Kansas City 8-5, with Harmon Killebrew hammering his 22nd home run for the Senators, in the only other game.

The Indians backed Gary Bell's three - hit pitching with solo homers by Jim Baxes and Woody Held and a clinching three-run shot by Minnie Minoso, who broke a 1-1 tie by tagging an 0-2 pitch in the fourth inning.

The Indians, who hit only five home runs while losing nine of 10 games in a skid from the top, now have belted 17 homers in their streak — one shy of the AL record for six games set by the 1936 Yankees. It all began last Wednesday, when Rocky Colavito triggered the blasting with his record-tying four in one game at Baltimore.

Since then, Cleveland has missed hitting a home run in only one game. Colavito is the individual leader in the streak with six. Minoso is next with four, three in three games in two days and good for a dozen runs.

The homers made it a breeze for Bell, who struck out nine but walked six while claiming a 6-5 record.

The Tigers, who have won six of their last seven, made it three in a row after getting only two infield hits for five innings off Wilhelm (9-1), who had won 10 straight since last September 16. Then they rapped the knuckleballing right-hander for four hits and three runs in the sixth, ending his string of scoreless innings at 19.

Singles by Eddie Yost, Al Kaline and Larry Osborne, plus a double by Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell's sacrifice fly and a passed ball, did it. Then Kuenn, who was 3 for 5 and regained the AL bat lead from Kaline (.361 to .357), put it away with a two-run homer in the seventh—the first off Wilhelm in 115 innings stretching back to a home run by Kaline last September 12. Ray Narleski won his third in a row for the Tigers, although giving up 11 hits.

The Senators, who had lost five in a row while slumping into the cellar, got rid of loser Bud Daley (5-5) in three innings, running up a 6-0 bulge on homers by Killebrew and Jim Lemon, who has smacked four in three games over two days. John Romonosky (1-0) made his first start for Washington and had a six-hit shutout until the ninth. Kent Hadley's one-on homer set off a five-run A's rally that brought on Chuck Stobbs in relief.

Tribe Makes No Deals; Trade Deadline Passes

BOSTON (AP)—General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians said Monday night, after the trading deadline passed, that he is satisfied with his club.

"I wasn't going to make a deal just for the sake of making one," he added.

Lane said he never seriously considered trading Minnie Minoso to the Chicago White Sox. There were strong rumors last week that the veteran outfielder would go to the White Sox along with pitcher Cal McLish, possibly for Bubba Phillips and Bob Shaw, both promising youngsters.

"I'm glad he's still on our side," Lane said.

Lane also said he had rejected an offer for shortstop Woodie Held from the New York Yankees.

Irondale Picks Up Fourth City League Win

Irons Capture 5-1 Win Over EL Merchants

A surging Irondale nine scored their fourth victory in five games by handing the East Liverpool Merchants a 5-1 setback Monday at Patterson Field.

Irondale has an undisputed hold on second place and trails undefeated Cox Construction by half a game.

Joe Urich hurled Irondale to its latest win with a four-hit performance. While Urich was retiring the Merchants, his teammates gave him ample support with a seven-hit attack.

The Irons decided the contest in the first inning by posting two runs and then added two more in the third and one in the sixth.

Urich had the Merchants blanked for five innings until they pushed across their lone run in the sixth.

Jim Laughlin, who has hit two home runs this season to decide games for Irondale, was the leading hitter again Monday with a pair of singles. Martin collected a double for the winners.

Redsox Swap Hoeft For Jack Harshman

BOSTON — The Boston Redsox Monday traded Bill Hoeft to Baltimore for Jack Harshman in an even swap.

Both pitchers are lefthanders and Hoeft was obtained May 3 from the Detroit Tigers. He has a 1-4 mark and a 6.23 earned run average.

Erskine Hangs Up Spikes; Pitched Two No-Hit Games

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carl Erskine — the only active major league pitcher who has thrown two no-hit games—is through.

Refusing to let the Los Angeles Dodgers carry him four more weeks, when he would become a 10-year man under the players' pension plan, the handsome little righthander asked Monday night to be placed on the voluntarily retired list.

"When your time comes," he said, "the decision is not too hard to make. You know what's right.

"I came to the conclusion that this club really needs help in pitching. It's a young staff, so everybody has to be able to pitch a couple of days in a row if necessary. I just figured I couldn't give it 100 per cent any more."

In a game where most men need a sleeve full of tricks to survive, the 32-year-old Erskine had been playing with no trump card.

"In my later games," he said, "I knew I had to be extremely careful. It's true that the less actual velocity or stuff you have, the less mistakes you can make. When you get to the point where you're relying a lot on a change of pace—with no fastball to fall back on—you've really got to be careful.

He worked 23 1-3 innings this year, lost three games and won none, and had an earned run average of 7.71.

Erskine won 122 games during his career and lost 78. His lifetime ERA before this season was 3.94.

Carl threw his first no-hitter in 1952 against the Chicago Cubs, missing a perfect game by the margin of a walk—issued to a pitcher. In 1953, he set a World Series record by striking out 14 New York Yankees in a single game. And, in 1956, he pitched his second no-hitter, against the Giants.

Erskine said he'll probably go to New York late this summer to join an organization that operates boys' summer camps.

For pension purposes, Erskine will be credited with nine full seasons.

Burbicks, Travelers And Millirons Capture First Starts In 2nd Half

Burbicks, Travelers and Millirons broke on top as the second half got underway in the East Liverpool Little League Monday.

Burbicks registered an overwhelming 16-9 win over Medics while Travelers walloped Golden Star, 23-8, and Millirons outlasted Laughlins for a 3-1 victory.

Joe Golden was the big gun for Burbicks with a grand slam home run, two doubles and a single. Golden's sensational hitting led an 11-hit attack for the Hardware nine.

Chuck "Babe" Ruth slammed two home runs in a closing cause for the Medics and Dave Chetwynd had a solo homer for the losers.

Roy Scott had his night of nights in the Little League by blasting three home runs for Travelers. Scott's three roundtrippers led a 21-hit attack against Golden Star.

Keith Locke and Bobby Woods also homered for the Travelers while Burkhart connected for Golden Star.

Locke was the winning pitcher and gave up six hits.

While hitting was the rule in two Little League games, pitching featured the Milliron's-Laughlin duel.

Milliron's Jim Johnson turned in a neat one-hitter and also helped his own cause with a home run. Johnson struck out 13 batters iin his six inning performance.

Len Walker's homer was the only hit collected off Johnson. Whittington was the losing hurler and gave up only three hits.

Board Gives Approval To Addition At Stadium

A proposal from the Blue and White Nonpareil Club to construct an addition to the present dressing room facilities at Patterson Field was accepted Monday night by the Board of Education.

The project would cost an estimated $2,000, Frank C. Dawson, spokesman for the club, explained, but said donations of labor by members and contributions of material from construction firms would lower the club's outlay to about $700.

Construction of the room will help correct an overly-congested condition and an unhealthy atmospheré, Dawson said.

The new section could be used for the present training equipment, releasing the present section for dressing room. Squad meetings also could be held in the room along with facilities for coaches and game officials to dress.

The room would be 32 by 21 feet, Dawson continued, with the east running on a line with the present dressing room wall and the north wall extending to the back wall of the stadium. It would be of concrect construction with a frame roof and a concrete floor, he added.

James Lowe termed the offer "a fine thought" and Leo C. Lawrence said he concurred. James Moss commented, "I would like to thank them but don't know how. We don't have anything given to us very often."

In making the motion for acceptance, Samuel W. Brown said he is sorry the board "can't take care of what really belongs to us."

Morrow Eyes Classy Field

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Four years ago sprinter Bobby Morrow blazed to his first national victory on the cinder path here at the University of Colorado.

Now, weighted with honors, including three Olympic gold medals, a lame Bobby Morrow faces on these same cinders the biggest threat to his No. 1 world ranking.

In the National AAU Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday, Morrow runs against a classic field. It was in the 1955 NAAU that Morrow, an Abilene Christian sophomore then, won his first national crown with a 9.5 seconds run in the 100 yard dash. The 23 - year - old, 6-foot-2, 170-pounder lowered the NAAU mark to 9.4 last year.

His chief challengers are Bill Woodhouse, 21, 5-foot-10, Abilene Christian senior from Mason City, Iowa, and Ray Norton, San Jose, Calif., State senior. Like Morrow, both have churned the 100 in world record equalling official times of 9.3 seconds.

Several other collegians who've raced the distance in official 9.4 are in the field. They include Charlie Tidwell of Kansas, winner of the NCAA championship at Lincoln last Saturday with a wind-blown 9.3 Orlando Hazley of Oklahoma State and Bob Poynter, San Jose State.

Winner of 11 races in 14 starts this season, Morrow scored his last victory May 15 in the Coliseum Relays at Los Angeles.

Haney May Retire After This Season With Braves

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Whether the Milwaukee Braves win the National League pennant — and - or World Series — this may be Fred Haney's last year as manager.

Haney has been appointed vice-president of the Studio City Bank, which opens next month in the San Fernando Valley, and he is anxious to spend more of his time here among his relatives and close friends. He has spent 42 years in baseball, is 61 years old, and says:

"I've reached a point in life where I want to enjoy myself, and that place is right here."

Haney said that whether the Braves win or lose the pennant the World Series will have no effect on his decision.

"If I feel at the end of this year as I do now, this may be my last season in baseball," Haney said. "When I came home this time I said to myself: "Look what all I'm missing. What's the use of all this?" I go over and see my mother, who is 92, and my four grandchildren, and I enjoy being home.

"If I stay in baseball it will be with Milwaukee."

Haney said he had not discussed his status with Milwaukee officials and that, in fact, he hadn't expected to say anything about it at this time, except that "this just came from my heart."

John McHale, the Braves' general manager, said in Milwaukee he was surprised at Haney's statement. "This is the first we've heard of it," said McHale.

Braves' Lead Cut To One Game After Loss To Dodgers

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Just a month ago Milwaukee was riding a hot streak to a 4½-game bulge in the National League race. Now the Braves have a limp lead of one game with their sluggers shackled by shutouts.

The Braves were blanked only eight times all last year as they put away a second straight pennant. Now, with little more than a third of the season gone, they've been whitewashed six times — more than any other NL club except Philadelphia, and even the last place Phillies have suffered no more.

The champs were handed two consecutive shutouts for the first time in four years Monday night at Los Angeles when the Dodgers made off with a 4-0 victory behind the four-hit pitching of Don Drysdale, who struck out 12.

In the American League, Cleveland made it six in a row and regained first place with a 5-1 victory at Boston for a .002 percentage-point edge over Chicago's idle White Sox. Detroit finally ended Hoyt Wilhelm's unbeaten string at 10, beating Baltimore 6-4. Washington defeated Kansas City 8-5 in the only other game scheduled.

The Braves now have lost 15 games while winning only 13 since taking that 4½-game lead last month. They've been shut out five times in the slump. They've also dropped five of their last seven and eight of 12.

Bob Buhl (6-4), who had won four in a row, battled Drysdale (6-5) in a scoreless duel until the seventh inning. Then the Dodgers, who had been checked on five hits, broke loose for all four runs, three of them unearned.

A walk and an interference ruling against catcher Del Crandall as he chased Drysdale's bunt set it up. Junior Gilliam doubled the first run home and Wally Moon collected the other three with his third homer.

JOCKEY OTTO CRANK, one of the leading riders around the Detroit area for several seasons, is among the newcomers who will be seen in action during the Waterford Park racing season which opens Wednesday.

Heavy Champ Tapering Off For Title Bout

CHATHAM, N.J. (AP) — World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson may not have much to say, but he's strictly on his own when training decisions are made.

"This has been going on for several years," said manager Cus D'Amato today as Patterson started his final week of serious training for his June 25 title defense against Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in The Yankee Stadium. "But we haven't said anything about it. Floyd is the type who needs no trainer. He's that sharp."

D'Amato merely keeps a close eye on his prize chattel. He does all the talking, but looks for other things to do when Patterson starts his training sessions.

"I've heard all this talk about Floyd being overtrained," scowled D'Amato. "But it doesn't mean a thing. He knows exactly when he's had enough. He decides when, where and how long to work out.

"And I'll tell you something else. This boy simply cannot be overtrained. He can work all he wants to and still not be overtrained."

Possibly the only real top heavyweights down through the years who were their own bosses were Gene Tunney and Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Speaking of training," continued D'Amato, "I understand Johansson doesn't place much faith in them either.

"They tell me he hasn't been going at his training seriously enough. Well, you must realize that everyone has his own system. After all, he is undefeated in Europe, so he must know something about how to get ready for a fight."

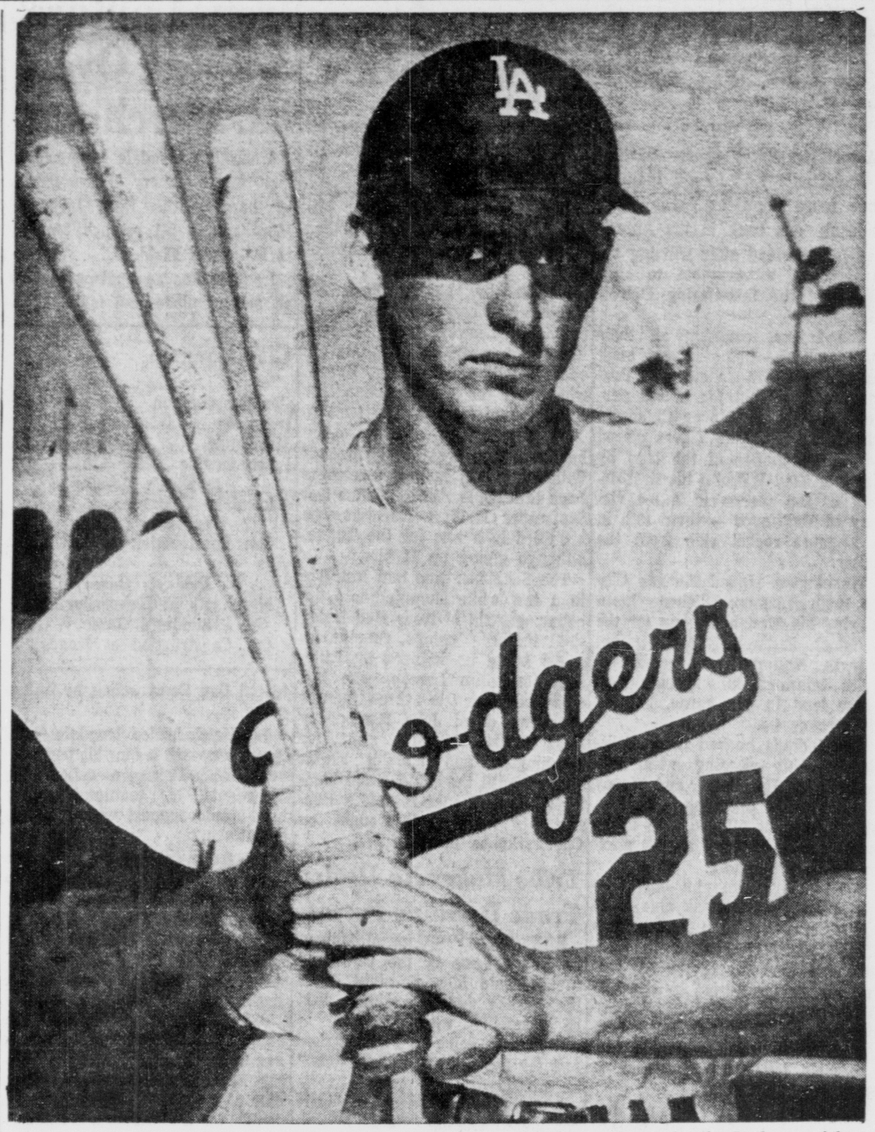

Patterson plans to wind up serious training on Sunday.

FORMER OHIO STATE basketball star Frank Howard, recalled from Texas by the Dodgers, picks up a few bats from the bat rack as he warms up for the game with the Braves. Howard, a 22-year-old bonus boy, was a terror in Texas where he was batting .365 in 65 games, had hit 27 homers and knocked in 78 runs. (UPI Telephoto)

Johansson Comes To Own Defense About Training

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — Incensed at reports that he hasn't been taking his training chores seriously, Ingemar Johansson came to his own defense today.

"I have been out dancing just twice," the Swedish challenger for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight championship said. "And I have been on just two television programs."

Likewise, he can't understand why he is criticized for not going after his sparring partners with more gusto.

"I don't believe in trying to knock them out," he shrugged, "so why should anyone else care?"

To date, he has put in 131 rounds in the ring and has missed just two days of work.

Ingemar appears to be working for speed and stamina. He apparently has enough confidence in his punching ability to concentrate on other matters.

He is on the road every morning rain or shine, and runs like all get-out.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY MEYERS

Teach Children To Respect Each Other

"Their manners are extremely good everywhere but at their own table. They are good, friendly children except when together. Then they fight and quarrel constantly." So writes a New Jersey mother of her two daughters, four and eight. She continues: "Besides being wearing on the nerves, this problem worries us very much. We want them to love each other; not every minute, naturally, but to have a mutual respect.

By Garry Meyers

"K, the younger sister, is outgoing, with a fine sense of humor and lots of determination. Her older sister, S, has a tendence toward shyness and only expects the worst to happen.

"K CAN BE mean and nasty with her sister. She hits or slaps, calls her sister a bad girl and does everything else she can think of to irritate her, whereas S likes to tease but not to be teased.

"For half a year the older daughter was bedridden and had a teacher at home. Returning to school, she has done very well. On her report card the teacher wrote, 'S is a welcome addition to our classroom.' "

My reply in part:

When any child of the family is disabled, the well child usually feels jealous.

If both your children had been well, more jealousy might be normally expected in the older one. With so wide an age difference, they can't be good playmates because they live in different worlds. Help each to cultivate her own playmates.

TRY TO KEEP them apart more by day; if possible, in different bedrooms by night. Since the younger seems more often the aggressor, curb her ugly way toward her older sister.

Seek ways to help both girls find creative and constructive satisfaction alone and with others of their respective ages.

Announce to these children that, for a definite period, they will take turns eating alone. Begin with the older one or choose the first one by lot. Maintain this discipline until they have learned that good manners and respect begin in the home.

In the meanwhile, try to make mealtime a period of leisurely companionable conversation, with the world shut out.

My bulletins, "Preventing and Reducing Jealousy" and "Quarreling and Fighting," may be had by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Thomas Best In Hometown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There's a creeping notion that Frank Thomas was hometown Pittsburgh Pirate for so long, he can't get used to playing anywhere else.

It's a lively idea, but probably no more true than some of the suggestions why the third base strong boy can't perform for the Cincinnati Reds, his new masters.

Thomas, on a recent radio interview, was asked if he was under pressure because the Reds swapped three front-liners to get him from Pittsburgh.

"No, not on me," he said. "Only on the guy who made the deal for our club."

That man is Reds' General Manager Gabe Paul who has, as is his custom, refrained from any criticism about the third baseman he got in exchange for pitcher Harvey Haddix, catcher Smoky Burgess and third baseman Don Hoak.

Thomas was the starting third baseman for the National League in last year's All-Star game, partly on the basis of his 20 homers in the first half of the season. It's doubtful if he will make the team this year.

Thomas himself blames an off-season operation on his right hand for his poor batting performance.

"I can't grip the bat properly," he said. "It's the same story at times when I throw the ball . . .

China Floods Deal Blow To Plans Of Reds

TOKYO (AP)—China's age-old flood scourge is dealing a heavy blow to the Communist regime's plans to continue the "great leap forward" in 1959.

Torrential rains have been lashing south and central China for a week. Red broadcasts admit floods have inundated 900 square miles in Kwangtung province alone, but mobilization of some three million persons to combat the menace indicates the flooded area is much greater.

Peiping radio said harvesting of crops is going ahead normally in other sections of the vast country. But weather forecasts in Tokyo reported that the warm air front which brought the downpour to Kwangtung has moved toward the thickly settled lower Yangtze Valley.

The weathermen said a low pressure has developed over Hankow, Shanghai, Nanking and other east coast areas, and that they are due for a drenching.

The rains also have brought death and destruction to the adjacent British colony of Hong Kong. Tropical thunderstorms have killed 45 Chinese there, and 5,000 are homeless.

446 Rebels Killed, French Army Claims

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army claimed today that 446 Algerian rebels were killed in fighting last week, and 145 were taken prisoner.

The army said its losses were 47 killed.

Soviet Bomber Found

LONDON (AP)—The wreck of a bullet-riddled Soviet bomber has been found in the arctic tundra southeast of Murmansk. Moscow radio did not give the type of bomber or say when it crashed, but apparently it was a World War II casualty.

House Seeks New Slash In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members who want less money spent on foreign aid mustered today in an attempt to cut another 300 million dollars from the proposed program.

The $3,642,600,000 authorization bill before the House already represents a cut of $266,800,000 from President Eisenhower's recommendations.

Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich), a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said he is drafting amendments to the bill to reduce its total to about $3,300,000,000.

Supporters of foreign aid registered an impressive margin—277-93—Monday on the preliminary vote whether the House should take up the bill. It raised their hopes of warding off any further deep cuts — at least until the separate legislation actually appropriating the funds provides another test.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee brought out, meanwhile, its own version of the bill with a total authorized spending even higher than the amount Eisenhower asked. The Senate total was $4,164,820,000 compared with $3,930,000,000 Eisenhower asked.

South Koreans Appeal In Repatriation Issue

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A group of South Koreans appealed to the American Red Cross today to intervene in the dispute over Japanese plans to repatriate destitute Koreans to Communist North Korea. The appeal was presented to U.S. Ambassador Walter Dowling.

Japan and North Korea agreed on the repatriation in principle last week, and negotiators for the two governments are now working on a detailed agreement.

South Korea claims the repatriates are being send to Communist slavery.

Alarm Clocks Keep Girls Busy At OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — When men of Theta Kappa Phi turned over their Ohio State University fraternity house to dates during a weekend party, there was a catch.

Before leaving, fraternity members hid several alarm clocks. Alarms began sounding at 4 a. m., keeping the 32 girls temporarily occupying the house busy hunting down the clocks.

Close Games Featured In Church Loop

Two one-run decisions were posted in the YMCA-Church Softball League Monday when First Methodist edged Calcutta United Presbyterian, 8-7, and Chester Christian nipped Oakland Free Methodist, 6-5.

Gale Williams' homer featured a 9-2 victory for Glenmoor U. P. over Second Church of Christ. J. Horner also homered for the losers.

In another contest, Grace U. P. led by Al Dawson's two home runs defeated Calvary Methodist, 9-4. Chick McMillan also hit for the circuit.

Grace U. P. collected 13 hits and were aided by four Calvary Methodist errors.

Due Taft Portrait

WASHINGTON (AP) — A portrait of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) will be presented to Senate Republicans Wednesday. The portrait, approved by Taft shortly before his death in 1953, will be kept permanently in the office of the Senate GOP leader Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who will accept the painting. The portrait is by Rudolf Bernatschke.

Weirton Puts Two Players On All-State

WILLIAMSON (AP) — Weirton, the state champion, and runnerup East Bank, placed two men each on the 1959 All-State High School Baseball Team announced today.

Chairman Jim Van Zant of the selection board said Weirton has Mike Tomasovich, a pitcher, and John Ritchey, third baseman, and East Bank is represented by pitcher Johnny Brace and outfielder Jerry Deal on the first team.

The selection board is made up of eight state sports writers who had the help of coaches and officials.

There was only one repeater on the first team, John Teets, a utility player from Buckhannon-Upshur. Teets had a 5-1 pitching record, and hit .350.

Woman Injured Fatally

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. A. E. Forni, 72, of Steubenville, was injured fatally in a three-vehicle crash Monday at an intersection north of here. Her husband, 72, was reported in fair condition in Samaritan Hospital. Officers said the car driven by Forni collided with a semi-trailer truck, then was hit by another car at the intersection of U.S. 224 and U.S. 250.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a policeman. He doesn't make much money and we have a large family of youngsters who are always needing something.

Recently he was offered an opportunity to add to his income. We discussed it and I said it was perfectly all right with me. His extra job is throwing the switch which ends the lives of criminals sentenced to death in the electric chair.

When my husband's mother found out what he was doing for extra money she made such a terrible fuss that it created bad feelings.

Frankly, I never felt that my husband was murdering anyone. He only carries out the verdict. My mother-in-law says he's taking a human life every time he throws the switch and all the fancy language doesn't change this.

Now I don't know where I stand any more. My mother-in-law is grieving so over her son's "killing people" that it's actually making her ill. Is she right? Shall I tell him to give up this job for his mother's sake? Please advise me, Ann. I don't know what to do. —W.M.

Dear W.M.: If your husband needs a second job to earn extra money, there must be other things he can do. He should not insist on this particular job if it makes his mother sick. Regardless of whether or not he feels justified, urge him to quit out of respect for his mother.

Said With Flowers

Dear Ann: I'm in a spot. A fellow I dated only a few times has flipped his lid over me. He's a perfectly fine guy but I just don't care for him. It's hard to describe but when I'm with him no bells ring, no angels sing — nothing. I decided after our last date I would be "busy" if he called again.

This morning, I received a dozen American Beauty roses from the creep. It made me angry. I resent his trying to overwhelm me. If I acknowledge the flowers I'm afraid he'll consider it encouragement and then I'll never get rid of him.

It seems to me that flowers are in the same category as a greeting card and therefore need no acknowledgment. Am I right? — VEXED.

Dear Vexed: You are wrong. Flowers are not "in the same category as a greeting card." Have you ever tried to buy a dozen roses for a quarter?

You don't have to date him again if you don't want to, but you owe him a thank you note. One thing has nothing to do with the other. Stop rationalizing.

Unappreciated Mates

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from the woman who signed herself Inez. It seems she felt perfectly comfortable "borrowing" another woman's husband since she had none of her own. You gave her an unmerciful clobbering.

I'm sure you could not possibly condone this on moral grounds (the clergymen would scream like Banshees) but I think Inez has a point. It might wake up a few lethargic, self-satisfied wives. Perhaps they'd appreciate their husbands more if they discovered someone else considered their taken-for-granted "cash registers" a bit attractive.

Too doggone many women in this world feel they can live without men and they let their husbands know it. Maybe a little outside competition is exactly what the doctor ordered.—C.E.R.

Dear C.E.R.: Thank you for your offering. My original advice to Inez still stands.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

common agreement, although he seems to be in sympathy."

He explained his daughter, a graduate of East Liverpool High School, took a teaching course at Youngstown University and now is teaching in Warren.

"It's not exactly fair to me or the others when we raise our children here, educate them in the schools and when they get to the point they can do our city some good they are refused a job," he said.

"We want an integrated teaching staff. We are not making threats or using force. It's something we feel should be. We ask you for an answer one way or the other."

"I know several teachers Mr. Blair (Asst. Supt. Paul Blair) has taught. If you can teach them and further their education,, why aren't they permitted to teach in the school system?" Peters asked.

He declared the East Liverpool school system is far behind other school systems in the state by failing to hire Negro teachers.

Later in the session, Peters accused the board of "indirectly using discrimination," pointing out almost every nationality group is represented on the teaching staff but Negroes.

"We believe you should make a statement. You should have an opinion. It's not something you are going to have to face; you are facing it now. We certainly intend to push forward."

Rev. Hafley declared the organization is not concerned about the past, but is looking to the future. He said members want their children to remain here and aid in the development of the city. He said he has a daughter who is a teacher with nine years experience and that he would like her to live near him rather than in Chicago.

The minister said his daughter was told by a local businessman that she couldn't get a job here "but she's qualified to teach elsewhere."

He pointed out the NAACP does not want the board to hire anyone unless they have the qualifications. "I'd be the first to turn down my daughter if she wasn't qualified."

Spencer spoke briefly twice. During the discussion, he declared, "I hope Mr. Betts is thinking of the future. I am hoping he will be impartial." He said he had spoken with the superintendent previously and had been told "the time wasn't ripe."

Lawrence commented, "I haven't talked with the other members at all. It was mentioned casually a year ago. I have no objections personally if they meet the qualifications and standards."

Brown declared, "I can see no reason why they shouldn't apply. The superintendent will go over the applications and we expect him to recommend the best qualified."

Moss also indicated he would have no objections as long as the applicants are qualified.

Lowe at one point said no decision should be made without "quite a lot" of deliberation. He said the proposal is something new and the board needed time to discuss it.

Rev. Hafley commented, "A teacher is a teacher. It's nothing new for a Negro to apply for a job."

Later, Lowe said if the recommendation appeared on the board's agenda "we wouldn't look at the color of their skin." However, he pointed out the superintendent is responsible and the board can't take the responsibility away from him.

Moss later added, "I wouldn't want any teachers hired by pressure from any group" and Betts interjected, "When that happens, you will have a new superintendent."

Peters rejoined, "We are not a pressure group. We are citizens and taxpayers asking for what rightfully is ours." He added the superintendent should do his job "and not as it has been done in the past," contending that some Negroes have applied but weren't interviewed for positions.

Lowe interrupted to object, declaring the attack on Betts was unfair. "I have every confidence in the superintendent and I know he won't show partiality."

Peters replied, "I believe Mr. Moss attacked our organization as a pressure group."

The discussion then turned to an application submitted about a year ago by Peters' daughter and a failure to be interviewed.

Michael Misconish, treasurer of the East Liverpool Teachers Association who was attending the session on another matter, said it has been his experience to submit applications but in many instances never to hear further regarding an interview.

The discussion ended a few minutes later after Blair said he would take full responsibility since he screens applications for elementary positions, but was teaching in Toledo when the application was received and wrote the applicant informing her of the situation.

5 Youths Fined For Vandalism At Wellsville

Five youths discovered Monday that destroying somebody else's property just to "have fun" can prove costly.

The boys, four from East Liverpool and one from Wellsville, were fined a total of $550 and costs for destroying the hedge of a Wellsville yard at hearings before Mayor William J. Shoub of Wellsville.

Police said the boys were in a car driven by Robert Byers of Shadyside Ave. which was run back and forth through the hedge and yard of William Nicholson of 18th St. Friday night. The youths had left when police were called but the officers later heard of some boys wrecking a car on the Pleasant Valley Rd.

A check was made of the vehicle and some of the hedge was still stuck to the underside of the vehicle, officers said. The youths were then picked up at their homes and told to report yesterday for hearings.

Byers was fined $100 and costs for malicious destruction of property and $50 for reckless operation. The four passengers in his car were each fined $100 and costs on charges of disorderly conduct. They are Dave Randolph, 1100 Dresden Ave.; Albert Dailey, 1061 Claiborne Ave.; Rex Lee Wright, rear 1102 Claiborne Ave., and Ted Smith, 421 Wells Hollow Rd., Wellsville.

Awards Given At St. George Church Rites

Presentation of awards helped highlight a program Sunday which marked the 10th anniversary of the dedication of St. George's Serbian Orthodox Church at Midland.

Miss Marie Milanovich received a trophy from Bishop Dionisije of Libertyville, Ill., honoring her for 10 years' service. Similar awards were given to Miss Mildred Roslovic, assistant choir director, and Steve Roknich, tutor of the temple.

Past congregation presidents honored and presented awards were George Herak, Theodore Trbovich, Sylvester Vranes, Milan Borato, Pete Esapovich and Alex Krivoshia, also the present president.

Recent high school and college graduates of the congregation were given Bibles, dedication booklets, a diocese book and a special cross. Jo Ann Biach, Lincoln High School graduate, received a $50 Savings Bond.

Some 300 attended the dinner Sunday in the Serbian National Home and a picnic later at Crucible Park. Music for both was provided by the Plavi Jadran Orchestra of Cleveland.

Observance of the anniversary began Saturday evening with vesper services and a supper for Bishop Dionisije and clergyman.

The Pontifical Divine Liturgy Sunday was by Bishop Dionisije, assisted by guest clergymen and Fr. Milorad Dobrota. A parastos was read in memory of the congregation's deceased members. The Dr. Laza Kostich Choir sang responses.

During the dinner, movies of the 1959 church dedication were shown and commented on by Steve Trbovich, toastmaster. Both Bishop Dionisije and Rep. Clark were guest speakers.

Constable Injured In Courthouse Mishap

He was injured when he fell partially through a hole in the floor of a narrow passageway linking the Courthouse with the County Jail yesterday about 11:30.

It is believed that Constable Manypenny stepped into a hole in the floor of the wooden structure because of a neck injury which may have prevented him from getting a clear view of his path.

Manypenny suffered a damaged vertebra in a traffic accident several weeks ago when a cruiser of the sheriff's office wrecked on Route 2 while enroute to an accident. Manypenny was a passenger. He has since been forced to wear a neck brace.

Guests were Floyd Lowers of Lisbon and George McCullough of East Liverpool. H. R. Howard was named publicity chairman. It was announced a $25 donation has been made to the Glenmoor playground.

As Result Of Complaints

Water Line Policy Faces Study By Council, Board

Acting on complaints filed by Councilman A. Stanley Kidder, Council decided Monday night to request members of the Board of Public Utilities to appear at the next meeting July 6 to discuss the city's policy in extending water lines beyond the corporate limits and particularly if it attempts to anticipate future growth in the size of its mains.

Kidder charged that he has received complaints that the Board of Public Utilities, which administers the water system, does not install adequate mains when it runs service into new residential areas. As an example, he cited the Broadview Circle development just off St. Clair Ave. near the city limits.

ACTING ON his complaints, Council asked Clerk Ray Goodman to send a letter to the utilities board inviting its members to a meeting at 7:30 p. m. July 6. It suggested that the board bring along three top water officials, Supt. Frank K. Robinson, Donald Duke, his assistant, and Harold Peterson, head of the distribution department. Members of the board are W. O. Schneider, F. J. Cloran and Robert P. Guyton.

Kidder charged, in effect, that water service in the Broadview Circle area now is inadequate because of the diameter of the main and that the supply will become worse because a new housing development is beginning in the area that will draw its water from the same line. He said complaints were given to him by affected householders who already had complained to the water department.

He started the discussion by raising a question: "When the water department goes outside the city limits with a new line, does it get Council authority or does it have the authority to perform the work on its own?"

SOLICITOR Joseph W. Cooper said he believes the policy always has been for the water department to act on its own authority for lack of a rule to the contrary.

"I think that should change," Kidder replied. "They have put in inadequate lines. I think they should be required to put in lines that would be big enough to take care of any future construction in the area the new main will serve.

"I have had complaints of that condition from Broadview Circle," Kidder continued. "I think before they run any new lines or permit anyone else to hook onto an existing main they should be required to provide adequate service. It's pathetic the service the people have there."

Councilman Samuel B. Webber made the motion to request the meeting with the water board and it was approved unanimously. At the same time, Council and the water department officials can discuss any problems that will arise with the utility's lines along the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," which is scheduled for blacktop resurfacing soon, Webber said.

Teacher Association Points To Need For Salary Boosts

The East Liverpool Teachers Association requested the Board of Education Monday night to ask passage of a 4-mill levy for operating funds and possible salary increases for teachers, setting its goal at $5,600 for those with bachelor degrees and $6,000 for those with master's degrees.

The requests were made by Austen Moore, president, and Michael Misconish, treasurer.

In making the recommendations, Misconish pointed out the city school system ranks 124th among 138 cities in Ohio on salaries.

He said the suggested salaries couldn't be obtained even with passage of the levy, but were goals for which to strive.

The present maximums after 12 years' experience are $4,800 for teachers with bachelor degrees and $5,200 for those with master's degrees.

Leo C. Lawrence, president, pointed out the board received a recommendation from the Citizens Committee for Better Schools early in May that it seeks renewal of an 8-mill levy and an additional 4 mills for operating funds.

No decision has been reached yet, he said, pointing out many problems still must be resolved.

Other members, James Moss, Samuel Brown and James Lowe, concurred.

Moore commented the association hopes to work closely with the board on school problems and wants to assist in any way possible.

Trustees Get Number Plan

Tentative street numbers for homes and lots along 11 St. Clair Township streets north of the city were submitted at a meeting of the township trustees Monday night.

The streets include Harding, Ashland, Chardon, Moore, Purinton, Gonzales, Oakmont, Bloomfield, Belmont, Milton and Clifton Aves.

Streets parallel to St. Clair Ave. would have numbers starting around 3200, while streets intersecting St. Clair Ave. would have numbers starting in the 100's east and west.

They accepted the plat of the second addition of Frank Fisher in Elmhurst Acres, behind the first addition along the Smiths Ferry-Calcutta Rd. The plat includes an 1,100-foot street named Fisher Ave.

The trustees approved installation of a 10-inch sewer under St. Clair Ave. at Thompson Rd. to improve water drainage.

It was announced residents may order oil for roads until the next meeting of the trustees Monday night. Arrangements for buying and application of the oil are made through the trustees.

Buckeye Pennsylvania Crude Oil Is Boosted

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — Quaker State Refining Co. today began paying producers of Buckeye Pennsylvania grade crude oil 22 cents more a barrel, upping the price to $3.47 a barrel.

The increase is the first the company has given Buckeye producers in a year. A company spokesman said continuing improvement in quality of the crude oil over the last month made the increase possible.

32 Cars Derailed

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — The derailment of 32 cars of a Cleveland-bound freight train Monday tied up four main-line tracks of the New York Central System. A New York Central official said it would take several days to clear the wreckage. Cause of the derailment was not determined. There were no serious injuries.

Daughter Likely To Take Stand In Mother's Trial

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jill Klumpp, 17-year-old daughter of Edythe Klumpp, will probably be called as a state witness at her mother's first degree murder trial.

That will mean Mrs. Klumpp's daughter, her divorced husband, Robert, and the man she wanted to marry, will be required by prosecution subpenas to testify in the trial which entered its second week Monday.

Hamilton County Prosecutor C. Watson Hover said he will probably call Jill, a Withrow High School student, to testify about seeing blood on her mother's clothing the evening the state claims Mrs. Klumpp, 41, killed Louise Bergen, 32.

Mrs. Klumpp is accused of shooting and bludgeoning Mrs. Bergen in the Klumpp car on a secluded street here because Mrs. Bergen would not divorce her husband, William.

The prosecution says she kept the body in the trunk of her car overnight and burned it the next day at a lake 45 miles away.

Bergen is scheduled as a state witness, probably late this week, but there was no immediate indication when Klumpp or his daughter would testify.

Meanwhile, the date Mrs. Klumpp bought gasoline used to burn Mrs. Bergen's body looms as a key point in the state charge of premeditated murder.

Atomic Figure Dies

Officers Stalk Alleged Killers Of Two Police

Gunfire Forces Pair To Let Man Go After He's Held 10 Days

MIDDLEBORO, Mass. (AP) — More than 300 heavily armed police today stalked two alleged police killers in a swampy woodland after gunfire forced the pair to abandon a man they had held captive for 10 nearly foodless days.

Objects of the concentrated manhunt are John Coyle, 23, and his brother, William, 21, both of Philadelphia, known to be armed with five pistols and three belts of ammunition.

For more than three hours early today it was feared that two college girls had fallen hostages to the desperado pair, until the girls were spotted by police at a roadblock in Bourne, where Cape Cod begins.

The girls—Priscilla Jury, 19, of Wayne, N.J., and Elizabeth McKay, 19, of Glen Cove, N.Y. had been reported missing by three girl companions with whom they are sharing a summer cottage on vacation from Green Mountain Junior College at Poultney, Vt.

Police quoted them as saying they had driven to Provincetown on the tip of Cape Code on a sightseeing tour.

The manhunt was one of the biggest in Massachusetts history. It includes scores of state and local police, some two dozen FBI agents, law enforcers from Philadelphia, agents of the Massachusetts Natural Resources Commission, an Air Force helicopter, a Barnstable County plane, and bloodhounds.

Police Keep Vigil For Berserk Gunman

CHARLESTON, Ill. (AP) — A grim force of heavily armed police today kept a tense vigil on a white frame house where a berserk gunman held his half-sister hostage, demanding the life of a policeman he hates in exchange for hers.

"I will shoot anyone who tries to apprehend me," Kenneth Eugene Adkins, 22, wrote in a pencil-scrawled note he tossed out a window.

MIGs Attack Navy Plane; One Wounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy patrol plane was attacked by MIG jet fighters over international waters of the Sea of Japan Monday and one of the crew was seriously wounded, the Defense Department reported today.

The incident, in which two MIG fighters were believed to have made the attack, occurred about 85 miles east of Wonsan, North Korea.

The first reports received here did not make clear whether the American plane returned the fire.

"Radio reports said the jets attacked without warning, firing tracer ammunition," the Pentagon announcement said.

"Thought to be two in number, they made six firing runs and followed the P4M to within 50 feet of the water as the patrol plane took evasive action. Skies were clear and ceiling unlimited.

"A tail gunner in the U.S. plane was seriously wounded as his gun was knocked out on the first run. He was the only casualty reported.

"Attacking aircraft were silver MIG fighters with red stars aft of their cockpits on the fuselage," the report said.

'Superman' Takes Own Life, Police Say

Reeves starred in scores of the "Superman" films. Although the series was discontinued, reruns are appearing.

Lama Back In Lhasa

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio reported today that the Panchen Lama has returned to Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, after a three-month stay in Communist China.

Judge Studies Freedom Bid Of Gov. Long

Sanity Hearing Off; Governor Returned To Mental Clinic

GALVESTON, Tex., (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana, who says he wants to return to his home state and enter a New Orleans hospital, was back in a Texas mental clinic today for at least another week while a judge pondered whether to free him.

District Judge L. D. Godard said Monday night after the habeas corpus hearing he felt more time should be spent studying the case before he ruled on it. He ordered Long back to the mental clinic while he delayed his decision one week.

Judge Godard also announced postponement of today's sanity hearing after a conference with Probate Judge Hugh Gibson. The sanity hearing also was moved back one week.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La), the governor's nephew and son of the late Sen. and Gov. Huey P. Long, disagreed.

"It seems to be a very crucial point has been overlooked," said Sen. Long, who attended the hearing but was barred from testifying by court order.

Attorneys for Gov. Long asked the court to bar those representing Mrs. Long from testifying. Mrs. Long did not appear in court.

Sen. Long told newsmen after the hearing the point he had mentioned should have been clear to anyone, even those with no legal training.

The senator has hinted he might seek the governorship.

Gov. Long, leaving the courthouse, yelled: "Still in jail. Still in jail, Texas style."

Earlier, he said: "I don't belong in an asylum."

He said if he had been freed, he would have entered Ochsner Hospital in New Orleans.

If he had gotten back to Louisiana, he said, he probably would have vetoed some bills. In Long's absence, acting Gov. Lether Frazar Monday signed or vetoed the last of the bills passed by the Louisiana Legislature, which adjourned a week ago.

In his petition for the writ of habeas corpus hearing Long said he was a "governor in exile by force and kidnaping." He charged he was drugged, tied to a stretcher and carried aboard a National Guard plane for the flight to Galveston May 30.

Stalemated Steel Parley To Resume

Union Chief Gives Assurance After Talk With Finnegan

NEW YORK (AP)—Stalemated contract negotiations in the basic steel industry will be resumed here today after a five-day recess, despite a dispute over the way they are to be conducted, the head of the steel union says.

Union President David J. McDonald gave that assurance in Washington Monday after conferring with Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Earlier in Philadelphia, McDonald had said the steel companies had indicated they were willing to raise wages by about six cents an hour on condition that the union agree to a number of changes in the current contract.

McDonald said the proposed changes would wipe out union gains over the past 18 years and reduce workers benefits by at least $2 an hour. Basic wages now average $3.03 an hour.

"I can promise you the United Steelworkers positively will never take a backward step," McDonald told an AFL-CIO conference on collective bargaining.

In addition to a substantial wage increase, the United Steelworkers of America are seeking a cut in the 40-hour work week, plus other benefits. Until recently, the steel companies had been insisting on a one-year freeze. They contended this would help curb inflation.

Eisenhower Is Challenged By Democrats

If Eisenhower carries his case to the public in television-radio and other speeches, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said in an interview, the Democrats will be ready for battle.

"We'll carry our fight to the people, too, on the basis of the record we are making in Congress," Mansfield said. "I think it is a good idea for the President to report to the people and let them decide on the basis of the record, as they have in the last three congressional elections."

Mansfield's chief, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told the Senate Monday that Republicans who are criticizing this as a "do nothing" Congress "will wake up some time late in September and find out it just ain't so."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader, backed up the contention of Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman, that Eisenhower is the best salesman the Republicans have.

Dirksen said Eisenhower had discussed with GOP congressional leaders the possibility of 15-minute TV-radio appearances to whip up support for foreign aid, labor regulation and other administration bills which have come under heavy Democratic attack.

"The President thinks it is his duty to keep the people informed about the way the Democratic Congress is handling his program," Dirksen said.

Asked if one of the objectives would be to build up popular support for possible vetoes of Democratic-sponsored spending bills, Dirksen said yes.

Unexpected Conference

Raises County Officials' Pay

Statewide Voter Signup Approved By Ohio Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Every-voter registration cast its shadow over the length and breadth of Ohio today.

Registration, now affecting 39 counties, would be effective in all 88 if the House accepts a bill approved 21-10 by the Ohio Senate Monday.

Senate approval of the controversial measure came shortly before it passed and sent to the House a bill raising the salaries of county officials—pending the start of new terms—an average of 10 per cent. Most county officials start new terms in about 18 months.

The Senate has before it today a bill to abolish most rotary funds in state government—routine income and outgo not subject to legislative appropriations. Many lawmakers in the past have opposed rotary funds on grounds they loosen the Legislature's hold on the state's pursestrings.

The House virtually completed legislative action on bills to:

Subject to taxation the fuel used in highway construction machinery.

Permit creation of private nonprofit health care organizations and provide for their regulation.

The statewide registration bill is sponsored by Sen. J. Sherman Porter (D-Gallia.) It would have effect in 49 Ohio counties in which no registration now is required. It would have partial effect in the 16 counties which now require only partial registration. It would have no effect in the 23 counties in which total registration is required.

Senate opposition came from members representing primarily rural districts.

Sen. Ross Pepple (R-Allen) described the bill as "unneeded, unwanted," and added: "It would take away home rule and be a foolish waste of money."

Sen. Harry E. Schwall (R-Fulton) asserted: "The rural counties see no need for the bill—they are doing good jobs in elections."

But Sen. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) asserted his predecessor, Sen. Albert Daniels (R-Highland) had fought for years for such a bill. Fess added: "Registration was one of the best things that ever happened to the two big counties in my five-county district—Ross and Greene. I can't do anything but favor the bill."

Porter asserted statewide registration would standardize voting procedure throughout the state; there would be no question about who can and who cannot vote and the possibility of fraud would be greatly reduced. He added:

"The present practice of requiring some citizens to register and not requiring others to register is contrary to the American tradition of treating all citizens alike. About 24 per cent of all Ohio citizens are not, at this time, required to register."

The county officials' pay raise was described by a sponsor. Sen. Ray T. Miller Jr. (D-Cuyahoga), as a water-down version of the original measure which would have granted pay raises of about 50 per cent.

The increases permitted under the bill reach a top of 35 per cent in the Cleveland area which Miller, son of the Cuyahoga County chairman, represents. He asserted the increases are too low.

The Legislature began its 24th work week Monday with these other highlights:

The House virtually completed passage of a Senate-approved bill

Allies Split Over Summit Following Ministers Meeting

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter met unexpectedly today at Gromyko's request to discuss the final phase of the Big Four conference on Berlin.

There was immediate speculation among Western diplomats that Gromyko might have some new proposal either on breaking the East-West deadlock over Berlin, or on how to wind up the conference.

Earlier Herter met with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd amid reports that the Western powers were split over the problem of a summit conference following up the foreign ministers meeting.

Britain was reported urging U.S. and French consideration of accepting a summit session even if the present meeting ended in failure.

The Soviet foreign minister went to Herter's villa. In another conference crisis last week Herter had gone to Gromyko's villa. The Russian was accompanied by A. A. Soldatov, chief of the American section of the Soviet Foreign Office.

Herter had Assistant Secretary of State Livingston Merchant and Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, as his advisers in the meeting.

The Western allies were reported making an 11th hour attempt to hammer out a stopgap accord on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic officials said foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France may present in secret session Wednesday a new document setting forth their latest ideas.

While Western informants were tight-lipped about the meeting, Herter presumably told the Briton that President Eisenhower continues strongly opposed to a summit conference unless it is justified by some success here.

The stopgap formula under study by Western experts would represent the minimum Western terms for agreeing to a summit meeting—barring a reversal of policy such as the British government apparently is advocating.

Informants indicated the West's approach would temporarily set aside both Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's plan for turning West Berlin into a free city, and

Recalled Jury Indicts 6 In Day's Session

Arraignments To Be Held July 1; Charges Against 2 Ignored

Six persons were indicted by the recalled April Grand Jury which reported late Monday afternoon for the one-day session in Common Pleas Court.

The panel of seven men and eight women began its studies at 9:30 a. m. and returned nine true bills against six defendants and ignored two cases in its report to Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

Judge Buzzard released the panel subject to further recall.

True bills returned were:

Bernard John Icenhower, 40, of 305 E. 2nd St., second degree manslaughter in the traffic death of Murl Oney, 37, formerly of 307 E. 2nd St.

Icenhower was the driver of a car that struck a parked truck March 8, killing Oney, his passenger.

Cash Register Points Out City Burglary

A rifled cash register found on Pleasant Heights shortly before 6 this morning touched off a police investigation that disclosed a burglary in a downtown television and radio shop in which intruders escaped with cash and merchandise worth a total of $156 and $205 in checks.

The burglary investigation at the Croxall Radio and TV Sales & Service on E. 4th St. near Washington St. was "worked in reverse," so to speak, because the rifled register was found before the breaking and entering had been discovered, police explained.

Police said the loot included two red and white transistor radios worth $39.95 each, a white table model valued at $36.95, and $39.09 in cash and the $205 in checks removed from the broken register. The store is operated by Jack B. and Margaret R. Croxall, officers said.

At the same time, a burglar took $10.75 in cash from Flora Mae's Beauty Shop in a second-floor location at 208 E. 5th St., also ransacking the premises thoroughly in an apparent search for more money, police said.

The rifled register from the Croxall store was found at 5:53 a. m. on Sanford Ave. by Patrolman R. E. Higgins, to whom it was pointed out by an unidentified woman, police said. A plastic

County Legal Right Doubted In Neff Libel

Beaver Prosecutor Says 2 Defendants Not To Be Called

BEAVER FALLS (AP) — Auditor Gen. Charles C. Smith and his deputy, J. Alexander Jacobs, will be asked—not summoned—to appear in Beaver County to answer charges of criminal libel.

Alderman George Alderson Monday night said he would ask the two state officials to come to Beaver Falls after Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward advised it "would be best not to issue warrants."

Steward said the county's jurisdiction is questionable in the case.

The charges were filed Saturday by Samuel G. Neff, who last week was fired from his $12,500-a-year post as manager of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Neff was dismissed after Smith filed a report with Gov. Lawrence charging Neff was involved in a scheme to collect 5 per cent kickbacks on highway equipment in Beaver County.

Dissolution Sought

Check On Petition Clears Way In School Area Vote

Completing a lengthy check on voter qualifications, the County Election Board certified today to the County Board of Education that it found sufficient signatures on a petition to clear the way for a vote at the Nov. 3 general election on a proposal to dissolve the Fairfield-Waterford School District and transfer its area to the nearby Columbiana and East Palestine districts.

The check on the 844-name petition showed 820 signatures of qualified electors, 59 more than the minimum of 761 required by law, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the Election Board, said today.

The certification will be received at the County Board of Education meeting tonight at Lisbon. Then the school board must determine whether the question will be certified to the Election Board for a vote in November. The Election Board's initial action was solely to determine the number of valid signatures, O'Hanlon pointed out.

To obtain a ballot place for the issue, the law required the petitioners to obtain signatures representing 55 per cent of the 1,382 qualified voters who voted in the school district in the 1958 general election.

Twenty-four of the names were eliminated — 19 for non-residence or lack of other voting qualifications and 5 for similarity in handwriting. In a few instances, a husband evidently signed his wife's name in addition to his own, or vice versa, O'Hanlon pointed out.

Friday Night Meeting Set On Sewer Project

Council will meet in adjourned session Friday night at 7 to consider legislation for a blanket sanitary sewer project in Beechwood, which it was unable to pass Monday night for lack of enough votes.

With two members absent, only five with voting power were present—one short of the number required to enact legislation on one reading under suspension of rules. Councilmen H. A. Tullis and George E. Willshaw were absent.

Awaiting action are two enabling ordinances helping clear the way for sewering of parts of Bechwood St., Camp Alley, Center St., Division Alley, Reynolds St., Buston Alley, Haywood St., Vernia St. and Broad St.

Hiring Of Negro Teachers Again Pressed By NAACP

The East Liverpool Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Monday night ask, the Board of Education to integrate the teaching staff by employing Negro teachers.

The request was made by Caesar Peters, president, who headed a three-man delegation. The others were the Rev. W. L. Hafley, pastor of the Sheridan African Methodist Episcopal Church, and Oliver Spencer.

Pressed for an immediate answer on their attitude regarding the hiring of Negroes as teachers, the four board members present indicated they would follow the recommendation of Supt. Ralph W. Betts, who is charged by state law with making recommendations for teaching appointments.

The members — Leo C. Lawrence, president, Samuel W. Brown, James Lowe and James Moss — pointed out they would not be opposed if the Negro applicants are qualified and the best available for the position. C. Walter Ashbaugh, the fifth member, was absent.

The board members also explained they are not permitted under state law to hire any teacher unless he is recommended by the superintendent.

The lengthy session became heated once with Lawrence dalling for order after members said Peters attacked Betts' work and the NAACP officer countered that a reference to "pressure groups" was an attack on the organization.

In opening his remarks, Peters said he has met with Betts several times "but we have reached no

Shippingport Project In Congress Fund Bill

A proposed doubling of output of the Shippingport atomic power plant was a step nearer reality after Congress sent to President Eisenhower Monday an authorization bill for atomic energency construction.

The bill for $230 million includes $5 million for the Shippingport project. This amount will be used to improve reactor facilities and another $15 million will be required for increasing generating facilities.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the Duquesne Light Co. are negotiating on the amount the utility will put up to proceed with the project. The Westinghouse Co.'s atomic division is building a second furnace core for Shippingport.

116 New Parking Meters To Be Purchased By City

Acting on bids opened May 30, the Board of Control has decided to purchase 116 manually-operated parking meters for $5,069 from the Dual Parking Meter Division of the Rockwell Manufacturing Co. at Pittsburgh, Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross told Council Monday night.

The net price is $43.70, after deducting an $8 trade-in the city will receive on an equal number of old meters and a 5 per cent discount for cash, Ross explained. The gross price was $54.

The new devices will be used principally as replacements for some of the present 475 meters that were installed in September 1947, Ross said. However, a few will be installed on the east side of Market St. between E. 3rd and E. 4th Sts., where Council authorized metering a few months ago.

Ross said he expects to consult with the Council street committee before making final decisions on where the bulk of the meters will be installed.

He demonstrated to Council four of the meters on which the administration received bids and explained the reasons that led to the choice of the Dual meter.

The Duals can be set up to accept any combination of coins from a penny to a quarter for any time period, Ross said. Another consideration was the fact the Dual meter has a hooded coin slot, which prevents seepage of water and consequent freezing in cold weather, he added.

House Rejects Loha's Last-Minute Plea

Stricter Strip Mine Control Killed

By DUANE E. CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS — The slow death of a bill to drastically upgrade strip mine reclamation in Ohio came to an end in the 103rd General Assembly Monday night.

The House Mines and Natural Resources Committee spurned the last-ditch efforts of Rep. Joseph Loha (D-Jefferson) to gain a measure of improvement in the present reclamation law and voted 7-5 to postpone his bill indefinitely. That means it is dead.

—:—

EARLIER, however, it voted to transfer the Division of Reclamation from the Agriculture Department to the Department of Natural Resources and to remove the present limit of six on the number of enforcement officers the state may hire.

That bill also would allow the state to purchase lands strip mined before 1948 and reclaim them for state use or resale.

The action on the two bills was the climax to weeks of delay during which Loha and agriculture and conservation groups attempted to get the committee to agree to stricter reclamation requirements on strip mine operators.

The outlook was dim most of the way. Spokesmen for the operators apparently were able to convince most of the committee's members that the proposed legislation would hamper their competitive position with prohibitive costs.

As originally introduced, the doomed bill would have required the strippers to set aside 10 inches of topsoil before starting their operation. After the stripping was completed, they would have had to return the land as nearly as possible to its original contour and replace the topsoil.

WHEN IT became apparent that such a drastic program had no chance of getting out of the committee, Loha proposed a compromise which would have required coverage of the last cut of three feet above the vein and the sealing off of any breakthroughs from underground mining.

Pleading for this watered-down version in Monday night's meeting, Loha denied the operators' claim that it would cost 24 cents more a ton. He said the added cost would be no more than one or one and a half cents a ton.

"Stripping involves 27 counties or one-third of the state," Loha said. "It is a shame we are letting a third of the state go to waste."

He told the committee members they should think of all the citizens they represent and not "the few who speak for the coal strippers."

Rep. Frank J. Gorman (D-Cuyahoga), chairman of the subcommittee that considered the bills for weeks, replied that the five-man group had carefully considered Loha's compromise as well as the operators' testimony.

"Certainly we do not want to see these devastated lands around Ohio," he said. "But neither do we want to put the operators out of business unwittingly. The coal industry is a sick industry. Even if the operators were only half right in their estimate of what this proposal would cost, they would be in economic trouble."

APPROVAL of the bill to transfer the reclamation division was some consolation for advocates of stricter laws.

As originally introduced by the administration, it would have abolished the division and given its duties to the forestry division.

Conservationists charged that this would cripple reclamation completely because, they said, the forestry division is already overloaded with work.

Some farm groups and the Agriculture Department opposed even transferring the division, contending the lands should be returned if possible to farm use.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle favored the transfer because, he has said, many of the reclaimed lands can be used for other purposes more effectively.

In his state of the state message, he told the legislature some of the areas might be used for state parks.

the Western plan for restoring East and West Berlin as a united city through a free election.

In general, informants said, Lloyd spelled out Friday the sort of approach the Allies would like to use—on condition the Soviets withdraw their demand for a one-year limit on the Western occupation of Berlin.

Lloyd's starting point was that any new or revised arrangement must leave intact the right of the United States, Britain and France to go to the aid of West Berliners in case of threat.

The British minister also said he felt neither the Soviets nor the West had said the last word on the possibility of an accord at this conference.

Herter and Lloyd arranged to meet with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

West German sources said there is only a very small chance for a conference. If Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko does not drop his one-year deadline, they said, the only remaining task for the conference is to work out some kind of final statement.

The conference was in recess today.

Lloyd was reported to favor either a short recess—until about July 10—or an agreement on a summit conference to pick up negotiations where the foreign ministers drop them. Another possibility discussed by the West was a longer recess of perhaps two months.

But Soviet informants said Gromyko will not agree to a recess. They argued that the inability of the foreign ministers to work out a solution to the problems of divided Germany and isolated West Berlin only proves Khrushchev's argument that major East-West disputes can be resolved only by the government chiefs.

Western sources said if Gromyko does not shift his position by midweek, there will be no purpose in continuing the talks.

Council Scans Rules First

Diagonal Parking Proposal Revived For Consideration

A motion by Councilman Samuel B. Webber Monday night brought on one of Council's worst parliamentary tangles in years, but the Fourth Ward member won his point — street committee reconsideration of a proposal to establish angle parking on the west side of Washington St. between E. 5th St. and E. 3rd St.

Although his plan was voted down by Council several months ago, he brought it up again last night, explaining that he thought it deserved further study.

Councilman A. Stanley Kidder, who voted against the plan previously, immediately raised a point of order. He said Council rules provide that a rejected proposal can be brought up again only by a person who voted with the majority—in other words by one of the members who killed Webber's idea previously.

Webber replied that his proposal was not exactly the same as the one turned down in the earlier action. The new proposal would establish diagonal parking on the west side of the street in the two-block stretch from E. 5th St. to E. 3rd St., he said. Previously it covered only the block from E. 5th to E. 4th, he said.

Then he moved to refer the plan to the street committee "for further investigation."

Council President B. E. Warner, hurriedly scanning his book of rules, said that Council's Rule 24 provides "that any member who votes with the majority may move reconsideration of a question, but not later than the next regular meeting."

But Webber replied that his original proposal covered only the block between E. 5th and E. 4th St. The new plan takes in two blocks, so it is not the same idea that Council rejected previously, he reiterated.

Then Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. seconded Webber's motion, reserving the right to make remarks. He said when the street committee made the original investigation of Webber's proposal it contacted all the affected merchants, as is customary. Of the firms contacted, all were opposed to the change in parking, he said.

"As he says, it's a little different, but it's just the same thing to me," Kidder said. "I talked to several policemen who work on traffic. They said it would create the same problem of slowing traffic that we have now in the block of Washington St. between E. 6th and E. 5th Sts.

"With people moving in and out of parking spaces, and only one traffic lane open, it creates congestion on busy nights," Kidder continued. "I think it's more important to move the traffic. To me, it's a very poor idea. That's the same stand I took before."

Councilman William Y. Orr said that the additional street space occupied by the diagonally - parked cars would hamper turns at Washington St. and E. Drury Ln. by large vans making deliveries to the five furniture stores in the area.

"If one of those big trucks jack-knifes on that street, traffic is dead," Orr commented.

Warner put the motion to a voice vote.

Of the five members present, Webber and Sample voted "yes," Kidder and W. E. Kaiser voted "no" and Orr did not vote.

Kidder declared that the Council rules require a member to vote one way or another, not allowing him to abstain. Orr declared he has a right to abstain. He asked an off-hand opinion of Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper and was sustained.

Deciding to make the outcome more definite, Warner called for a show of hands.

This time, Sample, Orr and Webber voted in favor, with Kidder and Kaiser continuing to dissent. Warner declared the motion passed.

Later, he studied the rule book again and announced that Orr could not have been excused from voting, after all. Rule 10 says a member must vote on any question unless he is excused specifically, Warner said.

The Senate virtually completed legislative action on House-approved bills to:

Tighten the law regulating beauty parlors and schools of cosmetology.

Include certain food and beverage vending machines under the present food service inspection laws.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to require notification to defendants before a temporary restraining order may be issued in a labor dispute.

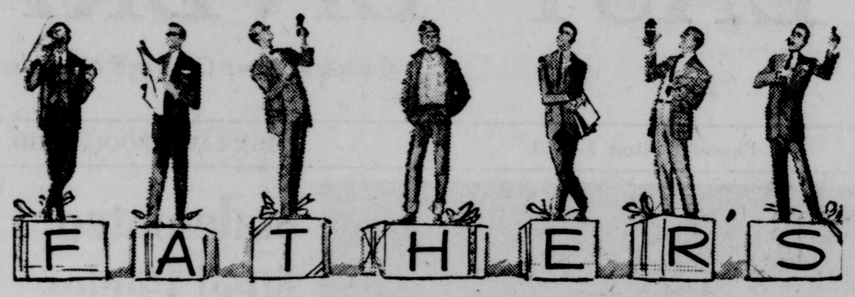

The tax front—so much in the news for weeks—was quiet except for a disclaimer from a Republican senator, Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain), that he intends to feather Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's tax nest.

Asserted Mosher in a prepared statement: "News stories out of Columbus on June 12 indicated that Gov. DiSalle looks to me as one of the two Republican senators 'behind the move' he believes will give him still more tax revenue, an added tax on bank deposits.

"If he is looking to me for that, e is looking in the wrong direction. I now oppose such a tax, for these two reasons:

"1. I believe this Legislature has already voted Mr. DiSalle as much new revenue as can be justified, and probably more than can be justified. . . . I have voted for his new taxes to the extent they seemed to me justified.

"2. The prime purpose for my suggestion, a month ago, that all financial institutions be taxed equally, can now no longer be accomplished. The banks deposits tax. . . I have thought of only as a part of a larger tax package, and that package has now been irreparably broken."

Awards Given At St. George Church Rites

Presentation of awards helped highlight a program Sunday which marked the 10th anniversary of the dedication of St. George's Serbian Orthodox Church at Midland.

Miss Marie Milanovich received a trophy from Bishop Dionisije of Libertyville, Ill., honoring her for 10 years' service. Similar awards were given to Miss Mildred Roslovic, assistant choir director, and Steve Roknich, tutor of the temple.

Past congregation presidents honored and presented awards were George Herak, Theodore Trbovich, Sylvester Vranes, Milan Borato, Pete Esapovich and Alex Krivoshia, also the present president.

Recent high school and college graduates of the congregation were given Bibles, dedication booklets, a diocese book and a special cross. Jo Ann Biach, Lincoln High School graduate, received a $50 Savings Bond.

Some 300 attended the dinner Sunday in the Serbian National Home and a picnic later at Crucible Park. Music for both was provided by the Plavi Jadran Orchestra of Cleveland.

Observance of the anniversary began Saturday evening with vesper services and a supper for Bishop Dionisije and clergyman.

The Pontifical Divine Liturgy Sunday was by Bishop Dionisije, assisted by guest clergymen and Fr. Milorad Dobrota. A parastos was read in memory of the congregation's deceased members. The Dr. Laza Kostich Choir sang responses.

During the dinner, movies of the 1959 church dedication were shown and commented on by Steve Trbovich, toastmaster. Both Bishop Dionisije and Rep. Clark were guest speakers.

Constable Injured In Courthouse Mishap

He was injured when he fell partially through a hole in the floor of a narrow passageway linking the Courthouse with the County Jail yesterday about 11:30.

He was listed in "good" condition at the Weirton General Hospital and is being treated for scratches of the left leg and a bruised shoulder.

It is believed that Constable Manypenny stepped into a hole in the floor of the wooden structure because of a neck injury which may have prevented him from getting a clear view of his path.

Manypenny suffered a damaged vertebra in a traffic accident several weeks ago when a cruiser of the sheriff's office wrecked on Route 2 while enroute to an accident. Manypenny was a passenger. He has since been forced to wear a neck brace.

As Result Of Complaints

Water Line Policy Faces Study By Council, Board

Acting on complaints filed by Councilman A. Stanley Kidder, Council decided Monday night to request members of the Board of Public Utilities to appear at the next meeting July 6 to discuss the city's policy in extending water lines beyond the corporate limits and particularly if it attempts to anticipate future growth in the size of its mains.

Kidder charged that he has received complaints that the Board of Public Utilities, which administers the water system, does not install adequate mains when it runs service into new residential areas. As an example, he cited the Broadview Circle development just off St. Clair Ave. near the city limits.

ACTING ON his complaints, Council asked Clerk Ray Goodman to send a letter to the utilities board inviting its members to a meeting at 7:30 p. m. July 6. It suggested that the board bring along three top water officials, Supt. Frank K. Robinson, Donald Duke, his assistant, and Harold Peterson, head of the distribution department. Members of the board are W. O. Schneider, F. J. Cloran and Robert P. Guyton.

Kidder charged, in effect, that water service in the Broadview Circle area now is inadequate because of the diameter of the main and that the supply will become worse because a new housing development is beginning in the area that will draw its water from the same line. He said complaints were given to him by affected householders who already had complained to the water department.

He started the discussion by raising a question: "When the water department goes outside the city limits with a new line, does it get Council authority or does it have the authority to perform the work on its own?"

SOLICITOR Joseph W. Cooper said he believes the policy always has been for the water department to act on its own authority for lack of a rule to the contrary.

"I think that should change," Kidder replied. "They have put in inadequate lines. I think they should be required to put in lines that would be big enough to take care of any future construction in the area the new main will serve.

"I have had complaints of that condition from Broadview Circle," Kidder continued. "I think before they run any new lines or permit anyone else to hook onto an existing main they should be required to provide adequate service. It's pathetic the service the people have there."

Councilman Samuel B. Webber made the motion to request the meeting with the water board and it was approved unanimously. At the same time, Council and the water department officials can discuss any problems that will arise with the utility's lines along the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd.," which is scheduled for blacktop resurfacing soon, Webber said.

Teacher Association Points To Need For Salary Boosts

The East Liverpool Teachers Association requested the Board of Education Monday night to ask passage of a 4-mill levy for operating funds and possible salary increases for teachers, setting its goal at $5,600 for those with bachelor degrees and $6,000 for those with master's degrees.

The requests were made by Austen Moore, president, and Michael Misconish, treasurer.

In making the recommendations, Misconish pointed out the city school system ranks 124th among 138 cities in Ohio on salaries.

He said the suggested salaries couldn't be obtained even with passage of the levy, but were goals for which to strive.

The present maximums after 12 years' experience are $4,800 for teachers with bachelor degrees and $5,200 for those with master's degrees.

Leo C. Lawrence, president, pointed out the board received a recommendation from the Citizens Committee for Better Schools early in May that it seeks renewal of an 8-mill levy and an additional 4 mills for operating funds.

No decision has been reached yet, he said, pointing out many problems still must be resolved.

Other members, James Moss, Samuel Brown and James Lowe, concurred.

Moore commented the association hopes to work closely with the board on school problems and wants to assist in any way possible.

Trustees Get Number Plan

Tentative street numbers for homes and lots along 11 St. Clair Township streets north of the city were submitted at a meeting of the township trustees Monday night.

Streets parallel to St. Clair Ave. would have numbers starting around 3200, while streets intersecting St. Clair Ave. would have numbers starting in the 100's east and west.

The trustees will study the numbering further.

They accepted the plat of the second addition of Frank Fisher in Elmhurst Acres, behind the first addition along the Smiths Ferry-Calcutta Rd. The plat includes an 1,100-foot street named Fisher Ave.

The trustees approved installation of a 10-inch sewer under St. Clair Ave. at Thompson Rd. to improve water drainage.

It was announced residents may order oil for roads until the next meeting of the trustees Monday night. Arrangements for buying and application of the oil are made through the trustees.

Buckeye Pennsylvania Crude Oil Is Boosted

OIL CITY, Pa. (AP) — Quaker State Refining Co. today began paying producers of Buckeye Pennsylvania grade crude oil 22 cents more a barrel, upping the price to $3.47 a barrel.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jill Klumpp, 17-year-old daughter of Edythe Klumpp, will probably be called as a state witness at her mother's first degree murder trial.

That will mean Mrs. Klumpp's daughter, her divorced husband, Robert, and the man she wanted to marry, will be required by prosecution subpenas to testify in the trial which entered its second week Monday.

Hamilton County Prosecutor C. Watson Hover said he will probably call Jill, a Withrow High School student, to testify about seeing blood on her mother's clothing the evening the state claims Mrs. Klumpp, 41, killed Louise Bergen, 32.

Mrs. Klumpp is accused of shooting and bludgeoning Mrs. Bergen in the Klumpp car on a secluded street here because Mrs. Bergen would not divorce her husband, William.

The prosecution says she kept the body in the trunk of her car overnight and burned it the next day at a lake 45 miles away.

Bergen is scheduled as a state witness, probably late this week, but there was no immediate indication when Klumpp or his daughter would testify.

Meanwhile, the date Mrs. Klumpp bought gasoline used to burn Mrs. Bergen's body looms as a key point in the state charge of premeditated murder.

More people have bought The Lark than any other newly introduced car, in the same period of time. (People from all walks of life.) Prices start hundreds of dollars below the low-priced three. The Lark is shorter outside, bigger inside, fashion-approved by Harper's Bazaar. Spirited performance from economical engines (the V-8 goes from 0 to 60 miles an hour in 9.5 seconds—outscored all V-8's in the Mobilgas Run with 22.28 miles-per-gallon). It's today's greatest value!
